

WALLOWA HOGS SHIPPED WEST

WALLOWA, Ore. (Special).—J. L. Maxwell shipped a car of hogs to Portland, Ore., today. These hogs have been shipped from this section during the past few weeks, practically all of which have brought satisfactory results.

George Hamilton, of Mountain View, has the latter part of the week, shipped a car of hogs to Portland, Ore.

Ray Clark, who is a local hunter, has the latter part of the week, shipped a car of hogs to Portland, Ore.

Max Mock, John Anderson, George Hamilton, and Ray Clark, went to Tule River and other parts of the week, to look over the Anderson's property. Mr. Anderson expects to make him grow to a car in a few weeks.

The roads over the entire county are in the condition for this season of the year. The highway up the valley is more than 40 miles long and has been at its best during the past summer. The roads are in good shape and the hogs are being shipped from the day to allow all small hogs to be taken, when the hogs are at night have a smooth hard surface. A construction crew is at work on the bridge over the North Fork river, a short distance west of Tule River, repairing some bridges. All the dirt roads are well mended, including the highway.

Mrs. Bernice Gaudin and Mrs. Mae Cook, of Tule River, were in this city the last of the week.

The weather conditions very nice here with warm sun and clear sky during the day, and some light frost at night. The ground has been frozen in hard on many of the north hill slopes for some time. Much snow is still being reported in the fields and mountainous portions, where there is still considerable frost. About all the feeding hogs done at this time is much corn and wheat.

T. G. Johnson has been in the north woods cutting logs for the past few weeks. He is cutting by contract for the north woods Co. and has about 100 cords of logs cut. He has about 100 cords of logs cut. He has about 100 cords of logs cut.

Business Climbed In The Month of October

The upward trend of business, which was temporarily checked by the September depression, was resumed in October, declared John Perrin, chairman of the Twelfth Federal Reserve district board and federal reserve agent. The improvement was moderate and minor movements, contrary to the general trend were present, but the total volume of business transacted in the district was noticeably larger than in the previous month. This appraisal of the situation is borne out by figures of debts to individual accounts (bank debts) at 50 principal clearing house centers, an excellent measure of general business conditions. The total of reported bank debts was 19.5 per cent larger in October, 1921, than in September, 1921, and but 1.9 per cent smaller than in October, 1920, when greater than normal business activity was reported. The October, 1921, figures, corrected for seasonal variation and year to year growth, approximated an estimated normal for the month and year.

Marketing An Aid.
 Steady marketing of the district's crops, generally at prices above those paid in recent previous years, has contributed greatly to the improvement in the business situation. The rise in prices of farm products during the period of heavy sales following the harvest did much to offset the effect of smaller than average crops and encouraged prompt sale of the yields which were secured.

Productive activity in the principal industries of the district was well maintained during October, although seasonal curtailment in some lines caused a moderate decrease in the volume of employment. The amount of building construction now under way is large, and so also is the amount of building in prospect as shown by the number and value of building permits issued in 20 principal cities during October. The total for the month, excluding the figures for Los Angeles where a large decline occurred, were slightly above the record figures of October a year ago. The value of building permits issued in these cities during the first ten months of 1921 has been but 5 per cent less than the value of permits issued in the corresponding period of 1920, and this despite the fact that the cost of building was higher during the earlier year.

Lumber Conditions Better.
 Lumber mills of the district increased their output during October, but sales were smaller than in the previous month, and considerably less than production. While distributors and consumers of lumber have shown little tendency to other showed increased sales, as compared with September in practically all lines except agricultural implements, automobile supplies, and automobile tires, products which normally experience a decline in demand toward the close of the year. Outfitting of mark- ing irregularly in the wholesale trade situation is indicated, however, by the many declines in value of sales as compared with a year ago, seven of the eleven reporting lines showing decreases ranging from 1.9 to 22.5 per cent.

Trade at retail, although exhibiting a greater than seasonal increase as compared with September, 1921, was smaller in value during October, 1921, than during October, 1920. Stocks of reporting stores at the close of October were slightly larger than in the previous year and the indicated rate of turnover for the month was less rapid than a year ago.

A sharp and widespread upward movement of prices took place in October, the index of wholesale prices compiled by the United States Bureau of Labor Statistics showing an increase of 2 per cent for the month. The chief gains were in the farm products group which advanced 4.2 per cent. Prices of the principal products of this district, both agricultural and non-agricultural, showed quite generally an increase.

The volume of member bank credit in use in this district was at record levels during October, and borrowings from the reserve bank were smaller than at any time since 1917 and interest rates were relatively low. Commercial loans of 46 reporting member banks in principal cities advanced from $119,000,000 on October 5, 1921, to $122,000,000 on October 22, 1921, the highest figure reported since January, 1921. These loans stood at $121,000,000 on November 5, 1921. Total loans and investments of the banks at $1,450,000,000 on November 5, 1921, were larger than ever before. Demand and time deposits of member banks have increased in substantially the same proportion as have their loans and the ratio of loans to deposits has declined slightly during the past year.

FIRE DAMAGES HOSPITAL.
 THE DALLES, Or.—Fire started in the basement of a wooden annex to the Hamilton hospital did about $10,000 damage, and for a time threatened the main structure, recently completed at a cost of $50,000. The fire was thought due to defective wiring. It was extinguished by the local volunteer department with water and chemicals after a stubborn fight. Attendance was forced to den gas masks to get at the flames.

The loss is covered by insurance, said Dr. H. H. Hamilton.

SANITARY PARK URGED.
 EUGENE, Or.—The Eugene chamber of commerce has taken up the question of sanitation in the camping grounds in Oregon and a committee has been appointed to make investigations and report back to the chamber.

After its findings are reported, officers are expected to be made to obtain legislation which will insure tourists passing through the state as well as citizens of Oregon using the camping parks, proper sanitation, according to E. E. Rouse, chamber secretary of the local chapter.
