THE OLDEST TONIC IN THE WORLD IS OIL OF THE OLIVE AND PORT WINE—PORTOLIVE

The ancient Greeks, who developed their bodies to almost perfection, used practically no other method of keeping in perfect health. Even to this day all of the Latin people, such as the French, Italians and Spanish follow this method and such modern ailments as dyspepsia, indigestion, nervousness and constipation are unknown among them.

Portolive is just a mixture of olive Port Wine, not flavored with oil and other natural body builders.

"Daddies" Rings New Note in Photoplay Art.

Certainly the day of "better" screen productions has arrived. The very highest type of entertainment is embodied in Warner Bros. Screen Classic, "Daddies," at Sherry's today, adapted from the famous David Belasco stage success of the same name, which opened yesterday at the Sherry theatre.

Here is a picture that furnishes all that good entertainment demands in a clean sparkling comedy, and yet carries along a mighty good story that is full of real heart throbs and human interest. The story is extremely well told and the work of the splendid cast is convincing and makes extremely funny situations appear well within reason and logical—the very highest art of comedy presentation.

The story centers around a college bachelor club that has been a going concern for some years. The fall and decline of the noble institution is caused when the members of the club decide to adopt some war orphans. The experiences of the five foster daddies are extremely funny and furnish a large share of the comedy.

As Ruth Atkins, the seventeen-year-old "orphan," Mae Marsh does some excellent work. In fact she so plays the part that the whole audience, as well as her foster daddy, falls in love with her. A great deal of care seems to have been taken in selecting the cast for "Daddies." Every one in the large cast, even the youngsters, have been chosen with excellent taste, and their work is excellent. It makes the whole story ring true.

"Daddies" is the kind of entertainment that lasts long after you have left the theatre. It makes you forget your worries of mind, and leaves you permeated with some of the happiness with which the picture teems.

Comedy, "Lodge Night."

Mack Sennett's New Comedy-Melodrama Showing at Arcade.

Following the stupendous success won by "Molly O." Mack Sennett has produced another feature picture in dramatic comedy vein, "The Creams of New York," which is being released through Associated First National Pictures, Inc., and will be the attraction at the Arcade theatre today.

As his added in making "The Creams of New York" the producer has assembled many of the artists famous in his former line of endeavor. E. E. McKnight, who directed "Molly O." is the director for this picture. The cast includes in addition to George O'Hara and Kathryn McGuire, who play the leads, Eddie Gribbon, Billie Brown, Charles Murray, Dot Farley and Mildred June, all well known performers of the Sennett studios. Then, too, there are Noah Beery, famous for his portrayal of heavy types; Herbert Standing, veteran character actor; Elliot Grey, Terry and Ben Deely.

Fresh from the country, young Michael Flint comes to New York to live with his Uncle James, a regular mariner of the Wall Street school. Uncle has different ideas as to how his nephew will play the leads, Eddie Gribbon, Billie Brown, Charles Murray, Dot Farley and Mildred June, all well known performers of the Sennett studios. Then, too, there are Noah Beery, famous for his portrayal of heavy types; Herbert Standing, veteran character actor; Elliot Grey, Terry and Ben Deely.
