Sweden Ready to Supply United States with Lumber

STOCKHOLM (AP)—A new and important item may soon be added to the export trade from Sweden to America, according to statements in the press by a Swedish lumber expert, the government forester, M. Juhlin-Dannfelt, who has returned here after an extended tour of the United States as an exchange scholar under the auspices of the American Scandinavian Foundation.

The demands on the forest resources of America have already become so great, says Mr. Juhlin-Dannfelt, that a lumber shortage is being increasingly felt, especially in the eastern states. Besides, the long hauls from the region of standing timber involve sufficiently heavy freight charges to make imports from overseas advantageous. Consequently, a new market for Swedish lumber is opening up and, in fact, a considerable number of shipments have already been made to Atlantic ports. Spruce, fir, and pine lumber, especially undressed materials, such as lath and planks, has been absorbed easily by the American market, and Swedish mills now look for a big trade along this line.

Oleo-Margarine holds down the Price of Butter

Just a few reasons why the Anti-Margarine Bill Must Be Defeated

1. It prevents the sale and manufacture of a healthful and nutritious food product now used in thousands of homes.
2. It takes away your just and honest right to buy in the open market a wholesome and economical food.
3. It will increase the cost of living in every home whether a user of margarine or of butter.
4. It denies the benefit of free and open competition.
5. It is the latest attempt through legislation to create a food monopoly.
