

PARDON LATE IN GRIM RACE

Burglar War Hero Pardoned for Patriotic Crime—But Death De-feated Pardon.

PARRIS (AP)— Jean Baptiste Travail, a lifetime burglar, died recently on the Island of Re, a convict awaiting transportation to the Island to serve a sentence of 20 years. Had he lived a few weeks longer, pardoned and freed he might have been recruited by Paris as the hero of one of the most dramatic episodes of counter espionage during the war which brought to the French high command most valuable information.

Early curfew laws and stern police surveillance in France after the beginning of hostilities made Paris unattractive to Travail, a chosen profession and he emigrated to Switzerland. While at Bern he learned that in the case of the Austrian ambassador to Switzerland there could be found documents which if in the hands of the French war effort would prove of incalculable assistance in fighting espionage within French frontiers.

Without committing any one, requesting no substance or protection, Travail gained entrance to the Austrian embassy one night and was confronted with one of the most modern safes in the world which an infernal machine had exploded the previous day. It was tampered with had been attacked. Travail simply turned the safe around and went to work from the rear.

Nitro-glycerine was out of the question and Travail had to work with drills which he adapted to the electric light on the ambassador's desk.

Travail was breaking when the patriotic burglar finally obtained possession of the documents and the caretaker was just entering to clean the office. He dodged a couple of bullets, jumped through a rear window and at 10 o'clock that morning he presented to the officer in charge of the French counter espionage in Switzerland a full list of German and Austrian spies operating in France and another of those working in Italy. This occurred in 1917 and was greatly instrumental in causing the arrest of numerous spies and the breaking up of the German espionage system in France.

Travail refused to accept any re-arrangement whatsoever from the French government. He also failed to turn over to the officer along with the documents a sum of $20,000 lire which had been in the ambassador's safe.

During the long trial which resulted in his conviction and April Travail, with great fortitude, refrained from referring to the Bern episode. He kept his cool once in good humor by his bright narrative of his career in the American and his subsequent escape from the ship while lying at the Azores, when manacled and chained, he jumped through a port hole and swam ashore.

It was only when a shadow of death fell upon him to learn that he would be pardoned. The pardon was on President Millerand's desk and would have been signed in the course of a day or two when he died.

CONDITIONS ARE NORMAL NOW AT JOSEPH, OREGON

JOSEPH, Ore. (Special to the Observer)—E. F. McNulty, of the First Bank of Joseph, reports that business at the present time is no different than it is anywhere else, but he states the future looks quite prosperous for this territory.

Joseph is one part of Wallawa county that has been comparatively free of sickness during the past winter.

The Astor road has opened its doors to the public and is now prepared to serve their customers.

WASHINGTON TO HAVE BIG TRACK MEET MAY 16-17

PELLHAM, Wash. (AP)—Horse-racing from all parts of the state and a better class field of sports is expected in the annual state high school track and field meet to be held here May 16 and 17 next, with the adoption of a new system of selecting the entrants.

RED PEPPER HEAT ENDS RHEUMATISM

Red Pepper Rub takes the "ouch" from sore, stiff, aching joints. It cannot hurt you, and it certainly stops that old rheumatic torture at once. When you are suffering so you can hardly get around, just try Red Pepper Rub and you will have the quickest relief known. Nothing has such concentrated, penetrating heat as red peppers. Just as soon as you apply Red Pepper Rub you will feel the tingling heat. In three minutes it warms the sore spot through and through. Pain and soreness are gone. Ask any good druggist for a jar of Bowles Red Pepper Rub. Be sure to get the genuine, with the name Bowles on each package.

AGED RUNNER ISSUES DEFT

John L. Sullivan—not the Boxer—Is Ready to Race "Any Distance"

(By Chester Bohn)
SYRACUSE, N. Y. (ING)—John L. Sullivan, "Marcellus Miles Man," has issued a challenge, open to any professional in New York state, for a distance run. Sullivan said that he would leave the matter of distance to his opponent, but added that a race of five, ten or fifteen miles was all the same to him.

Sullivan issued an offer of the greatest distance runner of all times. The sturdy Central New York veteran celebrated his fifty-third birthday for winning for the fourth time in thirteen years, the five mile run of the Eastern Athletic club, of this city.

Sullivan, namesake of the late world's champion heavyweight pugilist, is a record of physical development and a living example of the effects of continued consistent training. For nearly forty years the Marcellus speed merchant has been in the spotlight, and he has raced against some of the best runners in England, Australia, Canada and America ever hunted.

