Fashion Notes

Paris. — Midway fair, for some time rather out of style, is thoroughly in vogue. It trims cloaks for daytime and evening and is being used as an edging to wide hat brims.

Paris. — The fashionable stone this winter is the emerald. For evening wear the elite carrying by a very long thin chain of platinum with two triangles of emerald at the end.

London. — There is an epidemic today of striped sports clothing. Wool stockings in peppermint stripes of red and white vie with others striped in purple and gold. Sweaters, however, are either plain or decorated with pyramids.

London. — It is smart at the moment to pretend after 6 o'clock at night that your hair is not bobbed. To help the pretence there are artificial braids or rolls of hair to pin across the bobbed ends—with jeweled pins of course.

WOMEN OF FRANCE REFUSE DICTATION OF WINTER HATS

PARIS. (AP)—Winter styles are here, and with them has come a bitter fashion controversy. The "hat question" has arisen between the milliners on the one side and their customers on the other.

The milliners have replied, it shall be the Directorate, and refuse to make any other kind. Paris women have vehemently objected, and the result has been that a surprisingly large number of straw hats continues to be worn, and the time honored custom of donning velvet hats on the first day of September has been broken.

At the opening of the fall racing season at Longchamp it was noticed that women steadfastly retained their summer headwear. Especially the show windows of milliners on the rue de la Paix and the rue Royale are overstocked with velvet hats.

"It makes me look too matronly," one of the most fashionable women at the track retorted when asked the reason for her failure to adopt the "Directorate." This probably aims up the case for the customers.

The milliners have come out lately and declared that women must wear square browns or nothing. It has become practically impossible to find a milliner who will make the stubborn little cloche.

"Beware of the wrong hat! The hat you choose can make or mar not only the ensemble of your toilette, but the charm of your face itself." Such is the way a woman fashion writer in one of the most widely circulated style magazines advises her women readers.

The tendency in hat styles, apart from the square crowns, is distinctly to height. Black panne is prevalent in every modist's window. If there is any trimming at all, it must stand very high. The crown alone carries the height if the hat is not ornamented. The square crowns have their high trimming at the side or directly in front, but the round crowns, what few there are seen, carry their ornamentation on top.

The next few weeks will decide whether it is to be "the Directorate" or "the cloche" hat. Some stubborn women say they can wear their straw hats until next spring. It remains to be seen whether the milliners can carry their stocks of velvet hats all through the winter.

British Motor Trade Hints Despite Taking Off Hints

LONDON. (AP)—The withdrawal of the McKenna duties has not hurt the British motor trade, according to Sir John Simon, who is a recent address said.

"Birmingham happens to be both the excess of tariff returns and the principal market for motor shares. Since the McKenna duties came off, Birmingham newspapers announce that the market in motor shares is very active, that the threatened foreign invasion is being met by a better article at a reduced price and that the British light car industry is well established.

Gramophones sell a surprising rate. Manufacturers, it was reported, were passing through a period of unexampled prosperity. There was similar prosperity in the piano trade, and a possible shortage of phonos.
