

NEWS of SOCIETY

Social news must be in the hands of the society editor by 9:30 o'clock. Due to the fact that the social page is made up before noon, it is practically impossible to insert stories after that hour. Hereafter, items, no matter how important, that are delayed beyond that hour, will not be printed until the following day—News Editor's Note.

The Monday Musical will meet this evening at 7:30 o'clock at the neighborhood club rooms. Many important details will come up at the business meeting and the following program will be given: "Nocturne Opus 9" No. 1, by Chopin, Mrs. Lee Reynolds; "The Carols" by Oranbach Lyman and "The Beautiful Eyes" by Edward McDowell, Neighborhood Club Societies, composed of Mrs. Earl Stoddard, Mrs. T. H. Maxwell, Mrs. A. W. Nelson, Mrs. Lester Stoddard, Mrs. Lee Bouvy and Mrs. David Stoddard; "I Love a Little Cottage" by Scott and "Nothing but Love" by Alway, Ray Williams, Opportunities and Possibilities of music, Mrs. C. I. Sykes; "The Heart of Her" by Chas. Wakefield Cadman and "Sylvia" by Oley Speaks, Mrs. T. R. Maxwell; "Dance de la Sae-Drage" by Tschalkowsky and "Torsador of Andalus" by Ruisenstein.

Everyone interested is cordially invited to attend.

A delightful afternoon is anticipated tomorrow afternoon when the Neighborhood club will meet and the afternoon's entertainment will take place in the form of a tea, with the officers, Mrs. J. H. Lynch, president; Mrs. C. H. Bidwell, first vice-president; Mrs. Bruce Dennis, second vice-president; Mrs. H. A. Zurbick, recording secretary and Mrs. H. E. Dixon, treasurer, as hostesses.

This is guest day and each member is requested to bring a guest.

Mrs. C. M. Riddle and Mrs. Clyde Davis will entertain the Parishdale club Wednesday afternoon, April 2, at the home of Mrs. Riddle in May Park.

Mrs. Paul Masser is visiting for a few days with her sister, Mrs. William Siegrist, and friends. Mrs. Masser is now employed in a Pendleton department store as decorator, where he and Mrs. Masser, both former La Grande residents, now make their home.

The Young Women's Educational Auxiliary of the Methodist church will meet tomorrow evening, April 1, at the home of Mrs. Sherwood Williams.

The Girls' Friendly Society will meet Wednesday evening, April 2, at 7:30 o'clock at the home of Miss Marjorie Warnick. At this meeting Miss Mae Nell will resume her talks on her travels and a very interesting evening is assured. All members are urged to be present.

The Thursday Auction Bridge club will meet with Mrs. Robert Pattison as hostess, Thursday afternoon, April 2.

Cove, (Special)—Prof. and Mrs. J. R. Price were host and hostess to a delightful banquet recently given in honor of the seniors of the high school. After a delicious banquet had been served the evening was very enjoyably spent at various clever games, arranged by Mr. and Mrs. Price.

The members of the class are Grace Geyette, Thelma Murphy, Mildred Richards and Bertha Harris; Marvin Daniel, Claire Smith and Ben Harris. The high school teachers, Miss Ethel Quinby and Miss Claudia Gate, were also present.

The home was beautifully decorated in the class colors, yellow and white and the event was one of absolute success.

Cove, (Special)—Mr. and Mrs. Chas. DeHaas and Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Sibley entertained Friday evening with a charming bridge party at the home of Mrs. DeHaas. Bridge was played at four tables after which a delicious luncheon was served.

The guests were Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Hefly, Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Harlow, Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Conklin, Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Orton, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Miller, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Carter, Miss Bess Kelly, F. H. Kelly and Miss Leona Hansen.

Hints for the Housewife

A PRACTICAL ANSWER TO A QUESTIONNAIRE

Some time ago a questionnaire was sent out to housewives in an endeavor to find out how they spent their time. It is to be confessed that in the great majority of cases the inquiry aroused only amused skepticism. Busy! of course they were busy. Every woman was occupied and they would not take time to answer questions which seemed to lead nowhere.

One woman, however, did take the trouble to fill out the blanks as well as she could and in the space left "observations" said: "As I suppose your object in this investigation is to help women to more leisure by systematizing their work, I wonder you have not asked them what means they have taken to simplify the cleaning-up process after meals. For myself I am sure I save much time and effort by a judicious choice of cooking utensils."

She was asked for more information on the point she mentioned. Her answer was "enameled ware," "This, as easily washed as crockery and practically unbreakable with any kind of care, she had found she could keep spotless and daintily attractive with a minimum of effort. So for once a questionnaire got a practical answer!"

The Garden

Thoughts About the Border.

In a great many homes, the ornamental border is the most convenient and most suitable method of flower growing, but it is a plan that requires considerable thought if it is to be a success. First of all, the background is of prime importance. Forming the screen upon which the colors of the brilliant annuals may be displayed. Shrubby is the finest kind of a background, but failing that, a certain of vines is an ideal arrangement and one very easy of arrangement. If the border is along the boundary fence it is the easiest sort of a trick to cover the fence with a variety of annual vines which will not only furnish the greenery, but in some cases beautiful bloom as well.

