FARM COLONY GIVEN BOOST

NEW YORK (AP).—Almost 50 per cent of the $5,023,550 spent by the Palestine foundation fund in rebuilding Palestine as the Jewish homeland was expended in developing agricultural colonization and in establishing a complete system of Jewish schools in the Holy Land, according to a report made public here today by Samuel Untermyer, president of the American division of the fund. The report covers the period from the organization of the fund, on March 1, 1921, as the principal financial instrument for the rebuilding of the Jewish homeland, to December 31, 1923. While the fund is supported by contributions from Jews in 21 countries throughout the world, over two-thirds of the money thus far has come from America. During 1923 an amount of $1,000,000 was being made in cash, $400,000 for the fund in America, in order that the land can be prepared to absorb at least double the number of immigrants now entering the country. Most of the Jewish immigrants now coming into Palestine at the rate of about 1,000 monthly, are city-bred and university-trained young men and women from Eastern and Central Europe. The chief problem of the fund is to convert them into hardy pioneers able to withstand the rigors of rebuilding the land ravaged thru centuries of neglect. The report points out, "This has largely been accomplished through the agricultural colonization work, which is the basis of the program for the development of the Jewish homeland. The Palestine Foundation Fund has established 47 colonies, now in a flourishing condition as a result of the pioneering work of these city-bred young men and women, operating experiment stations where valuable work is being done on looking toward the future agricultural development of Palestine, and carries on irrigation and drainage work to make present waste lands available for cultivation. The total spent on agricultural development was $1,557,759 or 26.53 per cent of the total expenditure. The expenditure of $1,072,944 on education, 21.95 per cent of the whole, was used in creating a complete system of Jewish education from kindergartens to the Hebrew university, the latter situated on the historic Mount of Olives, with the first departments now functioning and the Medical college, built through the efforts of Jewish physicians in America, to be opened this summer. The system comprises 131 schools including technical and trade schools where the young generation is given training to aid it in developing the resources of Palestine when they are graduated. Other expenditures include: Aiding immigrants in getting established in self-supporting activi-

ANTILIT CAMPAIGN

BELFAST (AP).—This city will be no place for riots of both sexes in the near future if a campaign now being waged by the Belfast clergy bears fruit. The clergy are combining in offering serious warnings to young people to have nothing to do with the "tiring" activity and declare that "this is disgusting." As a protest against this campaign girls are to be seen on the sidewalks displaying handkerchiefs inscribed with such phrases as "I love you!" "Do you love me?" or "I like you," which they flaunt in the face of every likable young man they meet. Some girls are reported to be carrying handkerchiefs inscribed "I don't flirt with me" as a protection against male flirts.

Reclamation for Oregon has been one of the most persistent and particular activities of Congressman N. J. Sinnott
Candidate for Congress for Oregon Second District.

He has never missed an opportunity in the eleven years he has represented this District in Congress, to convince those in authority as well as on the floor of the House that Oregon was being discriminated against, and the results of his efforts have been remarkable. He found Oregon the stepchild of the reclamation States—today largely through his persistence she is fast becoming the favored daughter.

He secured the passage of the Mineral Leasing Act, February 25th, 1920 with royalties going to the Reclamation Fund in the amount of $12,000,000, and as a result in the last two House Bills covering Reclamation Appropriations, OREGON LEADS ALL STATES with appropriations of over $4,000,000; of this amount one of particular interest to the people of Union and Baker Counties is the project known as the Baker Project for which he has been successful in having $900,000 appropriated, and though this project is known as the Baker Project nevertheless Union County is equally interested, as part of the site is in Union County, and we shall share almost equally with Baker in its benefits.

Why not show your appreciation of this wonderful service, and help to continue in office an honest and capable as well as tireless worker for your every interest, by voting for
