JUNIOR DANCE AT THE CLUB

Young People and Older Ones as Well to Have Big Time Tomorrow Night at Country Club.

There will be fun and merriment galore at the Country club tomorrow night for the juniors are going to have a dance. It is not intended to exclude the older people, but the young folks will take the lead and plan the evening's program. Considerable interest is shown by the boys and girls in this event, for it is given under the auspices of the committee which was appointed to raise money for the purpose of repainting the exterior of the club house.

The dance given some time ago by this same committee netted over $200 but it is found that to do the work properly about $350 will be needed to put the building in shape for several years to come.

In order to increase the revenue for this purpose the junior dance will take place tomorrow evening which the general public is invited. Dancing will begin at 8 o'clock and the price set for the young people is only fifty cents for dancer's ticket.

Children who have no way to reach the country club can get transportation by calling any member of the committee in charge.

and Loeb resumed their journey southward along the lake shore.

Loeb Finds Belt
When the car reached Rossville, where Frank's shoes were found Saturday, Loeb began a search for the Franks boy's belt. He scoured around with his hands and later with a rake proffered by a farmer. Loeb finally uncovered the belt, which had been cut in sections and buried in three different spots.

Denounces Companion
Loeb bitterly denounced Loeb for what he termed the latter's weakness and became so vehement that he nearly collapsed, asking for a glass of water containing a few drops of aromatic spirits of ammonia. "Then he revived and asked that a message be sent to Loeb saying: 'Tell him I am very much surprised that he fears death; that he was so weak as to confess and later to faint under the strain. Just a weeking after all.'"

Loeb's confession did not aid in the kidnapping and slaying, Loeb laughed and joked, even making jests at Chief of Detectives Hughes. Once, for example, he asked the chief if he knew that Caesar was married to an Irish woman.

"You don't tell me," said the chief.

"Yes," said Loeb, "in the 19th chapter, fourth paragraph, you can read that he married a woman of the name of Blagel, and that is a good old Irish name, isn't it?"

"That it is," said the chief.

Two cars bearing Loeb and Loeb and several officers started for Jackson park, where a search was being made for the typewriter on which Loeb said he wrote the extortion letter. When they reached a stone bridge over a narrow passage between a lagoon and a yacht harbor they found several thousand persons watching efforts to recover the typewriter.

Loeb got out of the car on the bridge, pushed his way through the crowd and, after taking his bearings, pointed to a spot in the water and said the typewriter was there. As the divers concentrated on this spot the cars bearing Loeb and Loeb resumed their journey southward along the lake shore.

PENDLETON BALL CLUB ARE LOSERS

with La Grande doing most of the slugging.

While La Grande was defeating the Bucks, Walla nosed out a one-run win over Dayton retaining her supremacy on par with La Grande. Milton-Freewater's long winning streak came to an end at the hands of Pasco.

La Grande played snappy ball yesterday behind Bench, who pitched excellent ball. Both Hansen and McGarrigle tossed 'em across for the home team but neither could keep the visitors from hitting the old apple tree.

La Grande took first blood when Clifford, after smacking out a two-bagger, was sent home by sacrifice hits by Davis and Helms. Pendleton came back in the second and scored three runs as a result of one hit, a walk, a batter hit and a low throw from Bench to Peterson.

La Grande promptly went back into the lead in the next frame when she got three runs. Pendleton tied it up again in the last of the third but from then on went scoreless. The Pirates added two runs in the fourth, one in the fifth, and two in the eighth.

Three Hit Well
Clifford and Alexander were the sitting stars for La Grande. Both got three safe binges in five times at the plate. Two two-baggers were laid out by Alexander and Clifford knocked one for an extra base. Clark of Pendleton, got three out of four times at bat, all singles.

Eight errors were made, three-fourths of them by Pendleton. Next Sunday La Grande plays at home against Pendleton. Walla Walla entertains Dayton and Milton-Freewater goes to Pasco.

Psychological Tests For Husbands Given

shade of pleasantness, he is allowed to go on.

Then comes the test: For husbands—a light chatter about things in general, and Miss McCormick's ideas in particular, bring about an expression of impatience, or concurrence. By this the psychologists make their second judgment.

"It's easy to tell whether a man's fibbing or sincere," says Miss McCormick in an aside. "And I find that most of them are fibbers."

If perchance the applicant gets this far, he is subjected to more detailed tests—conducted privately.

His patience is tested by long waiting for the next experiment. His resourcefulness—by solving a puzzle in a certain design. His adjustability—by quick changes from one problem to another, employing different facilities.

His neatness—by arranging figures and objects in certain combinations within a requisite time. His tolerance—by his reactions to disturbing factors during certain of these experiments. His mental capacities—by remembering tests, arithmetic problems, and word analogies. And if he is still in the running," says Miss McCormick, "we have other tests."

These range: His reaction to children—by having some of them run into the room when not expected, and poster the applicant with innumerable annoyances. His reaction to old people—by introducing a Civil war veteran who insists on telling his story.
