(By MARIAN LOVETT)
Domestic Science Department.
 The domestic science department is preparing for an exhibition of their canned products, and food products on which much time has been spent since the beginning of school. Interesting charts and posters of the foods have been studied. These will also be on exhibition.

Going back to the daily work of the two departments we find them very interesting. The domestic are classes I and II have been making blouses, and after completing these, will proceed to learn all of the different kinds of stitches. The art classes III have been spending the week in making lamp shades which all turned out successfully.

The domestic science class II has been studying meats for the past two weeks. They have made different meat dishes which can be prepared from the various cuts of meat. Lately they have written stories about meat, using the selected outlines as follows:

1. Meat and how to cook it.
2. Preparing the different cuts of meat.
3. What I learned about meat from my butcher.
4. What the housewife ought to know about meat.

The interesting subject of pastries is being studied now.

The domestic science class I has completed its work on breakfast planning and is now ready to take up luncheons.

The domestic science III class has been studying dainty desserts which can later be used in cafeteria.

Commercial Department.
 The bookkeeping class will have its work in for this six weeks, which is much better than some preceding classes can say.

The beginners and advanced students in typing have taken their six weeks test. Some of the advanced students who have received their certificates in typing are Robert Smith, Evelyn Cullen, Rita Belle Kitchner, Louise Salisbury, Vallette Harer, Opal Ivis, George Fuller and Lucile Black.

Chemistry.
 The chemistry class has been struggling along on problems and questions of elements. The six weeks exam over these took place Monday when two hours were spent in writing. Nevertheless, the results proved that one-half of the class "flunked." Consequently, an extra class is being held daily at 8:20 a. m.

Music.
 Work has begun in earnest on the opera which is to be given in December.

The first chorus practice, outside of school hours was held Tuesday night when the actions for the prologue were learned. The cast members gave their parts memorized for the entire play. Practices have been held every night after school this week and a great deal has been accomplished. Miss Miller has made her outline for the schedule of practices.

Library Notes.
 The library has added to the list thirty-five new books, which will be put out in a few days.

A great call for material upon the early history of Greece has been made and several books are on reserve.

There is a total circulation of about seventy-five books per day. This includes periodicals, reference, and all books needed by students.

Manual and Machine Dept.
 The industrial arts department is rapidly assuming its mid-season form. The woodworking boys are advancing rapidly and are making many useful, as well as ornamental articles. Proficiency is being acquired in the handling of the tools and machines. Cabinets and tables are under construction now.

This year the gas engine boys are having a more thorough course than has ever been offered before. Although blacksmiths are few, the machinery department shows indications of turning out some first rate machines.

A short assembly was held recently for the announcement of the football game with Pendleton.

The rally Thursday evening started at 7:15 when all the students met in the auditorium.

Mr. Hampton and Warren Gilbert gave two interesting talks. Mr. Gilbert, though his ability as a music teacher is not very great, tried hard to teach the assembly "The Graveyard Song." He succeeded to some extent.

Ralph Webb, the student body president, took charge of the meeting. He called upon Capt. Sherrin, wood, and other football men to speak. After the assembly in the auditorium, the crowd went out to the bonfire, yelled and sang, and showed a great deal of the true fighting spirit, as they always show just before playing Pendleton.

There the students got in line and serpenitined through town. Every one reported a very successful rally.

A short assembly was held Friday to announce the MacDowell musical concert, which is to be given next Monday evening, Nov. 24th.

The members of the girls' hiking club, under the auspices of Miss Daugh, planned a hike for this morning.

Most of the six weeks examinations have been completed. Those students who have survived the tests are looking forward eagerly to the coming Thanksgiving holidays.

The dramatics class is studying the drama of various foreign countries. Each class member has a country and its drama to report on. The work is proving quite interesting.

The student body under the leadership of the A. G. S. officials is collecting a fund for the community chest drive. The A. G. S. is also planning to help make Thanksgiving and Christmas more cheerful for some of the more unfortunate families.

Everyone is very enthusiastic over the game with Pendleton. It is hoped that the Tigers will be able to defeat the Buckaroos by a large score. The only remaining game besides the one with Pendleton will be held at La Grande and is scheduled for Thanksgiving day.

Some of the dresses displayed at the fashion show were from West's, from Hill's, and from French and Green's.

MAIL CARRIER CRUSHED.
 PRINEVILLE, Ore. — While driving a light truck along the Crook River highway S. A. Lettice, mail contractor between Paulina and Suplec, operator of a truck line from Prineville to Suplec and an employe of the county road department, was dashed over a high cliff near the Bear creek bridge when the steering gear of his machine broke.

He was badly crushed and has only a fighting chance to live. Medical attention was summoned from Prineville, and the injured man brought here. Robert Remington, a passenger on the truck, was slightly injured in the accident.

NEW SPAN TO OPEN SOON.
 HOOD RIVER, Ore. — E. M. Chandler of Olympia, president of the Oregon-Washington Bridge company, which is completing the Hood River-White Salmon interstate span across the Columbia, announced while here that the bridge would be officially opened to traffic December 6. A local celebration, with mid-Columbia folk participating, will be held.

