BEAR KILLED BY WOMAN

HOOD RIVER, Ore.—A love for green apples proved the undoing of a big black bear, killed by Mrs. Waldo Aron, a young matron of the middle valley. The bear had laid waste the fruit of several trees in the orchard of W. H. Austin, a neighbor of the Arons family. Children saw the bear eating his fill of fruit in broad daylight. Reports were made to locate members of the neighborhood. When they could not be found Mrs. Aron loaded her husband's rifle and stalked the bear. A shot in the brain had slain her.

HOLDING MANY GRANGE MEETS

INTERPRESS, Ore. (Special)—A series of meetings in the interest of the Grange and for the advancement of its program are being held in the county. The meetings are conducted by officers of the Pamona Grange, the county organization.

Clarence F. Davies, master, explains the tour as follows: We have a double purpose in mind; first to bring the attention of the voters to the income tax and oleomargarine measures to be on the ballot this fall, and second to acquaint the people of the county with the Grange work and organize new granges where the sentiment is favorable. We are fighting for the oleomargarine bill, and opposing the repeal of the present income tax law. An attempt was made by the Oregon state Grange to initiate a new tax measure that satisfied our demands better than the present law, but failed to secure the required signatures in time.

We expect to visit, not only the outlying districts where no granges exist, but also the localities where subsidiaries are now operating. The remainder of our itinerary is as follows: Paradise, August 19, night; Grange, August 20, night; Liberty, August 22, night; Promis, August 23, morning; Trout Creek, August 23, night; Innaha, may be included for August 25, but not yet settled.

The trip will be made by Prof. S. T. Balle, South-Hughes man of Wallawa; Rev. G. H. Pense, lecturer of the county Grange, and also of Wallawa; C. F. Davies, master of the county Grange of Joseph; W. R. Gekeler, the state deputy master of La Grande; and L. H. Davies of Joseph, who will entertain with musical selections including some of his Scotch pieces.

ent national plan and the plans to each locality, and to improve them where necessary, so that if an emergency occurs we will have detailed plans well thought out, in advance and understood by all our people, thus doing away with any delay, inefficiency and suffering, and a part of the waste of lives and treasure that have attended all our past wars.

"The plan, which the Defense Test is designed to illustrate to the American people, have been worked out by experts, men who have studied their entire lives in the study of National Defense," General Liggett continued. "These men have seen the realities of previous wars and have witnessed the unavoidable when a nation is suddenly plunged into war and its manifold needs thrust upon the nation and assembled and directed by inexperienced leaders.

"To no one are these facts more apparent than to those who served during the last war and who saw the effects of lack of training and preparation. These are not the people who are opposing the Defense Test."

Know Nothings Oppose Plan
"Opposition seems to come from those who are least qualified to know what they are opposing and from those who have been misled by the platitudes of misguided individuals and propaganda of various so-called peace societies. They would deny the right of the American people to see for themselves and judge for themselves just what provisions our government has made for our national safety."

VOTE SLACKER BIG PROBLEM

CHICAGO, (AP)—Responding to the direct question, "Why didn't you vote?" more than 5,000 registered voters of Chicago, have responded investigators for the University of Chicago that the problem of getting voters to the polls is far from solution.

That the problem of women non-voters is particularly serious, and the prejudice against female suffrage still great among many people, are the two outstanding conclusions of the investigators. Their scientific study was directed by Professors Charles E. Merriam and Harold P. Gonnell, and the account of it has just been published by the University of Chicago press.

Although the election chosen for study was a local election, that which hit Mayor Dwyer in office in Chicago, in April 1923—the discoveries made and the conclusions drawn may be regarded as going to the heart of similar problems in every large city of America.

More than 5,000 persons registered for the election were asked the question, "Why didn't you vote?" and answers of 2,516 of them were tabulated.

Disbelief in woman's voting defeated 414; objections of husband 54; ailments with politics 220; disgust with their own party, 195; belief that one vote counts for nothing 79; belief that ballot box is corrupted 49; and distrust in city political action 22.

Illness detained 647, absence 259; detained by helpless member of family, 115. Insufficient legal residence 274; fear of loss of business or wages 239; conviction at polls 44; poor location of polling booth 45; and fear of disclosure of age 14.

General indifference 1347. Indifference to particular election 129; intended to vote but failed 448; ignorance or timidity regarding election 37; and failure of party workers 47.

Of the 5,219, the male non-voters number 1881 and the female 2629. "Entirely different situations stimulated non-voting among the women and among the men," the investigators found. "Only one-third of the male non-voters as compared with one-half of the female non-voters were indifferent toward elections. On the other hand, three-fifths of the men as compared with three-fourths of the women who did not vote said they were kept from polls by physical or administrative obstacles. One-fourth of the female non-voters are anti-suffragists."

MAKING WORLD WAR PICTURE

UNIVERSITY OF OREGON, Eugene, Ore. (Special)—"A History of the World War," a motion picture now in preparation by Arthur Powers, of the University Extension Division, will be released in September. Mr. Powers is cutting the scenes most important historically from about a dozen official war reviews, which he is re-arranging, re-titling, and re-editing to form a six-reel film, to be included in the University Loan Collection.

"The film will satisfy a specific demand of the part of the schools, American Legion folk, and other organizations interested in historical subjects," stated Mr. Powers.

"The picture will show life among the men in the various forms of service during the war; famous battles, including Chateau Thierry, in which the American forces were active; leaders in the war, Wilson, Poincaré, Pershing and others; the machinery used in war camouflage; and scenes which have historical significance.

"The University film service now has a half million feet of film which is available in the loan collection. The pictures are educational, and include scenic, industrial, and historical material. The films are loaned, some free of charge and others for a small rental fee. They are especially popular with schools, churches, and community organizations."

Excitement Kills Fisherman
TACOMA, Wash.—Becoming over-excited while pulling in a three pound salmon at Sunrise beach Saturday night, Philip Davies of Portland, 73, dropped dead in his boat. It was learned here. He was believed by nearby fishermen to have fainted, but when they rushed to his boat, they found he was dead, according to A. J. Nelson of Sunrise beach, who saw him drop.
