

NEW YORK TO GREET WOMEN

Members of Feminine Sex to Be More Numerous and Powerful at Democratic Caucus.

NEW YORK, (AP)—Women, who will be more numerous and more powerful at this year's National Democratic convention than in any previous convocation of the party, have set out to show their influence on a few things about the convention conduct.

State, member of the Democratic national executive committee, and recognized leader of her sex in councils of the party. Among other things, Miss Marbury says "men have had political conventions all their own way for so long they've fallen into a rut; women in politics have been taught to take the responsibility more seriously than men." Contains delegate to the Madison Square Garden proceedings "are going to get something more out of the experience than the novelty of voting for a presidential nominee; and they are going to be shown that New York is something besides a glorified ham and cheese and cheese."

Cupid Was There to Greet Them

Cupid crossed the path of Miss Camilla Vanderhilt and Lord Cecil some time ago, but when they left the church at Baltimore, N. C., after their wedding—there he was again. Also there was a long line of happy girls, as shown in the picture.

BROADCASTING STRIDES HUGE

Highly Organized System Is Virtually Monopolized; Programs Are Improving.

(By Luther Huston.) LONDON, (INS)—Radio broadcasting in England has crossed the threshold of organized industry. Home stations have been made to conform to a standard, the transmission of radio entertainment and it is doubted if broadcasting in any country has advanced beyond the stage it has reached in England.

One of the foremost achievements of British radio was the broadcast on April 27 of the King's speech at the request of the British Empire Exhibition at Wembley. It was the first time in history that the voice of the ruler of the British Empire had been carried by waves of ether to the ears of millions of his subjects.

Preparations for this event were elaborate. In addition to the broadcast of the King's speech, a special program was staged at Albert Hall, a huge auditorium seating more than 10,000 persons. Loud speakers were installed and every detail of the performance in connection with the annual opening of England's 1924, a unique exhibition was heard by the large audience.

Hours at Albert Hall were thrown open at seven o'clock and at seven the first strains of music that signaled the beginning of the ceremonial at Wembley came from the loud speakers. For nearly an hour the music of exhibition bands entertained the audience and then a burst of patriotic music heralded the arrival of the Prince of Wales.

Broadcasting in England, for general purposes, is chiefly under control of the British Broadcasting Company, which is virtually a monopoly. Less than a year ago this company occupied one small room. Today it has 25 departments, each department dealing with some particular phase of the broadcasting industry.

One of the foremost results of the development of a highly organized broadcasting industry has been a distinct improvement in the quality of program material for listeners. This is due to the fact that the British Broadcasting Company to improve its program have resorted to a change in the attitude of performing artists and there is now

Seeing YOSEMITE on ZEROLENE-lubricated bearings

If you haven't traveled the Horseshoe Route out of Merced to Yosemite in one of the Pierce-Arrow touring cars operated by the Yosemite Stags and Turnpike Company, you've missed something.

But whether or not you have made this trip, you'll be interested, as a motorist, in knowing that the twenty-five Pierce-Arrow cars used in this service are lubricated with Zerolene. The manager of this famous stage line writes:

"We have been operating a stage line since 1911 and have always used Zerolene. Recently we disposed of some cars that had been in our service for ten years, and during that period none of them had ever had a bearing scraped."

Whether you drive a Pierce-Arrow or a Ford, the use of Zerolene, of the proper body, will not only cut down your oil bill, but give you greater gasoline mileage, less carbon, lower upkeep costs, and a longer life for your car.

This year women have equal representation with men on the National Democratic committee, and party leaders, including the men, predict that forty a third of the delegates to the Madison Square Garden caucus will be women.

One of the first actions of the subcommittee on convention arrangements when it met in New York for the 1924 session, was to entrust Miss Marbury with the responsibility of "securing by the committee's recommendation the comfort, convenience and entertainment of the women delegates, and of insuring a spirit of harmony between them and the men representatives." Miss Marbury issued a committee of five to aid her, established a Women's Convention Bureau at the Waldorf-Astoria headquarters for the party, and set about personally to carry out instructions.

"Many women who will come here, as delegates or convention visitors, will be seeing New York for the first time," Miss Marbury said. "As a committee New York, I believe there is more to this territory than its jazz band reputation."

"A great many women will come here who in their home towns, and in the cities, as they say it, are seriously active in industry, agriculture, welfare work, social reform, health betterment, public school administration, playgrounds and even trans-impersonation. We propose to give these women some idea to take home with them."

"We will take them to see our prisons, our settlement clubs for mothers and children's clubs. They may get some ideas that will be of use when they return home."

"We believe, Comrade Island, the poor man's paradise, is no joke; that when a workman and his wife and children look out on the smothering atmosphere, to such an amusement room and such a beach at a cost of one cent for entrance, it is something worth seeing and studying."

"A new system of sight-seeing tours, with qualified guides, is being arranged for the purpose. We want to enable the woman to visit the Metropolitan Museum of Art or the American Museum of Natural History intelligently, to gather the score of more of highlights in each, and avoid the fatigue and wearisome impressions left by the usual sight-seeing."

British Has Radio Movies Apparatus

LONDON, (INS)—Transmission of cinema pictures by radio has been achieved by J. L. Baird, an English inventor.

It is claimed that the picture can be transmitted so faithfully that every movement can be reproduced.

The system of transmission is as follows: Rays of light pass through a lens in a revolving disc and are focused on a rotating glass, producing electrical impulses in the same way that music is transmitted by wireless gramophone receivers.

At the receiving end a rotating disc is fitted with a series of electrical brushes arranged in similar positions to the lens in the transmitting disc, and as they rotate the impulses are picked up by the brushes and amplified.

A device which seems to be somewhat similar, but employing the "phonograph" instead of perforated rotating discs, was invented some time ago by an American and is in operation in a Washington laboratory. The device, made of glass, and is made of a rotating disc, which is connected to the telephone set, which sets up similar vibrations in the electrical circuit upon which it is impressed.

OVER-PRODUCTION MAY HIT POULTRY FARMER

CHICAGO, (INS)—So rapidly is the poultry industry expanding that within a short time over-production may cut the farmer's poultry dollar from sick-pit profits to pin money unless steps can be produced at least equal, according to statistics just published.

More than 2,000,000 turkeys in America alone produce poultry, and even if it is estimated that there are more than 45,000,000 chickens on farms this year, which is an increase of over 10,000,000, or nearly 12 per cent over figures of a year ago.
