TO THE GIVER. Toss the week before Christmas, and all through the town, the buyers were thronging, both up street and down. They knew that they had to buy presents galore. At least once a year, and they thought it a bore. Because they had not been sufficiently taught. That every day's Christmas when given a thought.

For giving is always more blest than receiving. And the truth of this text is of easy believing. Moreover the burden of buying is light. When you go to a shop that is organized right. When a man wants a suit to the tailor he'll go. When he wants flowers, the florist he'll know. So why in the name of good old common sense should a shopper run round and incur great expense. Of time and of worry and even his cash. When into the Gift Shop he simply might dash. And say, "I am looking for many a gift. And here I have come to ask you to lift The burden of choosing them, off my mind. And here all the end of the trouble I'll find." The man who always must come at the end. Richardson's Art & Gift Shop is always the gift buyer's friend. 12-15-24
