La Grande Theatres

"Triumph" Shown for First Time at Arcade Yesterday.

"Triumph," Cecil B. DeMille's first Paramount production "The Ten Commandments," was shown for the first time in La Grande yesterday at the Arcade Theatre. Leatrice Joy and Rod La Rocque are featured in the principal roles.

The story was adapted by Jeanie Macpherson from the Saturday Evening Post serial by May Edginton, author of "Secrets." The picture is a powerful and original spectacle of modern factory life and ultra-modern high society. It is the story of two fellows and a girl (excuse it, Mr. Cohan). Victor Varconi, a new De Mille "find," plays the other man. He and La Rocque are half brothers, both in love with Miss Joy, as Anna Land, forewoman of their father's can works. She has ambitions to become a concert singer. A trick will cuts La Rocque, as King Garnet, off without a cent, and Varconi, playing William Silver, comes into the fortune. Anna makes a great hit with her singing. Silver proposes and is accepted.

King pockets his pride and starts in to work at his own factory, beginning from the bottom and gradually working himself up to manager. Silver loses his money in a take all deal. King sees he needs a job and offers him the position of manager. This pleases Anna who now realizes that it is King whom she really loves.

"Judgment of Storm," Powerful Drama, Played In Great Storm.

Cold that shrunk the mercury down to zero-minus degrees! Blinding snow! An icy gale, terrific, horrifying, laden with stinging arrows of sleet! Does that give the reader a chill and a stir of blood that recalls those record, death-dealing blizzards our North Atlantic States sometimes have in winter, worse than the terrible cold of the Arctic?

For the "real" sensation, and so many other thrills that only "seeing is believing," one must go to the Sherry Theatre today and witness "Judgment of the Storm," the Palmer Photoplay Corporation's initial screen production.

The whole dramatic climax of the powerful story, written by Mrs. Ethel Styles Middleton, is staged in a terrible blizzard of the sort described. In emphasizing the thrills and realness of the storm, however, one must not overlook the fact that it is only one point of interest in a picture filled with startling contrasts, gripping situations and spectacular effects, superimposed upon the foundation of a powerfully dramatic story.

Do you like love stories? One of the most beautiful and most sweetly thrilling of them all is a vital element in "Judgment of the Storm." And does strong emotional drama fit your taste or mood? "Judgment of the Storm" is full of it. Do you like powerful, but deliciously human realism in your melodramatic bill of fare? "Judgment of the Storm" is that! And imagine for your love hero, Lloyd Hughes, the screen's newest matinee idol, with charming Lucille Hickson, another "rising star" of screendom, opposite! And George Hackathorn, Myrtle Stedman, and Philo McCullough as principals of the supporting cast, and Bruce
