TO THE GIVER

'Twas the week before Christmas, and all through the town
The buyers were thronging, both up street and down.
They knew that they had to buy presents galore,
At least once a year, and they thought it a bore, Because they had not been sufficiently taught.
That every day's Christmas when given a thought.

For giving is always more blest than receiving,
And the truth of this text is of easy believing.

When you go to a shop that is organized right,
When a man wants a suit to the tailor he'll go,
When he wants flowers, the florist he'll know.
So why in the name of good old common sense Should a shopper run 'round and incur great expense
Of time and of worry and even his cash

When into the Gift Shop he simply might dash,
And say, "I am looking for many a gift
And here I have come to ask you to lift
The burden of choosing them, off my mind
And here at the end of the trouble I'll find."

The moral which always must come at the end, Richardson's Art & Gift Shop is always the gift buyer's friend. 12-15-24
