OUTBURSTS OF EVERETT TRUE

"Two-Fisted Ed" Is Real Two-Fisted Photoplay.

A new Edmund Cobb western is made and is at Sherry's today. It is called "At Devil's Gorge," and is one of the finest Wild West pictures made in a long time. "Two-Fisted Ed," as the admirer of this popular star call him, certainly lives up to his reputation in this picture, and the result is that you will see a film with wonderful photography, thrilling action and a story with a kick. Edmund Cobb is undoubtedly one of the foremost "Western" stars on the screen today. He is clean cut, six feet two, slim, a wonderful horseman and certainly the most daring stunt actor we have. The supporting cast leaves nothing to be desired, especially when we have such support as Helen Rossman, William White and Max Asher. Ashton Dearholt is the producer, and his ability is so well known that there can be no doubt that this picture is the ideal offering for those who like romance, thrills and quick action served in the best possible manner. There is not a dull moment in the whole picture. Comedy showing "His First Car."

From Obscurity to Fame Is Jacqueline Logan's Story.

Beauty and youth alone would not do it, so Jacqueline Logan added ability—and won. Journalism opens many locked doors. When Miss Logan was a newspaper woman in Nebraska she met the Shuberts. But her pen wasn't needed, for actresses were more in demand. That was her start. Soon afterward the Follies chimed her. Another change—a flattering offer from Hollywood—wooded her to California, where she was an instantaneous hit opposite Thomas Meighan in "White and Unmarried."

Fourteen Paramount pictures among them "Edna Tide," "Jawn Head," "Salome Jane," "The Light That Failed," "Flaming Barriers" and others. In two years is some feat but ably handled by this clever young actress.

"The Dawn of a Tomorrow," Miss Logan's latest Paramount picture, in which she is featured with David Torrence and Raymond Griffith, comes to the Arcade theater today. The story, in one of the London upper and lower world by Frances Hodgson Burnett. Harvey Thew wrote the screen play. George McElford directed.

The strong supporting cast includes Alma Bennett, Guy Oliver, in the new pictures. A great ring battle is among the opening thrills, there is a desperate fight, later on in an orphanage, a thrilling rescue from fire, and many other bits of excitement, also many laughs.

A splendid cast supports Dempsey in the new series. Hayden Stevenson, the fight manager of "The Leather Pushers," Kate Price, famous for her character work in "Roads Highway," Carmella Garatty, noted screen beauty. Esther Itelson, of "Hinky," James O. Harrows, veteran character artist, Chuck Reiser and George Ovey, celebrated comedians, are in the cast. Jess Robbins, who directed "The Law Forbids" and Kenton, who directed the Andy Gump comedies, collaborate as directors of the champion.

Cowitz Valuation $20,731,327

KEISO, Wash.—Cowitz county ranks 16th among the counties of Washington with an assessed valuation of $20,731,327 for the year 1924, according to figures just announced by the state equalization board. Cowitz county made a big gain in assessed valuation largely because of the development in KEMO and Longview and advanced above a number of counties that formerly had larger valuations. The county's ratio was set at 44 by the board.

One easy way to keep this county democratic would be to make the upper class use the upper berths.
