(By VALETTE HARRIS)

An assembly beginning at 9 o'clock and lasting about forty minutes was held Tuesday morning. Ex-Governor Davis of Idaho spoke to the student body. His speech contained many useful and interesting points. Mr. Davis urged the students to use the best of their ability in learning about the workings of the government so that they may become good voters and citizens in the years to come. Education was emphasized as a very valuable asset to any person. Every young person should take advantage of his opportunity to get an education in the public schools. Young people should not be idle but should take some responsibility. Every one should have something definite for which he is responsible. In doing anything, whether it be large or small, the best of one's ability should be put forth. When one has an unimportant job he should not do his work and stop there but should study how the man above him does his. Also he should save part of his income no matter how small it may be. In this way when a promotion comes, one will be ready to do the new work efficiently. Success is the reward of honesty and persistency. This was shown in the story which Mr. Davis related about the Hingling brothers. These brothers started a show for which they charged a price to see the entrance fee. Soon, it was pennies and then nickels. After a few years the show began to travel from town to town. The Hingling brothers were determined to have the best circus in the world. By hard work and determination, they won.

The members of the glee club, under the direction of Miss Miller, are continuing the try out for the opera. Much time is being spent on the choice of the cast. The parts that have been fitted for the parts will be found.

Monday a class meeting was called by President Hammett to elect Live-Wires. The Live-Wires will have more to do this year than has been the custom in former years. Therefore much consideration was given to the choice of these officers. Wilma Smith and Robert Smith were elected. On Tuesday another Senior meeting was called. Miss Bennett reminded the Seniors that the time was coming near for the Junior "dinner" to be in. Seniors were urged to induce the lower classes men who have not already bought their student body tickets to do so as soon as possible.

There was much excitement at the high school Friday. An assembly was held in the morning in which Mr. Taylor announced that the report cards would be given out at the noon hour. He also requested each student to write on a slip of paper the list of subjects he is carrying this term. This was done on the request of the state superintendent, Mr. Churchill, so that he can determine what subjects are studied by the greatest number of students. Similar reports are taken from all high school students in the state. All books were inspected to attend the rally to be held Friday evening. Initiation will be held after the rally, and all books were asked to help make the entertainment a success. Written invitations were sent to the H. D. and the members of the school board to attend the rally.

The Junior play practice has begun in earnest with regular rehearsal held each day. The dates set for the play are November 2 and 5.

Mr. Dickson, representing the Beaver Engraving company of Portland, talked to the seniors Friday morning.

Seniors are working on their "dummies." These are plans made by students and are due November 14th. A committee of faculty members selects through these, the nominees for the Junior staff. The selection is based on the merit of the dummy. The editor is then elected by the class from the nominees thus chosen.

The Student Council is an organization that tends to improve the general welfare of the high school students. It is quite an honor to be elected as a member and the following were chosen by the faculty and the students of the respective classes:

An inscription placed below the picture of a rooster in a tavern room recently excavated at Pompeii, Italy, reads as follows: "When this rooster crows we give credit."

All three leading teams in the league won yesterday but Seattle's win practically assured the northern city of its first pennant. With a two-game lead only the barest chance remains of them now galloping home ahead of the field. Seattle defeated Portland 5 to 2. Los Angeles won from Vernon 9 to 6. San Francisco stepped on Oakland 3 to 2 and Salt Lake battered Sacramento 9 to 1.

About the only fight seemingly left in the percentage column will be the fray between the Seaphs and Seals for second place.

FRAUD TRIAL CONTINUES

MEDFORD, Ore.—It now looks as if the long drawn out land fraud trial of George W. Laidley of Medford and R. G. Ehl of San Diego in United States court here will last all week and not go to the jury until some time Saturday afternoon.

Another day probably will be required in taking testimony and hearing arguments of counsel. Mr. Laidley was still on the witness stand under cross-examination when court adjourned.

HINTS TO MOTORISTS

The matter of dimming the headlights of a car commands a space in this column. When a driver has his lights dimmed and meets another car that has glaring headlights everything is blind to the man with the dim lights until after he gets out of the rays of the approaching car's lights. Very serious accidents have occurred from this cause and all drivers should help to eliminate them, particularly when it is so easily eliminated. — ALONZO G. DUNN, La Grande traffic officer.

OFFICIAL IS ARRESTED

ASTORIA, Ore.—Lawrence Anderson, deputy state land commissioner, enjoyed the thrill of being handcuffed and dragged from a local restaurant.

Despite his remonstrances, Anderson was hauled from the table where he was dining with his wife, but was released when the street was reached. It appeared that the police officer had made the "arrest" on what he said was identification of Anderson by a furniture dealer as a man who recently had passed a worthless check at the latter's establishment.

The dealer, on the other hand, denied having pointed Anderson out to the officer.
