COUNTY FAIR GAME PLANNED

ELGIN, Ore. (Special to the Observer)—Baseball fans are to be treated to a good brand of baseball in the forenoon of the last two days of the county fair. La Grande is to play an all-star team from Union county, and to put a little snap in the games a side-pot of $500 is to be battled for in addition to a percentage of the gate receipts.

The games are to be played in the forenoon of Thursday and Friday—the last two days of the fair. Contenders against the county seat team will probably come from Elgin and Cove. Taking the fast ones out of both teams an aggregation ought to be thrown together that will give the La Grande team a run for its money.

Fahy in Jail Is Glad Tidings to "Tim's Wife" have gone after him right in the courtroom. But I went up to him one day in the corridor and he surely did hurry to deny it.

"And I says, 'Listen, if Tim Murphy is kept in prison a hundred years, I'll be waiting for him, because his little toe is more to me you or any other man in the world.' Tim has been in 18 months now, and I've been to see him every month. He's eligible for parole, and if it hadn't been for Fahy and his framed charges about that robbery at Pullman, he'd be out.

"Fahy hasn't stopped at Tim either. He told a young fellow we know not very long ago that he'd like to get something on that big blond, meaning me.

"You know how they did me when Tim was arrested on the Dearborn robbery, don't you? 'Well, I was in the hospital from an operation. And Fahy and his squad ransacked our house. I don't know who did it, but when I got back nearly everything was missing. The pearl-handled knives and forks we got as a wedding present and table linen, and some champagne and even $3 cents from the pocketbook of our servant girl.

"I'd like to see him looking from behind the bars now."

The arrest of Fahy was the most spectacular incident in the memory of the present generation of postoffice inspectors. Fahy himself, trained, keen, tone-waif, silver of many a dark mystery, led the search for the Roundout robbers. He helped make some of the arrests and pointed out there must have been a traitorous steering brain within the postoffice department to make the crime possible.

A tip from one of the prisoners to Chief Inspector A. E. Gerner suggested Fahy. Almost immediately the chief called in aids from distant territory, unknown to Fahy. They found Fahy in conference with James Murray, wealthy politician, arrested for the robbery charge, but out on bail.

They set a trap. One of the inspectors was to approach Murray as a prospective buyer for bonds taken in the robbery. Then Fahy was told of the move. No one else knew. By the time the buyer saw Murray, he had been tipped off. Fahy must have walked into the trap.

"There's more evidence than that," says Inspector Charles H. Baltimore, who came here to direct the inquiry. "The case is sewed up."

Tramp's Soft Bed Cost $10.

HOOD RIVER, Ore.—A tramp's lodging in a box car here one night cost $10. The car contained apple wrappers. Some of the boxes of paper were left overnight in the open car. The tramp saw the open doors, crawled in and slit open two of the big bundles. He spread the paper over the car floor and made a soft bed.
