Elks Pay Tribute to Old Glory Last Night

Warren K. Gilbert read the "History of the Flag" which annually impresses upon Elks the historic setting of the emblem. Following the altar service—another ritualistic exercise—A. C. Hampton recited the "Elks' Tribute to the Flag," a masterpiece in rhetoric and sentiment.

Another delightful musical number was then presented when Raymond Higgins and Elmer McManis carried the cornet solo parts in a hand rendition of "La Paloma." The number was well done.

Attorney James A. Burleigh of Enterprise was the speaker of the evening. It is rarely the habit of the Elks to go outside Elkhorn for a speaker as it did this time, but the choice of Mr. Burleigh was a splendid one. His masterly ability as an orator, coupled with the wise philosophy of his pronouncements made a pleasing climax to a delightful program.

Six striking angles of significance are typified by the American flag, in the opinion of the speaker, and upon these six points he built his address.

"The first of these is democracy," said Mr. Burleigh. "Before the day of his flag all national emblems typified empires or kingdoms, or pagan peoples but the Stars and Stripes typify democracy."

"The second significance is that of equality. In spite of well-grounded belief to the contrary, the lowliest citizen under the Stars and Stripes has full equality with the mightiest."

"The third significance is justice. Justice to all."

"The fourth point is that of freedom, and by freedom we include speech, freedom of thought and freedom of the press, and last, but not least, freedom to worship the Almighty as it did this time, but the choice of Mr. Burleigh was a splendid one. His masterly ability as an orator, coupled with the wise philosophy of his pronouncements made a pleasing climax to a delightful program."

"The fifth great significance is the million children of America are stigmatized because they are sent into sweatshops and factories between the ages of 10 and 14 and thus denied an education."

"I want to plead with Oregon to be the first to ratify the constitutional amendment legalizing the anti-child labor laws which the courts have thrown out by a five to four vote. I do not believe in restrictively restricting the supreme court from declaring laws unconstitutional, but I do believe it is absolutely wrong for one man to nullify the expressed will of 116,000,000 people. Would that our supreme court could nullify our congressional laws only by at least a seven to two vote."

"Lastly, our flag is a flag of peace, and not of war. I am not a pacifist. I believe it would be dangerous to leave ourselves unprotected, for the nation is like a man driving a car. He may have perfect control and be cautious, yet around some corner he may meet a fool, Uncle Sam may some day meet a fool nation, and we must be prepared. I am convinced that when wealth is conscripted along with man, power that there will be no war for if you take the profit out of war, war ceases. Let us join an association of nations and outlaw war.

"Thus our flag we have met today to honor a flag emblematic of democracy, of equality, of justice, of freedom but not license, freedom of education and of peace and not war."

The officers and committees in general charge of the program were:

I. H. Bramwell, exalted ruler; C. G. Bolton, esteemed leading knight; H. L. Hess, esteemed loyal knight; Hugh E. Brady, esteemed lecturing knight; Mood Eckley, secretary; Chester Thompson, treasurer; R. E. Westenhaver, exquire; George B. Richardson, chaplain; Claude L. Berry, inner guard; Charles O. Marchison, tyler.

Trustees: J. C. Hughes, Clint W. Van Fleet, George C. Hopkins. Flag day committee: Dettle Greene, A. W. Nelson, David I. Stoddard, George S. Blaine, F. S. Ivanhoe.

Ushers: Arthur Van Fleet, A. J. Johnson, Ben Hansen.

HUNT'S LETTER

It might then become preferable to help local lads first, place the man most likely to succumb in the years and the burdens of the office, seeking to get into second place on the ticket the man or type of man they would really prefer as president.

Of the dozen or more leading and "dark horse" candidates in the running at New York, five are more than 60 years of age.

McAdoo is the youngest of the sexagenarians. He will be 61 on October 21. Also, he is physically the most active. Due to his temperament and his physical fitness, his age is no handicap. He has the sinewy wiriness of a broncho and the physical keenness of the average man of 40.

Underwood comes next, with 62 years behind him. Well preserved, well poised, somewhat phlegmatic, he is the sort that passes three-score and ten with reasonable security.

Walsh of Montana, at 65, also would be a good insurance risk. He feels, as he looks, more nearly 55.

Glass of Virginia, who is regarded as the legatee of the McAdoo strength in case William Gilbo cannot land the nomination, was 64 last January. Small, wiry, physically as tough as a sole leather, he is the type that gradually shrivels to a wrinkled old age, but keeps a bright eye and caustic tongue into his eighties.

Last, and oldest of the five, is Samuel Moffett Harrison of Indiana, by many regarded because of, not in spite of, his years—the most likely nominee.

Much has been written of Hamilton's age as a handicap to his nomination. No one has raised that issue against Glass, although Hamilton is only one month and four days older. He was 64 on December 1.

But Hamilton is a big, heavy-set, red man and his years appear at least to rest more heavily upon him.

And there is where the favor of the boys who may be forced to play a long shot to achieve their desires comes in.
