"Christine of the Hungry Heart" Coming to Arcade.

Thomas H. Ince demonstrated his ability to deal on the screen with the problems of a woman's soul when he filmed "Anna Christie." Now he presents through First National another film, the theme of which is the heart-hunger of an intelligent and beautiful woman.

"Christine of the Hungry Heart," from the versatile pen of Katharine Norris, follows the soul of "Christine," follows it through travail until, after much suffering, poverty and loneliness, Christine finds that "Something" that will fill the great void in her heart and she is happy.

Christine, young, beautiful, happy, trusting and idealistic, finds herself married to an unattractive brute. On her honeymoon she learns that instead of being a part of her husband's heart and soul, she is nothing more than another woman in his life.

After a period of neglect and humiliation, she finds in Dr. Alan Montague, a sympathetic friend, this friendship ripens into love, and it is when she is rushing away from the doctor, after the knowledge has come that they are in love, that the accident occurs which alters her resolve to never see him again.

Her husband, drunk and with another woman, runs into the car in which Christine is riding. She is seriously injured, but the doctor saves her life, and after she has divorced her first husband they are married.

Then follow incidents fraught with human interest that carry Christine to great depths of suffering, and then great heights of understanding and happiness.

Christine is played by the beautiful, sparkling Florence Vidler. Miss Vidler makes of Christine a real woman—one that women will understand and men love.

Oliver Brook, who came all the way from London for the part, enacts the role of the doctor, famed for his operations and cures for crippled children.

Warner Baxter is in the role of the irresponsible Stuart Knight, and Ian Keith is the poet with whom Christine elopes. Walter Hiers is the adoring brother and Dorothy Brock the little son. George Archambault directed.

"Christine of the Hungry Heart" will be the offering featured at the Arcade theater tomorrow.

"Big Timber" Will Show at Star Wednesday.

Unusual pictorial beauty because of background of giant trees and heavily wooded hills is promised in the showing at the Star Theater Wednesday of "Big Timber," the Universal special production in which William Desmond has the featured role. Some of the biggest trees in the world were the background. California's own giant redwoods.

"Big Timber," adapted from a magazine story written by Virginia E. Roe, is the tale of two great rival lumber camps and the new owner of one of them. This man, the leading figure in the story, is handicapped in his battle with Nature and the primitive industry of lumbering by the fact that he takes charge of the great industry under a cloud of suspicion.

His men believe that he obtained his control through "dirty work" which ended in the suicide of the former owner. He has battles galore on his hands, and never passes up a challenge, which keeps him busy.

There are two girls in the story, one an orphan waif of the woods in tattered clothes, played by Olive Hasbrouck, and the other a newspaper feature writer in search of a clue to the suicide motive, played by Betty Francisco. Besides Hasbrouck and these two the cast includes the ever capable Lydia Yeamans Titus, Ivan McFadden and Albert J. Smith.

Last Showing of "Find Your Man" A' Sherrys Tonight.

If you are fond of dogs, if you like good acting, if you appreciate beautiful scenery, if you like a clever story, full of action, thrills and unusual episodes, don't miss "Find Your Man."

Tin-Tin-Tin, a dog with unusual intelligence, whose training cannot be compared to that of any other dog, plays the leading role in this production. He is seen as the courageous hero, risking his life to save his master, as the sympathetic friend, the bitter enemy. He feels and displays all the emotions of a human being. In fact, he seems to do everything but talk. Tin-Tin-Tin is an ex-soldier. It is said that he spent part of his puppyhood on the firing line of France. Perhaps that is what accounts for his fearlessness.

The story, which is told in a beautiful manner, is about a beautiful woman who, with a plot to steal government timber, in which Paul Andrews, his dog and his sweetheart become involved. Huddy displays some marvelous athletic stunts when he aids in his master's escape from prison and then rescues him and his sweetheart from drowning.

Eric St. Clair and June Marlowe show exceptional skill in their portrayal of Paul Andrews and Caroline Blair. Others in the cast are Charles Mailles, Pat Hartigan, Fred Stanton, Lew Harvey and Charles Conklin.

Mal St. Clair is the director of this Warner Bros. Classic of the Screen.

Comedy showing, "A Truthful Lie."

Graduate Nurses' Organization, 1214 1/2 N. O.
