Schissler and His Five Assistants

If the Aggie football team fails to defeat Whitman this Friday at Pendleton it will not be for lack of coaches. The above photograph, taken recently at Corvallis, shows Paul John Schissler, head coach, and his quintette of assistants. Turner and King are also Lombard men, Spec Keene is well known here, having played baseball this summer with the Pirates; and Coleman and Hubbard are also familiar to most East Oregonians.

Missouri Valley Teams to Get Tests

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP)—All the Missouri conference football teams swing into action this week in contests that will provide trial runs for the new machines before they start away on the ends for the mythical valley title.

Three of the valley elevens will be tested out next Saturday against Eastern conference lineups and another, Drake, will get its first tank of battle in the west with Utah at Salt Lake.

In the clashes with members of the "Big Ten," Missouri meets Chicago at Chicago; Nebraska plays Illinois at Lincoln and Iowa State takes on Wisconsin at Madison.

The other valley teams will be content with working out against less dangerous foes near home. Washington, playing on the home field, meets Deary college; Kansas meets Oklahoma A. & M. college at Lawrence; the Kansas Aggies play Washburn college at Topeka; Oklahoma is scheduled with Edmond normal at Edmond, and Grinnell meets Cornell college at Grinnell.

Utah was the only conference institution to make its debut last week, winning from Nebraska Wesleyan, 23 to 13.

Sedate City Celebrates Pennant Winning Feat

Senators battling for the league leadership, the strain on the fans increased. With the team at home they packed the ball park. Out of town games found the higher ups in governmental circles adding gloves in front of scoreboards; Washington rooted and rooted and Monday was its night of nights.

Word of Monday's victory flew over the city. Mrs. Coolidge was one of the first to hear of it at the White House and gave the tidings to the president.

The telegram from the executive mansion, which was signed by C. Bascom Sloop, secretary of the president, and addressed to Manager Harris, read:

"Heartiest congratulations to you and your team for your great work in bringing Washington its first pennant. We of Washington are proud of you and behind you. On to the world's champion!"

Dethrone Yankees.
By defeating the Boston Red Sox Monday afternoon, the Senators brought to a climax one of the most spectacular diamond campaigns in history and accomplished the downfall of the New York Yankees, once grand world's champions, who Monday night rested in second place, two and a half games behind the leaders.

The Yankees have two games to play with Philadelphia Tuesday while Washington has one more with the Red Sox, but regardless of the outcome of these Miller Huggins must stop off the American league throne after a three-year reign in favor of Stanley Harris, pilot of the Senators, and the youngest manager who ever led a major league club to victory.

Washington's rise this year, under the aggressive leadership of the 28-year-old Harris, a major leaguer only five years and experiencing his first managerial test, in one of the most dramatic achievements in baseball annals. This fighting youngster will meet one of the greatest strategists of the game when he takes the field against John McGraw, gray haired master mind of the Giants.

Sharing the glory of Washington's triumph with Harris are Walter Johnson, the greatest pitcher of all time, and Clark Griffith, now president and former manager of the club. In his 18th season, Johnson has been the main stay of the team's twirling corps and now will realize a lifelong ambition to pitch a world's series. Griffith, the "old fox," is credited with being "the man behind the gun" in the Senators' campaign and having had much to do with the club's successful strategy.

Washington's first rise in the American league was won after a terrific closing fight in which Harris and his men came through to victory on foreign fields. But they were friendly fields. Nearly everywhere Washington had appeared in its final drive, fans eager for the overthrow of New York, cheered in their home city. Washington has had clubs in four leagues since 1894, but never has been able to finish higher than second. A year in the Union association, two in the American association and 12 in the National league preceded the city's entry into the American league in 1901, a year after that circuit was launched. Under Clark Griffith, now part owner and president, the club did its best work in 1912 and 1913 when it finished second, behind Boston and Philadelphia respectively. Otherwise Wash-ingvin has been a chronic tall order, getting out of the second division in only for other seasons, outside 1924, and all told, finishing 23 times in last place and nine times in next to last position. The world series will start in Washington Saturday. Johnson is scheduled to pitch for the Senators and McQuillan for the Giants.