Won Early Starts.
Back in his early youth, Sullivan began to show his heels to ambitious competitors when he appeared at the age of thirteen years in a sprint match near London. He had a good start, and he was the first runner in England, among them Crowley and Palling, the best Sullivan, then an unknown, gave a thrilling exhibition of his ability by winning a fifteen mile race without the slightest difficulty.

From that time to the present day Sullivan has been rated a dangerous competitor in every race in which he has competed. The shrewdly determined Marcellus distance annihilator followed his success in England with a tour of the United Kingdom and later visited Australia, where he became a top-notch runner. He came to America a quarter of a century ago and since that time has been making a name for himself on the long-distance circuit.

"I must have been a natural runner," declared Sullivan recently. "From my early youth I preferred running to any other form of amusement or entertainment. I cannot remember when I first began to train, but I do know there never has been any lull of great length. For forty years I have been in training and am in condition to start a five, ten or fifteen mile race as a matter of course."

"There is no secret to my method. I get up at daylight, winter and summer, and hit the roads for ten or twelve miles. Then I start my little work on the farm. If I feel good at the end of the day's work I take my bicycle for a spin of ten or fifteen miles, but I always make sure to be in bed soon after sunset."

"Plenty of sleep, plain food, well cooked, and with the little meal, are the greatest aids to good conditioning. I get hardly three hours a day, but make the holiday meal consist only of vegetables and other light food."

"I have never had the slightest trouble with my heart or stomach. That's because I never was my strength nor overdid in training. I have beaten some of the best runners in the world, because of the superior conditioning. I can start at a pace that would eliminate the ordinary runner in a quarter of a mile and keep it up quite after mile. That's my secret. I can have any."

"I expect to keep running for twenty years," said Sullivan recently.

Diamond Market Picking Up.
LONDON (AP)—The first few weeks of the year are always good for the precious stone merchants as traders generally replace their stocks which have been depleted by the Christmas and New Year trade.

This year there is said to have been a greater demand than ever for diamonds and other valuable stones, and last week $1,250,000 worth of "rough" stones were sold. The bulk going into the hands of American cutters. The biggest demand is for cheap and medium grade diamonds, but much money is being put into pearl ropes and necklaces, one string alone being sold last week for $200,000.

From that time to the present day Sullivan has been rated a dangerous competitor in every race in which he has competed. The shrewdly determined Marcellus distance annihilator followed his success in England with a tour of the United Kingdom and later visited Australia, where he became a top-notch runner. He came to America a quarter of a century ago and since that time has been making a name for himself on the long-distance circuit.

"I must have been a natural runner," declared Sullivan recently. "From my early youth I preferred running to any other form of amusement or entertainment. I cannot remember when I first began to train, but I do know there never has been any lull of great length. For forty years I have been in training and am in condition to start a five, ten or fifteen mile race as a matter of course."

"There is no secret to my method. I get up at daylight, winter and summer, and hit the roads for ten or twelve miles. Then I start my little work on the farm. If I feel good at the end of the day's work I take my bicycle for a spin of ten or fifteen miles, but I always make sure to be in bed soon after sunset."

"Plenty of sleep, plain food, well cooked, and with the little meal, are the greatest aids to good conditioning. I get hardly three hours a day, but make the holiday meal consist only of vegetables and other light food."

"I have never had the slightest trouble with my heart or stomach. That's because I never was my strength nor overdid in training. I have beaten some of the best runners in the world, because of the superior conditioning. I can start at a pace that would eliminate the ordinary runner in a quarter of a mile and keep it up quite after mile. That's my secret. I can have any."

"I expect to keep running for twenty years," said Sullivan recently.

Diamond Market Picking Up.
LONDON (AP)—The first few weeks of the year are always good for the precious stone merchants as traders generally replace their stocks which have been depleted by the Christmas and New Year trade.

This year there is said to have been a greater demand than ever for diamonds and other valuable stones, and last week $1,250,000 worth of "rough" stones were sold. The bulk going into the hands of American cutters. The biggest demand is for cheap and medium grade diamonds, but much money is being put into pearl ropes and necklaces, one string alone being sold last week for $200,000.

From that time to the present day Sullivan has been rated a dangerous competitor in every race in which he has competed. The shrewdly determined Marcellus distance annihilator followed his success in England with a tour of the United Kingdom and later visited Australia, where he became a top-notch runner. He came to America a quarter of a century ago and since that time has been making a name for himself on the long-distance circuit.

