
IDAHO MINER NOW PRINCE

Celasio Caetani, Italian Ambassador to U. S., Formerly Worked in Kellogg, Ida.

SPOKANE, Wash., (AP) — When Prince Celasio Caetani, now Italian ambassador to the United States, but twenty years ago a laborer in the mines near Kellogg, Idaho, visits Spokane as a guest of the city June 2 next, the man who first employed him as a miner in the Coeur d' Alenes will be on hand to greet him.

Twenty years ago F. W. Bradley of San Francisco, president of the Bunker Hill and Sullivan Mining and Concentrating company, according to a request from a friend to give Prince Caetani a "job" said "send him to the Bunker Hill and I'll give him a car to push." Accepting the employment, Prince Caetani continued with the company for seven years, completing the last three years as superintendent of mines.

Prince Caetani is a graduate of the Royal University of Rome and the Columbia University, school of mines. It was immediately after his graduation from Columbia University in 1903 that he went to work in the mines of northern Idaho. Returning to Italy at the outbreak of the World war he served through that affray and in 1921 was appointed ambassador to the United States.

While in Spokane Prince Caetani will speak before the Columbia division of the American Institute of Mining and Metallurgical Engineers.

Orchestra Played 2758 Times In Six-Day Dancing Match

BRESLAU, Germany (AP) — Police officials of Breslau have issued an order forbidding a repetition of the six-day dance which was recently completed in this city. Twelve couples participated and attempted just as endless do in six-day bicycle races. Forty-six dancing teachers acted as referees and were on watch in relays. The dancing course was 200 yards long.

The chimmy was the favorite dance with the contestants, and the two bands which played alternately supplied 1256 chimmies during the contest. The java was next in popularity with 862. There were 432 lancers and 98 Boston waltzes. The contestants objected strenuously to the Boston, as they said the waltz made the musicians sleepy and they played so sluggishly that there was little inspiration for the tired dancers.

MONUMENT TO MARK GRAVES

SPOKANE, Wash., (AP) — To commemorate the missionary and educational work accomplished by Dr. and Mrs. Henry Harmon Spalding half a century ago in the Pacific northwest, a monument is being constructed in Spokane under the direction of the Presbyterian synod of the northwest, which will be placed at the graves of those two pioneers at Spalding, Idaho.

The monument will be of blue-white granite of rugged design and is expected to be unveiled some time during July, next, it has been announced here.

Dr. Spalding and Marcus Whitman and their wives were among the first persons to enter the Pacific northwest and begin missionary work, according to historical data of their activities compiled by Rev. J. A. Laurie of Wenatchee, chairman of the Spalding memorial committee. Mrs. Spalding and Mrs. Wharman were the first white women to cross the continent and come into the Columbia Valley.

NEW CLUBHOUSE COMPLETED

ASTORIA, Or., (Special) — With the exception of painting the interior, the construction of the Astoria Golf and Country club's new clubhouse on its grounds near Sunset Beach has been completed. The wicker upholstered furniture as well as the equipment for the kitchen and dining hall, was purchased Saturday and it is expected formal opening of the clubhouse will be held about June 1.

Work on the golf course is progressing in good order. The tee boxes and benches for the tees have arrived and the newly seeded greens are coming on nicely. The course will be ready for play on Saturday, June 14, and the formal opening, with a suitable program will be on that day.

RATTLE SNAKE KILLER ACTIVE

YAKIMA, Wash. (AP)—There are 120 rattlesnakes less in this district after Harley Coney of Yakima paid a visit to a "rattler's den" he had located near Pletha City, according to word brought back by him recently. Besides having the rattles to prove his contention, Mr. Coney had three witnesses to his performance.

Warm weather had induced the snakes to come part way out from the rocks, making it an easy matter to dispose of them. After shooting a few he alternated with a stick, forked at one end, and a club.

Coney announced his intention of returning to the scene and using poison gas on the snakes. By this method he believes that no can drive several hundred more from the den.
