MURDERED BOY BURIED IN CHICAGO

searching for the purchaser of a floral piece received at the Frank's home accompanied by a card in which was written "Memorial of George Johnson."

George Johnson was the name signed to several letters received at the Frank's home demanding $10,000 for the boy's return and given by a man in telephone conversations with the father.

Authorities obtained a good description of the man from the florist, who said the purchaser appeared nervous, wrote and destroyed several cards before he seemed satisfied, then hurriedly left the shop and entered a waiting automobile.

Frank was kidnapped as he left a private school Wednesday afternoon. His nude body was found in a culvert several miles south of his parents' home the next morning. Before the discovery of the body the father had received letters and telephone calls demanding ransom money and instructions to take the boy. While waiting for the appointed time to deliver the money, the boy's uncle, who had learned of the finding of the body, shifted the mortgage and identified him.

As the little gray casket was carried from the home the hundreds of curious bystanders removed their hats and bowed their heads. The father, supported by two of his friends, followed the casket.

Policemen Lead Casket
The casket, carried by the boy's school mates, was placed in the hearse and the casket, preceded by a guard of motorcycle policemen, moved off.

Despite the fact that more than 2,000 police and detectives, spurred on by a $10,000 reward for the apprehension of the slayers, are working on the case, they are admittedly no closer to a solution than they were when the boy's body was found.

After the funeral services Mrs. Frank left from the rear of the home, entered an automobile and went to the cemetery by a roundabout way. Before the services, she held a three-hour vigil in the room where the body lay, allowing the one to be with her. As she left the home she was escorted by a policeman, one of the guard stationed there as the result of threats made since the killing of Robert.

REPORTS SHOW TRADE OUTPUT STILL RECEDES

NEW YORK (By the Associated Press).—With legislative uncertainty still a restraining influence, industrial reports received in financial circles indicate that the recession in business is still going on. It is pointed out, however, that the decrease in production is now at a less rapid rate.

Japan and America is inevitable. He declared it no longer possible for Japan and America to reach a satisfactory compromise on immigration.

10,000 Took Part

TOKIO (AP).—Ten thousand Japanese former service men took part today in an anti-foreign demonstration and adopted a resolution asking residents to unite for the sake of the fatherland.

Ex-soldier General Bunjiro Horikawa said "we must be determined to undergo what ever hardships necessary to avenging the insult which America has done our country."

Churches Injured

TOKIO (AP).—Smaller native Christian churches have been dealt a damaging blow by the passage of the American immigration bill with the Japanese exclusion clause, according to the Hoshi and other newspapers.

These journals declare the action on the immigration bill has made Japanese distrust missionaries and their teachings and has been influential in causing many Japanese Christians to leave the churches.

PIRATES DROP SUNDAY'S GAME

son immediately afterwards rejoined himself by catching Blackman stealing second with a snappy tag.

Fast Contest

To show proof just how fast the game was will be seen when one realizes that it took just one hour and 25 minutes to finish the game. The average time for a game is about two hours. Thirty men faced Bench and 32 faced Parris. La Grande's hits came in the second, fifth, sixth and ninth, but one hit per inning but hits scattered such as they were, are not conducive to run when the team opposing is playing ball. Theison got a neat two-bagger in the fifth with one down but the next two men went out summarily.

A large crowd of both Walla Walla and La Grande fans witnessed the game.

Next Sunday La Grande plays Pendleton. Walla Walla looks horns with Dayton and Milton-Freewater plays Parris.