"I must have been a natural runner," declared Sullivan recently. "From my early youth I preferred running to any other form of amusement or entertainment. I cannot remember when I first began to train, but I do know there never has been any lull of great length. For forty years I have been in training and am in condition to start a five, ten or fifteen mile race as a matter of course."

"There is no secret to my method. I get up at daylight, winter and summer, and hit the roads for ten or twelve miles. Then I start my little work on the farm. If I feel good at the end of the day's work I take my bicycle for a spin of ten or fifteen miles, but I always make sure to be in bed soon after sunset."

"Plenty of sleep, plain food, well cooked, and with the little meal, are the greatest aids to good conditioning. I get hardly three hours a day, but make the holiday meal consist only of vegetables and other light food."

"I have never had the slightest trouble with my heart or stomach. That's because I never was my strength nor overdid in training. I have beaten some of the best runners in the world, because of the superior conditioning. I can start at a pace that would eliminate the ordinary runner in a quarter of a mile and keep it up quite after mile. That's my secret. I can have any."

"I expect to keep running for twenty years," said Sullivan recently.

AGED RUNNER ISSUES DEFT

John L. Sullivan—not the Boxer—Is Ready to Race "Any Distance"

(By Chester Bohn)
SYRACUSE, N. Y. (ING)—John L. Sullivan, "Marcellus Miles Man," has issued a challenge, open to any professional in New York state, for a distance run. Sullivan said that he would leave the matter of distance to his opponent, but added that a race of five, ten or fifteen miles was all the same to him.

Sullivan issued an offer of the greatest distance runner of all times. The sturdy Central New York veteran celebrated his fifty-third birthday for winning for the fourth time in thirteen years, the five mile run of the Eastern Athletic club, of this city.

Sullivan, namesake of the late world's champion heavyweight pugilist, is a record of physical development and a living example of the effects of continued consistent training. For nearly forty years the Marcellus speed merchant has been in the spotlight, and he has raced against some of the best runners in England, Australia, Canada and America ever hunted.

Won Early Starts.
Back in his early youth, Sullivan began to show his heels to ambitious competitors when he appeared at the age of thirteen years in a sprint match near London. He had a good start, and he was the first runner in England, among them Crowley and Palling, the best Sullivan, then an unknown, gave a thrilling exhibition of his ability by winning a fifteen mile race without the slightest difficulty.

From that time to the present day Sullivan has been rated a dangerous competitor in every race in which he has competed. The shrewdly determined Marcellus distance annihilator followed his success in England with a tour of the United Kingdom and later visited Australia, where he became a top-notch runner. He came to America a quarter of a century ago and since that time has been making a name for himself on the long-distance circuit.

"I must have been a natural runner," declared Sullivan recently. "From my early youth I preferred running to any other form of amusement or entertainment. I cannot remember when I first began to train, but I do know there never has been any lull of great length. For forty years I have been in training and am in condition to start a five, ten or fifteen mile race as a matter of course."

"There is no secret to my method. I get up at daylight, winter and summer, and hit the roads for ten or twelve miles. Then I start my little work on the farm. If I feel good at the end of the day's work I take my bicycle for a spin of ten or fifteen miles, but I always make sure to be in bed soon after sunset."

"Plenty of sleep, plain food, well cooked, and with the little meal, are the greatest aids to good conditioning. I get hardly three hours a day, but make the holiday meal consist only of vegetables and other light food."

"I have never had the slightest trouble with my heart or stomach. That's because I never was my strength nor overdid in training. I have beaten some of the best runners in the world, because of the superior conditioning. I can start at a pace that would eliminate the ordinary runner in a quarter of a mile and keep it up quite after mile. That's my secret. I can have any."

"I expect to keep running for twenty years," said Sullivan recently.

Diamond Market Picking Up.
LONDON (AP)—The first few weeks of the year are always good for the precious stone merchants as traders generally replace their stocks which have been depleted by the Christmas and New Year trade.

This year there is said to have been a greater demand than ever for diamonds and other valuable stones, and last week $1,250,000 worth of "rough" stones were sold. The bulk going into the hands of American cutters. The biggest demand is for cheap and medium grade diamonds, but much money is being put into pearl ropes and necklaces, one string alone being sold last week for $200,000.

From that time to the present day Sullivan has been rated a dangerous competitor in every race in which he has competed. The shrewdly determined Marcellus distance annihilator followed his success in England with a tour of the United Kingdom and later visited Australia, where he became a top-notch runner. He came to America a quarter of a century ago and since that time has been making a name for himself on the long-distance circuit.

