Young Stribling in School

Yes, the wonder fighter of Georgia has returned to the classroom in Atlanta, Ga., but his mind is still on the ring, and as he thumbs the dull pages of learning, visions of a triumphant moment lift before his eyes—a moment which will show him standing over the beaten, crushed form of a fallen champion. Young Stribling is taking an academic course and intends to enter college. They say he's a fine student.

AGGIES AWAIT VANDAL TEAM

Oregon Agricultural College, Corvallis, Or. (Special)—Should with mud corks so long that they slip even on a rainsoaked field and make a player effective on any footing, 25 Aggie football warriors are awaiting the chance at Dinno Friday.

"Fight" is the password and "hail Idaho" the rallying cry that makes only loyal Beavers safe in the Aggie camp.

The driving rain of this week has had little effect on seat sales since word has reached the public that there are 25,000 seats under cover around Dell field. Ticket sales indicate a record Friday crowd.

Neither has the rain had any effect on the spirit of the Aggie squad, which, flushed with its feat of holding Washington to a three-point lead has set "60" as goal. "No more defeats this season."

Coach Paul J. Schipper is working hard to strengthen the offense this week. New plays and forward passing is emphasized as the squad is dissatisfied with their goal kicks. As no serious injuries were received by men last Saturday, the same lineup is expected to start the game.

HUSKY-OREGON TILT SATURDAY

FOOTBALL

UNIVERSITY OF OREGON, Eugene, Ore.—(Special)—The result of the Homecoming game here Saturday between Oregon and the University of Washington will be a decisive factor in the Coast conference football race. A defeat would be a tremendous blow to the Huskies, counted upon by gridiron fans to emerge at the top of the percentage column this year after a disappointing showing against California last year. Washington took second honors in 1923.

Following the remarkable progress made by the Oregon players in the past three weeks, there are many who give Coach Maddock's men an outside chance of victory and others are hopeful of Oregon holding the invader to a tie. The Oregon offensive worked nicely against Whitman. It is a smothering, moving attack which is hard to stop. The Lemon-Yellows backs are heavy enough to rely on an attack through the rival line as well as a prompt to frequent open play. In the Whitman game, Oregon showed a good deal of versatility. The forward passing game was almost perfect. Less can be expected in an aerial attack against a heavy team, however, than against the Whitman defense.

Unless injuries result from scrimmage in the next day or two, Oregon will send an outfit first-team line-up into the game Saturday.

The ticket sale indicates that the biggest Homecoming crowd in history will be on hand Friday and Saturday. The alumni section in the Hayward Field grandstand has been entirely sold out. A block of 500 tickets has been reserved for Washington's rowers who will come to Eugene in a special train.
