Another beautiful June wedding took place yesterday afternoon at three o'clock, at the parsonage of the Presbyterian church, when Robert C. Murray and Miss Delora Shafer, both of La Grande, were united in marriage, with Reverend William Crosby Ross officiating. Mr. and Mrs. E. Courtney were witnesses of the ceremony.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Murray are well known in La Grande, Mrs. Murray having graduated from the La Grande high school this spring. The happy couple expect to make their home in La Grande.

A very interesting program is anticipated this evening, when Mrs. R. J. Green will present Mrs. William Long in piano recital, at the library auditorium. Mrs. Long is well known in La Grande and is an excellent musician. She will be assisted by Mrs. Ray Fuller, soprano, accompanied by Mrs. W. W. Berry, at the piano. The recital will begin at 8:15 o'clock and the public is cordially invited.

Mrs. Stanley Lyons and Mrs. Lawrence Prescott will entertain the Friday Bridge club Friday, June 13, at the home of Mrs. Lyons.

Mrs. A. T. Hill will be hostess to the Monday Bridge club, Monday, June 16, at her home on First street.

A perfectly straight plain back, and a front unrelieved save for a circular flounce for this model create the general effect of sophisticated simplicity that is so much desired now. The neckline is the simple Jenny line and the armholes are close and plain. The material is white crepe Roma.

NEW SWEATERS LEND COLOR AND CHIC TO SUMMER SPORTS

What is summer without a sweater?

"Unthinkable"—comes the chorused reply of the smart women. For in a season when sportswear is the dernier cri the sweater takes on a new importance.

And never have sweater styles been more attractive and diversified! Jumper, jacquette and mandarin coat are interpreted in mohair and fibre, and take bright hues of citrine yellow, red, or green. Scarf collars are smart, and attach themselves to both sleeveless and sleeved models.

The omni - present Mah-Jong makes its appearance in a real interknitted pattern in black that follows faithfully the intricacies of both circles and characters.

Variety of Walking Sticks.

Paris.—Walking sticks for women are being made in an interesting variety today. Some have the stolid, masculine appearance which betokens practical use, but others are as frivolous as the crook of a Dresden shepherdess.

Many Bangles on Arm.

Paris.—At a moment the feminine arm is a cascade—or perhaps a ladder—of glass bangles. Each bangle is a different color and the effect is both bright and noisy.

One-Sleeve Dress.

London.—The one-sleeve dress is here again. It seems to be a happy compromise between the long, tight sleeve and no sleeve at all, since one arm is quite bare and the other amply draped.

Elephant Skin Shoes.

London.—There are shoes of elephant skin now. This use for elephants is not likely to become a fad, since the source of supply is getting scarce. But at the moment several prominent London women have soft gray shoes made from Jumbo's hide.

Flannel Coat.

New York.—Among the pleasant summer vogues today is that of the flannel coat in three-quarter length. Flannel is becoming more and more soft and velvety though less heavy and hot than velvet. These topcoats invariably have fur collars.

HIGHER GRADE COWS COMING

Stock company which is now operating in Baker and Union counties.

G. S. Levy, representative of the company and the active manager, has just finished placing more than a hundred registered and grade cows which his company has shipped in from Western Oregon and Washington.

Mr. Levy has been a breeder of milk stock for many years and he has seen the need of getting the right kind of cows into the country, and with in mind his company will make every effort to ship in the best cows obtainable. For Baker county a ranch at Haines is under lease where distribution of dairy stock will be made and for Union county a ranch at Union will be the home of the company. At the Haines ranch now there are over a hundred excellent registered and grade cows. The purchaser is taking no chances with these cows for he can go to the ranch, milk the cows himself, test the milk for several days and know just what he is buying. Besides all of this the cows are sold under a guarantee and the company stands squarely behind every cow or bull that is sold. The bulls handled are of the purest breeding and everyone is under a guarantee to make good. Jerseys, Guernseys and Holsteins are the breeds now being handled, and in a short time Mr. Levy expects to go to Wisconsin, which state is recognized as the home of the Guernsey, to procure stock. The northwest is not long on good Guernseys and already difficulty has been encountered in buying for this company's demands.

In the Jersey strain the company has a number of young bulls of the St. Mawes breeding and this strain has produced several world champion cows.

"I am sure," said Mr. Levy today, "that Eastern Oregon is going to rival the Willamette valley as a dairy country. Oregon as a state has produced seven out of ten of the world champion cows and this part of Oregon will do its part along this line. What we need is good stock and it is our intention to furnish it at prices that people can afford to pay."

CAUCUS OPENS IN ROSE CITY

one are expected for this convention.

Drill teams are coming from 25 cities to compete for the $9650 in prizes offered by the National Council of the Security Benefit association.

Today's program provided for a trip up the Columbia River highway, and reception of national officers and delegates. The convention will open Tuesday morning with addresses of welcome by Governor Walter M. Pierce, Mayor George L. Baker, Judge W. M. Gatens, and Boon Cason, and response by J. M. Kirkpatrick, national president of the Security Benefit association. Convention sessions will be held Wednesday and Friday, Thursday being given up to participation in the Rose Festival activities.