"I must have been a natural runner," declared Sullivan recently. "From my early youth I preferred running to any other form of amusement or entertainment. I cannot remember when I first began to train, but I do know there never has been any lull of great length. For forty years I have been in training and am in condition to start a five, ten or fifteen mile race as a matter of course."

"There is no secret to my method. I get up at daylight, winter and summer, and hit the roads for ten or twelve miles. Then I start my little work on the farm. If I feel good at the end of the day's work I take my bicycle for a spin of ten or fifteen miles, but I always make sure to be in bed soon after sunset."

"Plenty of sleep, plain food, well cooked, and with the little meal, are the greatest aids to good conditioning. I get hardly three hours a day, but make the holiday meal consist only of vegetables and other light food."

"I have never had the slightest trouble with my heart or stomach. That's because I never was my strength nor overdid in training. I have beaten some of the best runners in the world, because of the superior conditioning. I can start at a pace that would eliminate the ordinary runner in a quarter of a mile and keep it up quite after mile. That's my secret. I can have any."

"I expect to keep running for twenty years," said Sullivan recently.

Diamond Market Picking Up.
LONDON (AP)—The first few weeks of the year are always good for the precious stone merchants as traders generally replace their stocks which have been depleted by the Christmas and New Year trade.

This year there is said to have been a greater demand than ever for diamonds and other valuable stones, and last week $1,250,000 worth of "rough" stones were sold. The bulk going into the hands of American cutters. The biggest demand is for cheap and medium grade diamonds, but much money is being put into pearl ropes and necklaces, one string alone being sold last week for $200,000.

From that time to the present day Sullivan has been rated a dangerous competitor in every race in which he has competed. The shrewdly determined Marcellus distance annihilator followed his success in England with a tour of the United Kingdom and later visited Australia, where he became a top-notch runner. He came to America a quarter of a century ago and since that time has been making a name for himself on the long-distance circuit.

"I must have been a natural runner," declared Sullivan recently. "From my early youth I preferred running to any other form of amusement or entertainment. I cannot remember when I first began to train, but I do know there never has been any lull of great length. For forty years I have been in training and am in condition to start a five, ten or fifteen mile race as a matter of course."

"There is no secret to my method. I get up at daylight, winter and summer, and hit the roads for ten or twelve miles. Then I start my little work on the farm. If I feel good at the end of the day's work I take my bicycle for a spin of ten or fifteen miles, but I always make sure to be in bed soon after sunset."

"Plenty of sleep, plain food, well cooked, and with the little meal, are the greatest aids to good conditioning. I get hardly three hours a day, but make the holiday meal consist only of vegetables and other light food."

"I have never had the slightest trouble with my heart or stomach. That's because I never was my strength nor overdid in training. I have beaten some of the best runners in the world, because of the superior conditioning. I can start at a pace that would eliminate the ordinary runner in a quarter of a mile and keep it up quite after mile. That's my secret. I can have any."

"I expect to keep running for twenty years," said Sullivan recently.

AGED RUNNER ISSUES DEFT

John L. Sullivan—not the Boxer—Is Ready to Race "Any Distance"

(By Chester Bohn)
SYRACUSE, N. Y. (ING)—John L. Sullivan, "Marcellus Miles Man," has issued a challenge, open to any professional in New York state, for a distance run. Sullivan said that he would leave the matter of distance to his opponent, but added that a race of five, ten or fifteen miles was all the same to him.

Sullivan issued an offer of the greatest distance runner of all times. The sturdy Central New York veteran celebrated his fifty-third birthday for winning for the fourth time in thirteen years, the five mile run of the Eastern Athletic club, of this city.

Sullivan, namesake of the late world's champion heavyweight pugilist, is a record of physical development and a living example of the effects of continued consistent training. For nearly forty years the Marcellus speed merchant has been in the spotlight, and he has raced against some of the best runners in England, Australia, Canada and America ever hunted.

Won Early Starts.
Back in his early youth, Sullivan began to show his heels to ambitious competitors when he appeared at the age of thirteen years in a sprint match near London. He had a good start, and he was the first runner in England, among them Crowley and Palling, the best Sullivan, then an unknown, gave a thrilling exhibition of his ability by winning a fifteen mile race without the slightest difficulty.

From that time to the present day Sullivan has been rated a dangerous competitor in every race in which he has competed. The shrewdly determined Marcellus distance annihilator followed his success in England with a tour of the United Kingdom and later visited Australia, where he became a top-notch runner. He came to America a quarter of a century ago and since that time has been making a name for himself on the long-distance circuit.

