OUTBURSTS OF EVERETT TRUE

La Grande Theatres

Beverly Bayne To Appear Again In La Grande.

A most important announcement certain to be welcomed by screen followers throughout the country is that Beverly Bayne has returned to the silent drama as the feminine lead in "Her Marriage Vow," a Warner Bros. Screen Classic. She appears opposite Monte Blue.

For the past few seasons, since her temporary retirement from the screen, she has toured the Orpheum and Keith circuits as a headline attraction. She has been residing in Los Angeles for several months. It was because of her individual style and her likeness to the part in "Her Marriage Vow" that she was finally induced to reappear in pictures in this important role.

Beverly Bayne will be recalled as one of the outstanding motion picture actresses of her time. In this new picture, entitled Blue, the cast includes Whiard-Louis, Margaret Livingston, John Roche, Allan Forrest and Delia Moran.

"Her Marriage Vow" is a screen version of the renowned dramatic success of the same name by Owen Davis.

Nita Naldi Surely Has the Right Idea.

Why was woman created beautiful? "To be loved," is the reply of Nita Naldi.

"And because woman is beautiful she is loved by man," says the featured Paramount player.

"Because it is woman's desire always to be loved she does all in her power to enhance her beauty."

Nita Naldi was asked if she believed it proper for girls to use rouge, lipstick, powder and their artificial aids to beauty that are common to the feminine sex.

"Decidedly not," she replied. "Since it is a woman's desire to be fair to look upon, she is privileged to use any means to improve her attractiveness. If cosmetics make her more comely, then she should certainly use them. However, too many girls overdo matters. Men who seek beauty can find only momentary fascination in the girl who applies paints and powder so heavily that her own complexion and features are hidden."

"Why has this thought not been interpreted upon the screen?" she was next asked.

"Why hasn't it?" Nita Naldi repeated the question, then laughed. "It is being done right now. And it falls to my lot to be the woman who marries, in a title, to her lover, 'Why am I beautiful, if not to be loved?'"

The role to which Nita Naldi refers is that of Lita Coventry in "Don't Call It Love," William de Mille's latest Paramount production in which she is featured with Agnes Ayres, Chuck Cobb, Theodore Loring and Don La Rocque, which will be seen at the Avenue theatre today and tomorrow. This picture was adapted to the screen by Clara Beranger from Julian Street's popular novel and Saturday Evening Post story, "Lita Coventry."

The small pig at wedding time has been found to be worth about one-third as much as the same pig at market time in Oregon, when prices remain the same, in the investigations by the experiment station swine specialists. A method recommended for determining the value of weaned pigs is to figure a good weaner of 30 to 40 pounds as being worth as much as 60 pounds of pork, live weight.

Political Life Arouses Indians of Montana

HELENA, Mont., (AP).—Montana Indians, apparently aroused by the recent enactment of the Indian citizenship bill, are taking an increasing interest in politics. Several Indians, educated in the reservation schools, have filed this year for county offices, while Robert Yellowtail, three-quarter blood Crow Indian, of Lodge Grass, has announced his desire to attend the white man's congress at Washington as a representative from Montana.

Yellowtail, who is 35 years old, completed his education by private tutoring after his graduation from the reservation school. Encouraged by his tribesmen, he recently filed for congress from the second district, subject to the primary election August 26. He is opposing Congressman Scott Leavitt, of Great Falls, who is completing his first term.

Montana's Indian population is estimated at 12,000, of whom 7,000 live in the second congressional district. More than 2,000 Indians from the six reservations will be allowed to vote this year. Yellowtail, who gives his occupation as a rancher, announced he will base his campaign on his knowledge of Indian problems.