A special train consisting of 13 Pullman cars, two diners and a baggage car, from Wichita, Kansas, passed through La Grande last evening on its way to Portland. The train carried 252 passengers, all delegates to the Security Benefit association convention. The train remained here for one hour. Church services, held on the train yesterday, were in charge of J. C. Hummer, of Muskogee, Okla.

INSURGENTS WILL URGE EXTRA MEET

over the attempt he insinuated was being made to get the former Illinois governor out of the field. Misleading reports that Illinois delegates were divided as to Lowden's availability for vice presidency, Williams said, had much to do with Lowden's decision not to be a candidate.

CLEVELAND, O. (By the Associated Press) — Republican insurgents, acting through the Wisconsin delegation, will ask the Republican National convention, opening here tomorrow, to condemn formally the official acts of Harry M. Daugherty as attorney general and Albert B. Fall, as secretary of the interior.

An official copy of the insurgent platform was made public today by Robert M. LaFollette, Jr.

To Ask Special Session.

The insurgents also would have President Coolidge summon congress in extraordinary session July 7, for emergency farm relief legislation, to provide funds for the soldier bonus and for legislation extending the time of payment to farmers on government reclamation projects, which filed to pass before adjournment of Congress Saturday.

Official Washington was heavily reinforced today when Postmaster General New was added to the cabinet group already on hand for the Republican National Convention and Speaker Gillett, Senator Lodge and various other congressional leaders came in by one train, while Senator Cummins, president pro tem of the senate and Representative Longworth, Republican house leader, arrived by another.

Klan Leader Coming.

Active opposition to the anti-klan plank in the Republican platform by the klan was presaged today by the announcement that Imperial Wizard Evans would arrive today for a conference with the leaders. Prominent klansmen are quartered at two hotels.

LOWDEN STEPS ASIDE, LEADERS SEEK CANDIDATE

CLEVELAND, (By the Associated Press)—Former Governor F. O. Lowden of Illinois has declined the Republican vice presidential nomination.

With apparent finality, he announced in a formal statement Sunday that he would not accept the honor if nominated.

Whether he removed himself entirely from the situation remains to be developed. Some of those who have been promoting his candidacy said he has, others say he cannot.

At any rate, Lowden's announcement caused one of those kaleidoscopic movements so common to the milling and maneuvering of pre-convention hours. Rooms took on buoyancy and the dark horse groomers got busy with renewed enthusiasm.

Lowden's announcement came at a moment when his rapidly ascending candidacy was being raked fore and aft with the fire of factional differences engendered in the political arrays of Illinois. Some of his most ardent backers declared the attack, in their opinion, would not have been fatal but they conceded that Lowden's announcement of withdrawal coming at the same time had definitely killed his boom considerably, if not wholly.

Leaders to Buzz Some More.

Most of the leaders who have been favorable to Lowden summed up the situation by saying:

"We must now buzz for the next 24 hours and see if a new crystalization of sentiment appears."

While the Lowden people were surveying their own situation they were also trying to find out how the Illinois factional situation would affect Charles G. Dawes, whose boom has remained afloat while the national committee leaders and many delegates have been declaring themselves for the former Illinois governor. Some of the Lowden people expressed the opinion that the same fire which turned on Lowden Sunday with pent-up force might be turned toward the general.

It appeared quite probable that the consideration of the various candidates would not come to a focus before Monday when C. Bascom Slemp, secretary to President Coolidge, will arrive and confer with William M. Butler, the president's campaign manager, and Frank R. Stearns, his Warwick.

Importance of Selection.

The selection of a vice presidential candidate is surrounded with more than usual deliberation this year because of a widespread recognition of a third party sentiment and consideration of the possibility that the election may be thrown into congress.

Many Republican leaders think the house of representatives as now constituted might not under such circumstances be able to elect a president. The situation there is favorable to a prolonged deadlock. But no such situation exists as to the vice presidency. The makers of the constitution provided safeguards against such contingency. After one ballot all but the two receiving the highest and next highest number of ballots are automatically eliminated and a vice president is certain to be elected on the next ballot. If the house has not elected a president by March 4, the vice president steps into the vacancy.

Thus there is possibility that the major parties in selecting their candidacy for vice presidency or a third party for that matter, may in fact, name a president.

Other Booms Grow.

Meantime the Dawes people renewed their efforts. The boom for Senator Curtis of Kansas showed a good deal of activity. Word came from Washington that Senator Borah of Idaho, who had flatly said he would not accept the nomination, was undecided whether he might not reconsider. The talk for Secretary Hoover showed a good deal more activity and some national committeeman declared that Representative Theodore E. Burton, the keynoter and temporary chairman of the convention, had brought encouragement for the Hoover forces with him from Washington.

There was renewed talk for Dr. Marion Leroy Burton, president of the University of Michigan, who will place President Coolidge in nomination. Doctor Burton seemed well up toward the top of the dark horse list. Governor Hyde of Missouri was among these, too, and his candidacy was being promoted by Senator Spencer, Representative L. J. Dickinson of Iowa, for whom the Iowa delegation has been instructed, it was announced, will be presented to the convention by Senator Cummins. His friends undertook an active canvass for votes among arriving delegates from the agricultural states.