"I must have been a natural runner," declared Sullivan recently. "From my early youth I preferred running to any other form of amusement or entertainment. I cannot remember when I first began to train, but I do know there never has been any lull of great length. For forty years I have been in training and am in condition to start a five, ten or fifteen mile race as a matter of course."

"There is no secret to my method. I get up at daylight, winter and summer, and hit the roads for ten or twelve miles. Then I start my little work on the farm. If I feel good at the end of the day's work I take my bicycle for a spin of ten or fifteen miles, but I always make sure to be in bed soon after sunset."

"Plenty of sleep, plain food, well cooked, and with the little meal, are the greatest aids to good conditioning. I get hardly three hours a day, but make the holiday meal consist only of vegetables and other light food."

"I have never had the slightest trouble with my heart or stomach. That's because I never was my strength nor overdid in training. I have beaten some of the best runners in the world, because of the superior conditioning. I can start at a pace that would eliminate the ordinary runner in a quarter of a mile and keep it up quite after mile. That's my secret. I can have any."

"I expect to keep running for twenty years," said Sullivan recently.

Diamond Market Picking Up.
LONDON (AP)—The first few weeks of the year are always good for the precious stone merchants as traders generally replace their stocks which have been depleted by the Christmas and New Year trade.

This year there is said to have been a greater demand than ever for diamonds and other valuable stones, and last week $1,250,000 worth of "rough" stones were sold. The bulk going into the hands of American cutters. The biggest demand is for cheap and medium grade diamonds, but much money is being put into pearl ropes and necklaces, one string alone being sold last week for $200,000.

From that time to the present day Sullivan has been rated a dangerous competitor in every race in which he has competed. The shrewdly determined Marcellus distance annihilator followed his success in England with a tour of the United Kingdom and later visited Australia, where he became a top-notch runner. He came to America a quarter of a century ago and since that time has been making a name for himself on the long-distance circuit.

"I must have been a natural runner," declared Sullivan recently. "From my early youth I preferred running to any other form of amusement or entertainment. I cannot remember when I first began to train, but I do know there never has been any lull of great length. For forty years I have been in training and am in condition to start a five, ten or fifteen mile race as a matter of course."

"There is no secret to my method. I get up at daylight, winter and summer, and hit the roads for ten or twelve miles. Then I start my little work on the farm. If I feel good at the end of the day's work I take my bicycle for a spin of ten or fifteen miles, but I always make sure to be in bed soon after sunset."

"Plenty of sleep, plain food, well cooked, and with the little meal, are the greatest aids to good conditioning. I get hardly three hours a day, but make the holiday meal consist only of vegetables and other light food."

"I have never had the slightest trouble with my heart or stomach. That's because I never was my strength nor overdid in training. I have beaten some of the best runners in the world, because of the superior conditioning. I can start at a pace that would eliminate the ordinary runner in a quarter of a mile and keep it up quite after mile. That's my secret. I can have any."

"I expect to keep running for twenty years," said Sullivan recently.

Diamond Market Picking Up.
LONDON (AP)—The first few weeks of the year are always good for the precious stone merchants as traders generally replace their stocks which have been depleted by the Christmas and New Year trade.

This year there is said to have been a greater demand than ever for diamonds and other valuable stones, and last week $1,250,000 worth of "rough" stones were sold. The bulk going into the hands of American cutters. The biggest demand is for cheap and medium grade diamonds, but much money is being put into pearl ropes and necklaces, one string alone being sold last week for $200,000.

From that time to the present day Sullivan has been rated a dangerous competitor in every race in which he has competed. The shrewdly determined Marcellus distance annihilator followed his success in England with a tour of the United Kingdom and later visited Australia, where he became a top-notch runner. He came to America a quarter of a century ago and since that time has been making a name for himself on the long-distance circuit.

"I must have been a natural runner," declared Sullivan recently. "From my early youth I preferred running to any other form of amusement or entertainment. I cannot remember when I first began to train, but I do know there never has been any lull of great length. For forty years I have been in training and am in condition to start a five, ten or fifteen mile race as a matter of course."

"There is no secret to my method. I get up at daylight, winter and summer, and hit the roads for ten or twelve miles. Then I start my little work on the farm. If I feel good at the end of the day's work I take my bicycle for a spin of ten or fifteen miles, but I always make sure to be in bed soon after sunset."

