

INTEREST IN TREES GROWS

WASHINGTON (AP).—The tree planting army will start the fall campaign next week, when thousands of trees will be planted in memory of Theodore Roosevelt on Oct. 27, his birthday, according to reports to the American Tree association.

The planting campaign will continue through Education week, Nov. 17. The first two days of which coincide with the dates for which Secretary Wallace has called a national conference on utilization of forest products. A booklet, "If the Nation Saves the Trees the Trees Will Save the Nation," is ready for free distribution by the American Tree association during Education week.

The association is also sending out tree planting suggestions and tree day programs to women's clubs, boy and girl scout troops and American Legion posts throughout the country. The legion planted its first national tree at the St. Paul convention. The town forest program is being taken up by many legion posts and municipalities, the officials of the association report.

"There is nothing in which the American people need more education than the forestry problem," said Charles Lathrop Pack, president of the American Tree association, today. "These days coming together are of peculiar significance. Preceded as they are by the birthday of Theodore Roosevelt, they are given double significance."

"With the center of the lumber industry nearing the Pacific coast and with eighty-one million acres of idle land in the United States fit only for growing trees, we must not only utilize to the best possible advantage what we have left, but we must begin growing new forests to insure the future prosperity of the nation, for forest products are the backbone of every industry."

Library Chats

POOR "DUMB DORA."

"Hello, Dora," said the young painter in the old story, "you look exactly like something out of the Italian Renaissance." "Is that so?" Dora answered, "You don't look so well yourself." "You know Dumb Dora, don't you?"

She not only think that Rex Beach is a summer resort; she also believes that Romeo and Juliet are a vaudeville team; that Helen of Troy lives near Albany, and that Zane Grey is a color.

Of course, you're not in Dumb Dora's class, and there's not much danger of your slipping into it. You follow what's going on in the world; and you are acquainted with the great events and the great persons of history and literature.

With the coming of the winter months it also becomes time to think of that reading course you have always planned to take but have never had the time for. Why not let the library plan a reading course for you, in what ever line you are interested?

1. Great literature — ancient, medieval and modern.
2. Thrills books of great fiction.
3. American history.
4. American history course.

If you are not interested in any of the above courses, ask your public library to outline one for you in any subject which you wish to learn more about.

Jews Plant Millions Of Trees in Palestine

JERUSALEM (AP).—The treeless slopes and valleys of Palestine are gradually being reforested, according to an official government statement just issued, which states that nearly 2,000,000 trees and 1,000,000 vines have been planted in the Holy Land between 1920 and 1924, the first four years of the administration of Sir Herbert Samuel as British High Commissioner.

Palestine became denuded of its forests owing to Turkish misrule and neglect, says the statement, which resulted in the abrasion of some of the best soil from the hillsides and in the accumulation of malaria swamps in the valleys. The work of afforestation began 49 years ago when the first Jewish settlements were founded, but received a great impetus after the war when, under the British mandate, greater opportunities for development were opened to Jews.

The government department of agriculture planted 1,255,062 trees during the past four years; the Palestine Foundation Fund and the Jewish National Fund, affiliated agencies of the World Zionist Organization, 472,923 trees; the Supreme Moslem Council, 14,100; while the balance were planted by individuals, mostly settlers on the Jewish agricultural colonies.