The width of the border is the next factor. For the best effect it should be of fairly good width, around six feet, but for practical effect four feet is about the proper width to permit convenient weeding and cultivation. If the border is to be six feet or more wide, a path should be left between the border and the fence to permit of cultivating and weeding from both sides. Along a walk a wider border is more practical than along a boundary fence.

Sufficient width should be allowed to permit good masses of the various annuals.

The height of the annuals is another factor—tall ones for the background, grading down to the dwarf growers for the foreground. It is a wise plan to bring the taller growing ettings to the front of the border occasionally to break up the monotony of too regular gradation.

And then there is the very important factor of color. This is a matter of individual taste in large measure and borders may be planted to a prevailing color, to chromatic scales or to harmonies and contrasts.

A color gradation found harmonious and practical starts with the purple, violet, and black at one end grading into oranges, scarlets and yellows, then into light and dark blues with yellow and pink groups for contrast and harmonies. White groups should not be too large, but are needed occasionally, particularly among the darker colors.

Scotch Plaid Popular Now In Gay Paree

Craze for Plaids Illustrated at Races Sunday at Auteuil, France.

AUTEUIL, France (By the Associated Press)—Muffled in furs or wrapped in cold weather coats instead of wearing the latest flimsy creations, 75,000 persons assembled at the Auteuil race track Sunday for the running of the president of the republic stakes. It appeared more like a gathering for Chamounix or Montreal winter sports than a crowd at a function generally regarded as the first outdoor display of the summer styles.

The thermometer's range for the afternoon was a steady decline from 4 to 2 above the freezing point.

An aged horse with a semi-Scotch name, Master Rob—no relation whatsoever to Master Robert II, winner of the Liverpool grand national on Friday—won the race by half a length after being well up throughout the entire distance of 4500 meters. He was favorite at 4 to 1 in a field of 13 starters.

Plaids Are Favored

Whenever the raw, chill wind succeeded in parting the folds of heavy fur coats, the women were seen mostly dressed in multi-colored Scotch tweed, in which all the clains were represented.

Followed costumes of plaid, tracks of printed crepes in plaid designs, even dresses of serge, were designed in big squares of many colors, recalling Scotland.

A real Scotch craze in dress has struck Paris, but this far it has not extended to shoes. Women covered in furs with necks, shoulders and bodies protected by the warmest garments, are still seen in footwear with tissue paper soles, the shoes being of the flexible variety, of the thinnest material.

Skirts appear to be somewhat shorter; at least they are not to be seen emerging from under the great coats. In hats, plaid ribbons are used as trimming on the brim which is covered with plaid silk while the crown is left a solid color. Some course straws were seen woven with plaid colors.

Legion Will Aid Orphans.

INDIANAPOLIS (AP).—The American Legion has announced a campaign to provide for "those who cannot ask for aid, and could not if they could," the orphans of war.

Through the sale of poppies, the official flower of the legion, during the week preceding Memorial day, it will collect funds for this welfare work, the care and education of the fast growing army of war orphans.

FLOOD WATERS ARE RECEDING

PITTSBURG (AP)—Flood waters are receding here after causing much damage to industrial plants.

Eight deaths in western Pennsylvania and five at Kittanning, Pa., from floods are reported.

CUMBERLAND, Md. (AP).—The flood waters of Willis creek and the Potomac river are receding to their channels, leaving scenes of desolation in their wake. Only one small section was under water in the city proper and the water was receding rapidly. Hedges and Dixie, however, two towns on the West Virginia side of the Potomac, remained inundated as was a wide area in the lower Potomac valley.

Miles of railroad track were washed away, two big steel bridges and a number of smaller structures were destroyed, while hundreds of buildings and houses were damaged and in some instances washed away.

Preparations were under way for relief work, but it was believed that local organizations would be able to handle the situation. Until the plans for relief work are put into operation, those in need are being cared for by the people of their respective communities.

Railroad traffic in and out of Cumberland was at a standstill. Five Baltimore & Ohio passenger trains, including the Capital Limited, were floodbound at various points, while one western Maryland train was stranded three miles west of Keyser, W. Va.

Roads Hard Hit.

The railroads were the heaviest hit by the flood. The four-span steel bridge of the Western Maryland across the Potomac here was swept away, as were other structures at Maple Run and Okimont, and its shops were under three feet of water. In addition to roadbeds and tracks of both Western Maryland and Baltimore & Ohio being destroyed.

many freight cars were washed away.

The greatest damage in Cumberland was the destruction of four miles of newly paved streets. Foundations of many buildings were weakened, plate glass windows broken and much damage to merchandise was caused by flooded basements.

In the territory adjacent to Cumberland, the greatest loss was the destruction of the interstate bridge connecting Western Port, Md., and Piedmont, W. Va. That bridge, a structure more than half a mile long, was swept away when the Potomac flooded an area of a mile from each bank.

Three men, reported lost when the Maryland bridge was washed away, jumped to safety a moment before it went.