"Plenty of sleep, plain food, well cooked, and with the little meal, are the greatest aids to good conditioning. I get hardly three hours a day, but make the holiday meal consist only of vegetables and other light food."

"I have never had the slightest trouble with my heart or stomach. That's because I never was my strength nor overdid in training. I have beaten some of the best runners in the world, because of the superior conditioning. I can start at a pace that would eliminate the ordinary runner in a quarter of a mile and keep it up quite after mile. That's my secret. I can have any."

"I expect to keep running for twenty years," said Sullivan recently.

AND IN HORTICULTURE

The first fruit trees were brought into Union and Baker counties from Vancouver by Conrad Miller in 1832 and were sold at $1.00 each. These were mostly apples and pears.

Early in the history of this territory it was found that various sections were well adapted to the raising of apples, plums, prunes, and cherries and when the railroad stimulated transportation in 1884 it is reported that this territory took on new life and became noted for its horticultural products.

About 1900 it is reported that 202 carloads of fruit were shipped from La Grande, Union, Cove, Alsea and Summerville. The horticultural industry was then established on a firm foundation.

The total income from all fruits in Baker and Union counties now exceeds half a million dollars annually, the estimated value of the fruit crop in Union county alone being $467,570,000, according to the U. S. census for 1920. The Baker county fruit crop for 1923 was estimated at $60,000. The annual income from fruits in Union county is 10 per cent of the total income from sales of all farm products.

Apples and peaches form the majority of the fruit crop in Baker county, but the commercial base production in Union county shows four principal fruits. According to the U. S. bureau figures for 1922, Union county raised for commercial purposes 340,000 bushels of apples, 5,000 bushels of pears, 800,000 pounds of dried prunes and 1,900,000 pounds of cherries.

The interdependence of fruitgrowers and the Eastern Oregon Light and Power company is clearly seen when electric power is needed for pumping water, for spraying, for the operation of fruit box factories and fruit warehouses. Electric Light, Heat and Power is applicable in many ways for more economical production on the fruit farm.

6% MONEY

On Improved Union County Land
Write J. C. Palmer, 225 Henry Bldg. Portland - Ore.

Eastern Oregon Light & Power Company

Call Always At your Service

MONUMENTS

Gen. Carr's Memorial, Troy, N.Y.

ORDER THAT MONUMENT NOW

We have made a profound study of monument building, and an order placed in our hands is sure to receive faithful, intelligent execution.

We Will Gladly Furnish Estimates

Blue Mountain Marble Granite Company

1502 S. Ave., La Grande, Oregon

The Hotel Oregon

BROADWAY AT STARK PORTLAND, ORE.

YOU ARE ASSURED A PERSONAL HOSPITALITY AND INDIVIDUAL ATTENTION through the combined efforts of a staff, who after years of training, understand the needs of the traveling public.

MUSIC, DANCING and the BEST TO EAT AT.

YE Oregonville

ARTHUR H. MEYERS MANAGER

DO IT NOW! OWN YOUR HOME Start Today

If you want a strictly high-class home—
We Have It For Sale
If you want a medium class, modern home—
We Have It For Sale
If you want a cheap, small home—
We Have It For Sale
If you want a beautiful home for a party—
We Have It For Sale
If you want a farm, stock ranch, fruit ranch, chicken ranch, or a twenty-acre tract—
We Have It For Sale
If you want anything in the real estate or insurance line, talk it over with us before you buy.

PYRAMID LAND CO.

Main 725.
T. N. Ford, G. L. Berry, W. B. Berry
Bonded Realtors

Easy to Tune the HEACOCK Radiophone

It is the easiest radio to tune on the market to day. A slight turn of the dial and the result is startling. Perhaps the second sketch in this advertisement might seem overdrawn but operators of one of our radio sets have heard stations as far away as Havana, Cuba.

The Heacock Radiophone is as near perfection as they can be made at the present time. O. M. Heacock, who has over 15 years experimental experience, personally supervises their construction and many features that make it so perfect, are his own design. You must hear one to appreciate its value. Call us for a demonstration today.

We also handle other standard makes of radio.
Prices range from $30 to $300.

Heacock's Radio Service

Enterprise, Oregon.

SHERRY'S

SUNDAY - MONDAY - TUESDAY

Goldwyn presents
Victor Seastrom's production
"NAME THE MAN"

By Sir Hall Caine
Adapted from "The Master of Man"
Featuring
Conrad Nagel, Mae Busch, Patsy Ruth Miller, Robert Basow, Eileen Pringle, Creighton Hale

Comedy—"ROUGHING IT"