HUNT'S LETTER

the heavy odds he has held his bachelor status with the same resolute tenacity that he holds onto his genealogical certificate.

Tinkham's favorite sport is big game hunting in Africa. That is, in the off-seasons, when Congress is not in session. When Congress is on the job his favorite recreation is hitting the anti-saloon league and firing occasional volleys in favor of the return of wine and beer for the working man. For Tinkham doesn't believe his puritanical Puritan ancestors, for all their stern views of right and wrong, would have approved present-day prohibition. So he's against it.

As an added distinction, Tinkham qualifies as the baldest man in Congress and as the member with the most luxuriant whiskers.

Major Allen S. Fletcher, commanding the Peñon Barracks at Zamboanga, Philippine Islands, recently accompanied an air service squadron that made the flight back into the Moro country.

The planes were a cause of much astonishment to the old Moros who gathered about the birdmen and jabbered all sorts of questions. Fletcher, who can speak the dialect fluently, was approached by one old Datu who asked:

"When you were up there, so high, did you see Heaven?"
"Oh, yes," Fletcher answered. "We got a good look at it."
"Then why didn't you go there?" the Moro asked.

Fletcher had to think fast for a fitting answer. But he hit one: "Didn't have enough gasoline," he said.

One of the most serious-minded members of Congress used to make his living making other folks laugh. He is William Connery of Lynn, Mass.

Connery used to be a headliner in vaudeville. He gave that up to get to war and after serving in France with the Twenty-sixth (Yankee) division jumped into politics. While he was campaigning, he overheard one of his constituents remark: "We don't want a funny man in Congress." So he took out his joking and is trying to get the part of a properly dignified member. He is even studying law at nights, he's so serious about his job.

PENDLETON KLAN INITIATES MANY MEMBERS MONDAY

PENDLETON, Ore. (Special)—Under the light shed by a fiery cross in the arena at Round-Up park a class of more than 100 candidates were initiated into the Pendleton branch of the Ku Klux Klan Monday night in the first public ceremony ever held here. The grand stand was packed with people who attended to see the ceremony.

Preceding the ceremony, klansmen to the number of approximately 275, in costume, paraded from the hall on Main street to the Round-Up grounds. A few of the men were masked, but a majority of them marched in costume with their hoods open.

The streets were packed with people who were out to see the parade. A number of visitors were here from other towns, according to C. F. Kennedy, secretary. Flare crosses on both the north and south hills burned during the evening for several hours.

Following the parade and ceremonial a big banquet was served in the hall which was enjoyed by several hundred klansmen and their families.

Registrars Warn English Girls Against Marrying Foreigners

LONDON, (AP)—The increasing number of marriages between English girls and men of foreign nationality is viewed with some alarm by the authorities.

"These mixed marriages mostly take place in registrars' offices, but many occur in churches. We are bound by law to marry them," said a registrar, "and all we can do is to point out to the bride the seriousness of the marriage and give her some idea of the customs prevailing in the country to which the man belongs. From my experience not one in ten of these mixed marriages turns out happily."
