COLLEGES WILL SELECT SERIOUS MINDED PUPILS

WASHINGTON, (AP)—Going to college to "have a good time," and studying "just enough to pass examinations," soon will be a thing of the past. The movement to include character qualifications in the terms of admission is spreading rapidly through colleges and universities of the United States, many of which are now requiring submission of character as well as scholarship records of candidates from high schools.

Failure of prospective entrants to establish a satisfactory record will result in rejection of the applicant who must show good habits, industry, good character, respect for law and property values, church attendance, character defects and failures observed in meeting requirements are now being considered by colleges and universities in passing upon the fitness of candidates for admission.

These new requirements for admission to the higher educational institutions are being brought to the attention of parents by the Character Education Institution of the Washington, which is pointing out that passing entrance examinations will not hereafter settle boy or girl into college. Among the institutions already using systems of character qualifications are Chicago University, Oberlin College, Harvard University, Graduate School of Business Administration, Kansas Agricultural College, State and University, Reed College and Tripp College.

Public universities and colleges, leaders of the movement, say, will not feel qualified hereafter in spending tax money on students who do not show promise or earnestness and the true American spirit in their college work. The right to an education partly at public expense, they declare, does not belong to the loafer.

Harding Memorial Stamps
Much Sought by Collectors
WASHINGTON, (AP)—The Harding memorial postage stamp seems to be much in demand by stamp collectors throughout the country. The postoffice department has been compelled to enlist postmasters from selling or otherwise furnishing precanceled stamps of that and other issues to persons or concerns not authorized to use precanceled stamps, the conditions governing the use of which specifically provide they can be furnished by postmaster only after special authority in each instance has been obtained from the department.

Precanceled stamps are those furnished larger users of normal, third and fourth class mails bearing across their face the printed name of the postoffice where they must be used. Each stamp is accompanied by the name and the date they carry does not have to be canceled by machine or by hand at the sending postoffice.

Correct this sentence: "That's all right," mailed the banker, "we'll be glad to renew it for you."

QUININE GONE, ILLNESS RAGES

LONDON, (AP)—The menace of malaria, which is affecting 5,000,000 people in southeastern Europe, and the steps which must be taken to counteract the spread of the disease, are being considered by the health organization of the League of Nations. To this end the League government has sent representatives to the meeting of the health commission.

At the request of the governments of Greece and Albania, the League has sent commissions to study conditions in these countries and will shortly send representatives to Persia. According to the Greek ministry of health there are 2,000,000 people in Greece, or about a third of the total population, who are suffering from malaria.

The latest report from the sanitary council of Persia, which calls attention to the appalling conditions of the country, is of special importance because of the large number of pilgrims which come to the country. According to the report, serious outbreaks of malaria, plague, relapsing fever, small pox and cholera have occurred throughout Persia during the last 11 years. Malaria is the most widespread of these diseases, and has been so severe that entire villages had to be abandoned.

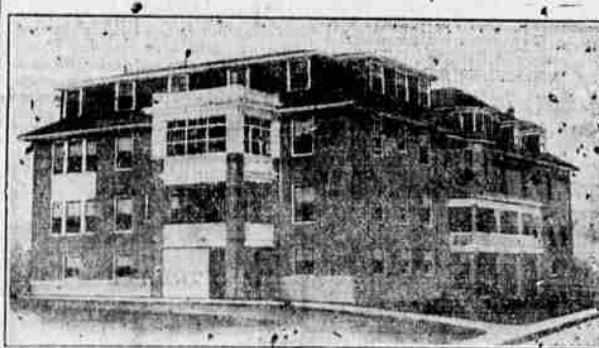

Southern Russia is another center of infection. In the Ukraine alone 416,573 cases of malaria were reported during the first ten months of 1923, while local statistics further show that only two-thirds of a ton of quinine was available for distribution. Altogether, 4,500,000 cases of malaria have so far been registered in Russia.

The greatest obstacle which the health commission will have to overcome is the scarcity of quinine of which only 600 tons are manufactured annually. Quinine is at present the only known cure for malaria, but its scarcity has made its universal use impossible. A ton of quinine will cure about 20,000 cases.

It is possible that the problem of increasing the world production of quinine may shortly be made the subject of an international conference, which would also consider establishing depots of cinchona seeds to meet the needs of the countries requiring quinine. The problem is not only one of quantity but also of price, which has been at least quadrupled since 1914.

In Memoriam

With Memorial Day at hand we honor the heroes of three wars. Each time these men gave their all for the preservation of the ideals by which this country was founded. The torch of freedom which they raised so high is now ours to bear. May we be worthy. This institution bows in honor of these men. It pledges anew its adherence to those ideals for which they made the last great sacrifice. We close for this occasion.
