IMPROVEMENT NOT DISTANT

ly from us in these countries have for the past few years they have entered the market with goods of their own manufacture and those who were customers have become competitors. Exports of cotton cloth have dwindled and imports have increased materially. Nine months ending March shows import valued at $2,262,744 and the same period the previous year. "A comparison of percentage activity for March and April, however, would indicate a gradual and relative improvement in conditions here. March, for instance, showed active spindle hours totaling 74 per cent of the previous month, but April totaled 77 per cent of April 1923. This activity in cotton growing states figures 54 per cent for March and 58 per cent for April as compared with a year ago. Even in New England where the textile people are hit the hardest March showed activity 62 per cent of last year, while April improved to 65 per cent. Comparisons of activity by states show practically a universal improvement in this figure of percentage activity.

"The cotton industry is marking time and probably will do so until around the first of August when the new crop is determined and prices for raw cotton are set on a basis for another season. Stocks of goods are low at present. Conditions in the industry now improve at that time. My study of the situation," concluded Mr. Galt, "leads me to believe that conditions in the textile industry may not be so bad today and that the next few months will be a revival. After all, with general business as reflected on the Federal chart running at 10 per cent below normal it is not surprising that so many an industry is ready to be depressed by a temporary depression."