The formal dedication of the span will be withheld until next spring when a celebration will be held also commemorating apple blossom week here and the completion of the Mount Hood loop highway.

Fathers and Sons Feted.
 DAYTON, Ore. — Approximately 100 men and boys were guests at the second annual father and son banquet, served by the Methodist Ladies' Aid society, with young women representing the high school and local business firms, acting as waitresses. John W. Beard, chaplain of the 21st division, United States army, of Portland, delivered the principal address.

Hints for the Housewife

(By Maria Springett)

Housewives occasionally become "sick and tired" of the job of getting three meals a day. They dread their planning, look with dislike on their preparation, and can hardly bring themselves to eat them.

Husbands sometimes experience the same sort of mood. They get disgusted at seeing the same eggs done the same way served for breakfast, and the same round of meats and vegetables ready for them in the evening.

There are several ways to overcome the dissatisfaction that arises at these times. Some people go out to restaurants and hotels for a few meals. Others, unfortunately, take it out on each other, getting very ill-tempered and sometimes downright abusive without realizing what the cause is. Common sense souls are more apt to resort to another solution, really preferable to either of these devices, because it prevents such moments arriving. These persons vary meals so that the monotony of them is not obtrusive.

By the last method the housewife has the thrill of adventuring with new recipes, the husband has the pleasant surprise of viewing his wife's capacities and disposition in a new light, and the children bask in the effluence of domestic harmony that results.

All of which observations are interesting if practical. I believe there is one thing that will make them practical. That is available now recipes. Three of them are described below to point the mortar to any tale. They were all invented by a recognized dietetic expert, who turned them over to me.

The first is:

Spanish Green Olives and Cabbage in Aspic

The materials needed for this are three-quarters cup of stuffed Spanish green olives cut in thin slices; one cup of shredded cabbage; three tablespoons of mayonnaise; and for the aspic five cups of soup stock; two envelopes of gelatine, one tablespoon of vinegar, two tablespoons of chili sauce, two egg whites, and six to eight whole stuffed Spanish green olives.

The cabbage, sliced olives and mayonnaise are mixed. The aspic is made by dissolving the gelatine in one cup of cold soup stock then adding the rest of boiling soup stock, the seasoning, and stiffly beaten egg whites. This is boiled for five minutes, then strained through a piece of flannel and set to cool. Next a little of the aspic stock is poured into a wet mold, the stuffed olives are arranged, and when the aspic is set around the olives more of the stock is poured on. The cabbage and olive mixture are added alternately with the aspic until all is used. It is then put aside to stiffen before being remolded on a platter, garnished with shredded cabbage and a few stuffed olives.

This quantity serves ten people, but can be diminished according to the requirements of any household. You will likely agree that it adds variety to the festive board.

So will:

Minute Steaks Spanish Style

For this dish there are required twelve Spanish green olives, four minute steaks, half an onion, one-eighth teaspoon of pepper, two tablespoons of drippings or fat, and six Spanish green olives for garnishing. The method of preparation is as follows: Rub one side of the steaks with the half onion, sprinkle with pepper. Put the olives carefully, without breaking. Place three olives on each steak, roll. Tie the rolls with pieces of thin cord or thread. Place fat in frying pan and when hot add the rolls of meat. Cook until brown, turning constantly, for five to seven minutes. Serve with brown sauce containing a few chopped olives. Garnish with a pitted olive unrolled.

Call's Tongue with Spanish Green Olives

For this there are required three calves' tongues, four small carrots cut in cubes, one onion cut fine, one cup of Spanish green olives, one quart of boiling water, one-fourth teaspoon pepper, one teaspoon chopped parsley, two tablespoons of bread crumbs.

Soak the tongues in cold water for half an hour. Scald with boiling water, pour off. Cook tongues in the boiling water containing carrots, onion, parsley and pepper for one hour and a half. Remove the tongues, skin them, and return with one-half of the olives (chopped). Cook slowly one-half hour longer. Thicken the sauce by mixing the bread crumbs with two tablespoons of cold water. Cook five minutes longer. When on platter garnish with whole olives.

The next time you feel that dissatisfied attitude toward meal time try one of the above recipes. I am sure it will help.

The Gazette also records another advance of four points in the cost of living on October 1, the index figures being 76 against 72 on September 1 and 69 on June 1. These figures indicate a percentage advance in prices over the pre-war level.

If he advertises it, he knows it's good!

ROBBER HAS EXPLOSIVES
 ASHLAND, Ore. — With enough explosives in his pocket to blow up a block of buildings, James Kelley, 24, who gave his residence as Sydney, Australia, was arrested by Chief of Police McNabb of this city in Talent, following his robbery a few hours earlier of the Standard Oil company here.

A search of Kelley revealed a complete burglar's outfit, a two-ounce bottle of nitro-glycerine, several percussion caps with fuses attached and a stick of dynamite.
