BOISE POLO MEN VICTORS

VANCOUVER, Wash. (Special)—Boise's first polo team out-ran the local team Tuesday afternoon and took the fifth game of the Pacific Northwest polo tournament, 12 goals to 6. The victory puts the Boise team in the lead with two victories and no defeats. Camp Lewis has been tied with Vancouver in victories for second place, each team having won one and lost one. Unless Vancouver out-ran the Boise team when these two teams meet Monday, it looks like another championship year for Boise.

HELEN WILLS IS READY TO SAIL; SUZANNE IS HELD

NEW YORK (AP)—Helen Wills, 18-year-old tennis champion of the world, will sail today on the Bretagne for Europe, where she will attempt to repeat the Olympic championship. Suzanne Lenglen, French champion, will be accompanied by her mother, Mrs. Wills had her first victory in more than a week Monday at the courts of the Westside Tennis club where she played a prize five set.

Suzanne Lenglen III
PARIS (AP)—Suzanne Lenglen is confined to bed with a slight attack of jaundice, according to the Paris correspondent of L'Echo, who says she may not be able to come to Paris to defend her three French tennis championships.

EXPLAINS WHY ATHLETES FAIL

Competition Stiffer in College Because They Meet Stars From Other Schools.
COLUMBUS, O. (AP)—There is a real reason for the miserable failure of hundreds of sparkling high school athletes to make good at collegiate football, according to Dr. J. W. Wiley, tutor of the grid-iron sport at Ohio State university.

Dr. Wiley has seen the number of high school players who "fail to make the grade," according to him, in the last few years, and with the beginning of spring training, comes more high school boys who may fail to blossom.

"The college player, however," Dr. Wiley said, "must fit into his team. The athlete who starred in one particular line in high school must be able to adapt himself to the college team style of play, and as a rule, cannot hope to get by on ability in one small field."

THE SPORT CRUCIBLE

Another White Man's Burden
As present constituted, the National League is an organization composed of seven ball clubs and a civic push-over. The latter represents the worthy city of Philadelphia and something should be done about it. The 1924 Phillies seem to be even worse than usual, if possible; they contribute only an element of opera bouffe to the major league program. They should be discontinued pronto, or William F. Baker forced to spend something more tangible than the afternoon.

He sown a handful of poison ivy and reaps a crop of eczema at the box office.
On Saturday the Phillies came to the Polo grounds and were routed by the presence of some 15,000 citizens. At least 20,000 of these estimable left the park disgusted, before the end of the afternoon, in a result of an exhibition that would make a comedian weep. The exhibition was typical not unusual.

"The Phillies are not a major league proposition at all. They might even look somewhat like the tabbies in the Class AA minors.
"Tex Richard predicts that Bayless Thayer Avera will be safe for everyone on the afternoon of September 6 next. Tex Richard may be wrong. He seems to have overlooked Harry Willis.

We venture to suggest a new variety show at Columbia University, now that President Nicholas Murray Butler has expounded the cause of the wet:
"Three cheers and a blind tiger."
Quick, Boy, a Niche.
Marty Ryan was a fairly plump, blue haired baseballer with the Chicago Cubs several years ago. He seems to be a better minor league manager. Marty has placed himself among the extra hands in the Los Angeles booth in order to make room in the lineup for a younger and more gifted infielder.

The latter is one Ray Jacobs and he has laid the Cubs league circuit hitting and fielding. They say he is as good as Willie Kamm, which is quite beyond the following point to wit:
Which is the greater hero, the boy who is burning up the teams of the man who made this possible at the expense of personal ambition?
Redline Story.
Once upon a time there was a race track town who did not say his horse couldn't lose. He didn't say anything.

Did you ever notice that many prizefighters' managers have cauliflower ears? Also, that prizefighters have very short necks?
A Tip from Ted.
Ted Ray, former British and American open golf champion, has some very illuminating advice for those who find the machine a evasion of mystery.
"Never to ease the left knee in taking the club back, may bring about a terrible error in direction," says Ted, "as the club cannot be brought across the front of the body with the left elbow flying out."
"A firm grip is essential; the feet may be a little more apart than usual, with the left foot about fifteen inches in advance of the right foot and the weight of the body on the right rather than on the left foot. The hands of the club should be turned out a little so that it cuts across the ball as it comes in contact. The right elbow should be kept fairly well in to the side to avoid pushing the club out."
