Broad Humor in Hoxie Picture Showing At Sherrys.

"The Campbells Are Coming" is the tune which old Jim McDonald is generally playing when Jack Stokes, the lovelorn young man, impersonated by Jack Hoxie, is round about casting sheep's eyes towards the pretty girls. McDonald is a confirmed misanthrope with not much faith in women; or at any rate he is a broad humorist. He has the knowledge of experience. He knows very well that a handsome young fellow like Jack is bound sooner or later to fall in love although Jack disavows the soft impeachment; the old piper pipes, "The Campbells Are Coming," the Campbells being pretty girls, of course.

Now we do not tell you anything about the plot of this beautiful picture, which is to be shown at the Sherry theatre today only so you had best go and see it for yourself. It is a Hoxie winner, supervised in the production by Ben Wilson, directed and written by Roy Clements, well photographed and thoroughly well acted. If you want to see a beautiful, thrilling, and striking Western, go and see "Sparks and Flint."

A two reel comedy is also being shown.

Accident Averted In Filming of "To the Last Man."

A stout willow sapling recently saved Lois Wilson, Paramount featured player, from being thrown from her horse fifty feet down a rocky precipice while riding out to location in the Tonto Basin, Arizona.

Miss Wilson plays the role of Ellen Jorth in the Paramount production "To the Last Man," which will be shown at the Arcade theatre tomorrow, and the accident was caused by an insecure saddle cinch. As she felt the saddle slipping sideways, she seized a willow tree above her head which broke her fall and prevented both horse and rider from plunging over the cliff. Miss Wilson sustained a few minor bruises and was found by Richard Dix, also a featured player in the production, who was hurrying along the trail.

The other featured players are Noah Beery, Robert Edeson and Frank Campeau.

There are many scenes of great dramatic power while the live interest never lags.

Income Tax Tips

Heavy penalties are provided by the revenue act for failure or "wilful refusal" to make a required income tax return and pay the tax on time—on or before March 15, if the return is filed on a calendar year basis. If the taxpayer makes his return on the fiscal year basis it should be filed on or before the 15th day of the third months following the close of the fiscal year.

The failure to file a return on time a taxpayer becomes liable to a penalty of $1,000 and a further penalty of 25 per cent of the amount of the tax, unless the return is later filed and it is satisfactory shown to the Commissioner of Internal Revenue that the delinquency was due to a reasonable cause and not to wilful neglect. For wilful refusal to make a return and pay the tax on time a taxpayer becomes liable to a penalty of $10,000, or one year's imprisonment, or both, together with the cost of prosecution, and a penalty of 25 per cent of the amount of the tax.

When a return is made in good faith and an understanding of the amount of the tax thereon is due to no fault of the taxpayer, no penalty attaches, but interest attaches to the amount of the deficiency at the rate of 6 per cent a year. If the understatement is due to negligence — "absence of reasonable care under the circumstances"—there is to be added 5 per cent of the total amount of the deficiency, together with interest on the amount of the deficiency at the rate of 12 per cent a year from the time the tax was due, or if paid on the installment basis, on the deficiency of the installment from the time the installment was due. If the understatement is fraudulent with intent to evade the tax, the penalty is a fine of not more than $10,000, and imprisonment for not more than one year, together with the cost of prosecution, and an added assessment of 50 per cent of the amount of the deficiency.
