

NEWS BUDGET FROM HILGARD

HILGARD (Special).—After an absence of several months William Farrell has returned to his home in Hilgard for the winter.

Frank Sanford served on the election board in the place of J. W. Scott, who has been chairman for many years.

Mrs. Fred Thomas spent several days last week in Pendleton and other Umatilla county points. While there she attended the funeral of her brother, who died during the visit.

Mrs. Ed Saling received word of the death of her sister, Mrs. Dean, who at one time made her home at Hilgard.

A very enjoyable dance took place at Hilgard Saturday evening. A large number were in attendance.

Mrs. Gladys Lilly visited at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Saling recently.

After spending the last two months in La Grande, Mrs. Jennie Holmerson returned to her home in Hilgard.

Mrs. Graham has taken up his residence in Hilgard for the winter. He is patrolman for the state highway and makes this his headquarters during the winter months.

Mrs. Claud Bartmoss, Rex Bartmoss and Jean Bartmoss, all of Grande Ronde valley, were guests at Hilgard Friday.

Dunc McDonald was a Hilgard visitor recently. He is driving out the last of his stock to the valley for winter feeding.

Marion Hagey went across the mountains the last of the week with the remainder of the cattle belonging to Rugg Brothers, of Pendleton. Unusually early snows hurried all stock out of the hills to winter pastures.

Mrs. Joe Young was visited recently by her mother, Mrs. Coomb of May Park.

Helix Gets Red Cross Quota.

PENDLETON, Ore.—Helix was the first community in Umatilla county to collect its quota of membership for Red Cross during the annual roll call that started Armistice day, according to local headquarters. F. H. Moss, chairman of the Helix district, sent a notification to Pendleton by telephone shortly after noon today in which he stated that the town's quota of $250 had been collected.

Red Cross Fund Grows.

ALBANY, Ore.—Reports from the workers in the county-wide drive for Red Cross members show that on the first day of the drive the response throughout the county was strong and many communities were near their quota. The county's quota is $2000. The Albany Elks lodge gave $50 towards the Albany quota of $1500.

People of Iceland Are Free From Modern Ills

HOFN, HORNAFJORD, Iceland. (AP)—Village doctors in the United States are often called upon to make trips that occupy hours, or even days, to the homes of their patients, but in Iceland the district physicians, as a matter of routine, often covers hundreds of miles by horseback in the ordinary course of his duties.

The government physician of the Hornafjord district, stretching along the southern coastline, has one of the most difficult territories to cover in the kingdom. His district embraces more than 100 square miles, most of it in remote valleys or along the narrow strip of coast. It is surrounded by huge mountains, many of them active volcanoes, scores of glaciers and great snowfields, and in the course of each inspection he must cross more than 100 rivers, few of which are bridged at any time of the year. In the spring these rivers, fed by the big glaciers that wind down nearly every valley, become swollen torrents, and it is often hours before the doctor can find a safe ford for his pony. The usual inspection trip, made every few weeks, requires at least nine days, and sometimes a fortnight.

In addition, although Iceland is an unusually healthy country with few serious diseases, unexpected calls are frequently made for the physician, who must start out at any hour of the day or night, usually preceded by a guide sent by the patient himself. Accidents frequently occur in the fish drying sheds along the coast, or among the herders in the mountain valleys, and as the district physician is the only one within hundreds of miles, he must be ready on call at any time. His trips are always made on the stout Icelandic ponies, capable of carrying large loads over great distances without fatigue.

But few of the diseases known in the cities of the world are met with in this remote district of south Iceland, shut off as it is from close contact even with other districts of the kingdom. No case of venereal disease ever has been reported at Hornafjord, and epidemics are unknown. Bronchial troubles, however, are rather frequent, and there have been some cases of pulmonary tuberculosis.

Greenland Eskimo Declared Superior to American Brother

COPENHAGEN (AP)—After an absence of three years while mapping the archipelago between Greenland and America, during which he was the first white man to cross Ruffinland, the Danish explorer, Peter Freuchen, returned to Copenhagen to publish the maps and books concerning his discoveries. Freuchen brought with him a unique botanical and zoological collection.
