

GARDENS HIT AT WALLOWA

WALLOWA, Ore. (Special). Many fine gardens and lawns in town are suffering greatly from the absence of necessary water during the hot dry weather. Reports from the Diamond section west of town state that it is difficult to get sufficient water for irrigation at the second crop of alfalfa and that a considerable acreage will no doubt be so short as to make the cutting of a second crop impossible.

One or two cases of scarlet fever are reported in town. One of the cases is a small child of James Evans and the other Elmer Southwick's small daughter. The disease is said to be in a light form, with the children scarcely sick enough to be in bed. Precautions are being taken to prevent any further spread of the disease.

Howard McLean and wife drove in from Pendleton, Saturday afternoon to spend the week-end visiting with relatives here. The McLeans were accompanied by some friends who went on to Wallowa Lake and returned for a few days outing.

The fishing is reported to be greatly improved to what it has been during the spring and early summer. Some very satisfactory catches have been reported by local fishermen.

A considerable disappointment among persons who had made application for the rural carrier position on the new route to be started here early in the fall, was occasioned early in the week upon receipt of a letter from the post-office department stating the route would operate three days per week, instead of daily. This came as a surprise as everyone had expected that no difficulty would be experienced in getting a daily route, due to the large amount of mail which would go out over this new route. It is stated that nearly a dozen persons had made application for carrier's examination, since the letter telling of the three-day a week proposition has been made known, some of the prospective applicants say they do not care for the position, because of the difference in the salary, which would amount to $200 a year.

Frank Walker, living in the Leap country, was brought to the hospital here Saturday suffering from appendicitis. He had been sick only a short time and did not consider his condition serious. An operation was decided upon, which disclosed the fact that the appendix had burst in two places. He is reported to be getting along well at this time.

T. G. Johnson and daughters made a trip up Bear creek and up the mountain the first of the week to search for huckleberries. Some who have been in that locality recently report the huckleberry crop very good there. A considerable quantity of berries have been brought into town during the past week.

Frank Martin was quite seriously injured while working in the Bowman-Hicks Co. sawmill here, the first of the week. He was engaged in working at the edge, an edge in some manner was thrown striking him in the stomach. He was hurried to the hospital where he was given medical attention, and is able to be around again at this time. Two or three men have been injured in the same manner at the mill recently.

LEWISTON PLANS CLEARWATER DAM
LEWISTON, Idaho.—At a citizens' meeting at the commercial club rooms, attended by a number of the council, decision was rendered for the city to enter definitely on the project of installing a dam in the Clearwater river here. At Monday night's meeting, the council will take formal steps for having surveys made and final data obtained.

The meeting was largely attended and the project was approved with enthusiasm. A citizens' committee has been engaged some time getting preliminary data. This committee includes C. J. Brewer, merchant; George E. Erb, former member of the Idaho utility commission; Fred E. Emery, member of the council, and James McCreary, proprietor of the Raymond hotel.

Several years ago the city obtained an engineer's report on a dam. This report has been made the basis of the inquiry made by the citizens' committee. The estimate shows that a dam, 20 feet high and costing about $25,000, would develop 1000 to 2000 horsepower and would create a log storage about four miles long. With construction of the dam, the city will enter the power and general electric service field and will be in a position to encourage factory development along all lines.

IDAHO TOMATOES 19 CENTS FOUND
JULIETTA, Idaho.—Walter Cochran, one of the best known melon growers of Julietta, is as "picky in choice" this summer. Mr. Cochran had a small patch of ground that he thought would be ideally adapted to the growing of tomatoes. The ground was put into the best possible condition and seeds from the earliest maturing tomatoes obtainable were planted. The plants were given intensive cultivation throughout the dry and hot weather and Mr. Cochran marketed several hundred pounds of choice tomatoes before other growers of Julietta had any ripe tomatoes.

He received 10 cents a pound for the tomatoes, but the supply was not sufficient to meet one-tenth of the demand. Mr. Cochran regrets that he did not have five or ten acres of the tomatoes on the same kind of ground, as he would have reaped a small fortune. The contract price this year with the local cannery is $12 a ton, while Mr. Cochran is obtaining $200 a ton.

DOCTOR FINDS NO REST
PENDLETON, Ore.—When Dr. V. J. Bartlett of Baker, secretary-treasurer of the Eastern Oregon Medical society, started from Baker to attend the annual meeting of the society at Bingham Springs, he anticipated a complete vacation. On arrival at Emigrant hill, however, he found Orville Phillips, a tourist from Colorado, whose car had gone over the edge of the hill road.

The tourist was brought to St. Anthony's hospital by the physician and given medical attention. He will recover.

When Winter Comes in Summer

WINTER comes in the summertime at Rapid City, S. D. Hundreds of windows were broken, roofs caved in, automobiles were wrecked, and a deluge of hailstones four inches deep covered the city streets after a severe half-hour storm. Folks brought their snowshoes out of the cellars and went to work.
