Missionary Societies will unite in making this program a success. A very interesting program was given after which a delicious luncheon was served by the charwomen hostesses.

The Pythian Sisters were delightfully entertained at the home of Mrs. Mae Hilley yesterday afternoon, with Mrs. Dora Rose assisting as hostess. The afternoon was pleasantly spent at "500," with

Prize Essay Written by Ella Neiderer

On February 12, the anniversary of Abraham Lincoln's birthday, almost a century has passed in the high school that Ella Neiderer, Senior class member, had won first prize in an essay contest conducted.

The prize winning essay, judged by carefully selected judges, is as follows:

LINCOLN, THE MAN (By Ella Neiderer)

No man is truly great who fails to recognize the good qualities in others of his fellowmen, or who is not willing to aid others who have not been as fortunate as he. No man is great, who is not willing to sacrifice that he might protect and defend others from injury, when he has the opportunity to do so.

Although Lincoln was blamed, often times falsely, for a great many things during his administration as President of the United States, if the truth were known, it would be plain to see that he often sacrificed that he might save others. He allowed himself to be misunderstood and abused rather than see his friends lose their high standing in social and political life.

Lincoln understood men. His sympathy for human nature made him really and truly understand a great number of things which the unsympathetic and self-centered man never sees. A man could not be so high or so low that Lincoln could not meet him.

Cabinet officers, members of Congress, and generals laid their feet before him. The wife whose husband lay languishing in prison for a year did not come in vain to ask for exchange or forgiveness. The mother, whose weary son fell asleep while on sentry duty and had been condemned to be shot for neglect of duty, came to Mr. Lincoln, and went away with tears of thankfulness streaming from her eyes. In fact, the very best of men who scrubbed the steps were able to have audience with Lincoln. Lincoln was indeed a man of the people and a man for the people.

Lincoln's path to greatness was not marked by instances of ease and opportunity. As a child, his struggles for an education were marked with many a hardship, but through his mother's aid, and influence, and his own perseverance, he was able to gain the highest position in the United States. All through his childhood he was obedient, kind, and cooperative. As the poet Milton said: "The childhood shows the man. As morning shows the day." So it was with our martyr president. Though we marvel at the beauty of his language, and wonder how a boy of an uneducated man learned it, may not the key in the old Bible that Nancy Hanks taught her boy to read in the lonely Kentucky cabin, whose very picture suggests humbleness and simplicity.

Lincoln was a part of the man as natural as his melancholy, or his readiness of seeing things clearly and stating them so that everybody could understand. The reason for his impressiveness was that it was, no kind, although it was not without satire, for there was a great amount of it, but it was usually in a clear and friendly light. It found its expression in the common things which every one was able to understand.

At the death of Abraham Lincoln, each individual felt that he had lost a just, a wise, and patient personal friend. It was said of Washington that he was "first in war, first in peace, and first in the hearts of his countrymen," but the last phrase belongs peculiarly to Lincoln. Beyond all doubt Abraham Lincoln is the most beloved of all Americans. There are, it may be, sections of the country in which he is not fully appreciated, but he is beyond controversy the first of Americans. Washington is respected; Franklin is commended; Jefferson is admired; but Lincoln is beloved.

They Paid $200,000,000 for Studebaker cars last year

Find out why folks did it

LAST year 145,000 people paid over $200,000,000 for Studebaker cars. The demand for these cars has almost tripled in three years. It has become the sensation of Motordom. There is a new situation in the fine-car field. You should learn what it means to you.

Studebaker had to lead in this field. This concern has led in its lines for two generations. Any other place would be unfitting. This is how we became the world's largest builders of quality cars. $90,000,000 assets. Studebaker has $90,000,000 of assets. Of this $50,000,000 is invested in modern plants and equipment. We have spent $32,000,000 for new plants and equipment during the last five years. So they are modern and efficient. They contain 12,500 up-to-date machines. We have $8,000,000 in drop forge plants, $10,000,000 more in body plants. So we build complete cars without paying other makers profits.

We spend $500,000 yearly on an engineering staff. There are 125 skilled men employed in our department of Research and Experiment. They make 500,000 tests per year. We employ 1,200 inspectors. Each Studebaker car must pass 30,000 inspections during manufacture before it leaves the factory. Those enormous facilities enabled us to produce the utmost in a car. And we had the will to do it. No stinted costs. We never stint on costs. Every steel used is the best steel for its purpose, regardless of the price.

Then on same steels we pay makers a 15 per cent bonus to insure exactness in them. Every Studebaker car is Timken-equipped. The Special-Six and the Big-Six have more Timken bearings than any car selling under $5,600 in America. The Light-Six more than any competitive car within $1,000 of its price. We use genuine leather upholstery. We use Chase-Mohair for the closed car upholstery. Some good upholstery would cost $100 less. To curb vibration, we machine all surfaces of crank shafts, as was done in Liberty Airplane Motors. Very few cars do that. How such prices? How can we give such extra values—scores of them—yet sell at our low prices? Because these values brought us buyers—145,000 last year. The major extra costs are divided by enormous output. Let us show you the extras you get, because of these matchless facilities.
