27 YEARS AGO

Daily Morning Observer, January 5, 1898—John McDonald, jr., of Wallowa, is in the city.

A. J. Wade of Elgin, is registered at the Foley House.

S. A. Gardiner, the well known fruit dealer, is loading a car of choice Grande Ronde apples to be shipped to Helena, Montana.

A man arrived in San Francisco on a jackass the other day, having ridden the animal all the way from New York on a bet on Bryan's election.

Mr. Frank Nessley was busy yesterday loading a car of potatoes for the San Francisco market. Grande Ronde products are in demand where quality is considered.

Mrs. J. T. Richards of Union, is visiting in La Grande today.

Mrs. A. V. Andrews and child returned last evening from Baker City, where they have been visiting the past week with Mrs. Robert Palmer.

Mr. B. F. Bell, the man who when the days are longer and the skies are brighter, brings blackberries from his home at the Cove, paid the Observer office a pleasant "how do you do" yesterday.

La Grande will soon have a beet sugar factory. The bonus asked for has all been raised and the Utahe company which secured the bonus will commence work on the buildings as soon as arrangements can be made to do so. The securing of this factory will be of an immense advantage to La Grande and the Grande Ronde valley.

The funeral services were held at the Presbyterian church Tuesday at 2:45 over the remains of Elenor, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Turner Oliver, Reverend R. M. Hayes officiating.

The following officers of the M. E. Sunday school were elected Tuesday afternoon for the year 1898: Geo. H. Currey, Supt.; Mrs. C. R. Thornton, Asst. Supt.; Miss Cora Aldrich, treas.; C. R. Thornton, secy.; Miss Nelly Grandy, librarian; Miss Nellie Hineheart, organist; Teachers, Miss Myrtle Aldrich, Mrs. C. R. Thornton, Mrs. Edith E. Currey, Mrs. Mary Aldrich, Mrs. Chas. Brown, Mrs. Perry Chandler, will (are) to be supplied. The Sunday school is prospering in every department.

Grocerman J. W. White wishes to announce that hereafter his grocery store will be closed on Sunday.

Mathematics Attract English School Girls

LONDON (AP) — Women students in English universities have acquired something of the independence of the American girl, and are less and less addicted to meaningless conventionality, according to Miss Phoebe Sheavyn, director of women's studies at Manchester University. This growth of an independent spirit, she told the Daily Mail, was one of the most striking features she had observed during her 18 years at Manchester.

English girl university students, who used to come largely from the upper middle classes, are now recruited from every class of society and the enrollment of daughters of miners and railway porters is no uncommon thing, Miss Sheavyn said. Most of the women students plan to become teachers, but many have ventured into the ranks of other professions.

"The subjects in which the girls best equal men," Miss Sheavyn said, "are English literature, modern languages and history, that is to say, the main arts subjects. I have recently noticed the very interesting point that more girls want to take up mathematics."

Children Warned of Alcohol.

KOENIGSBERG, Germany (AP) —The board of education is behind a series of lectures, given in the smaller villages, on the evils of the drink habit. Children particularly are invited and asked to relate the experiences their communities have had with drunken persons. The poisonous nature of alcohol is then explained and volunteers are sought to help in combating the use of alcohol.

Parent Eskimos never punish their children, perhaps just because being an Eskimo is punishment enough.

"The White Sister" Showing Today for Last Time at Sherrys.

The Henry King production of "The White Sister," starring Lillian Gish, stands as one of the truly great motion pictures. It is a perfect visualization of F. Marion Crawford's widely read story, told in all its dramatic intensity and filmed in Italy against the beautiful backgrounds described in the original.

Miss Gish rises to supreme heights in the remarkable photo-drama. He portrayal of Angela places her in a class by herself—the one real thrilling genius of the screen.

The actual eruption of Mt. Vesuvius is shown. Molten lava, flowing down the side of the mountain is pictured with the mouth of the crater belching forth its deadly fumes and fire. On top of this comes a flood, with an entire town being wiped out.

"The White Sister" is a picture that nobody should miss. It was made in Italy by Inspiration Pictures, Charles H. Duell, jr., president, and is released through Metro.

Hoxie Joke Now Screened Stunt At the Star.

A practical joke is responsible for one of the thrilling scenes in "The Western Wallop," Universal Picture, coming to the Star theater next Wednesday and Thursday, starring Jack Hoxie on his horse, Scout.

The story is a dramatic one of the cattle country to which comes a man just paroled from a penitentiary, firm in the intent to reinstate himself in the opinion of his fellow man, which he does, but not until after he has had to endure the scorn of the woman he loves.

One of the scenes in the picture calls for the leading woman, Margaret Landis and Gordon Russell, to undergo the experience of being run away with by a team of mules. Clifford Smith, the director, decided to have the team dash down an incline and across a creek, but it was desired to find out if the mules would take to the water. Art Manning and Jack McIrwin, two of the Universal Ranch riders, were detailed to make the attempt.

Hoxie and Smith, determined to have some fun, and unknown to the two cowboys, placed a huge limb of a tree across the creek. Manning and McIrwin did not see it until the mules dashed down the incline and then it was too late to stop and over the log leaped the mules. The buckboard bounded some four feet in the air, but instead of spilling the occupants, as had been expected by the jokers, came down on all four wheels and was yanked on its way.

Actress Was Game.

Miss Landis was so thrilled by the sight that she insisted the log be left so that she and Russell could furnish the thrill for the screen. Smith and Hoxie objected but she insisted, and, as Russell is an old time horseman, the director and star finally consented and Miss Landis rode the log not once, but several times, as it was necessary to have several pictures of the scene in case some one of them might be bad.

Miss Landis said that she enjoyed the experience immensely but Hoxie and Smith were greatly relieved when it was finished for there was a large chance for a serious mishap.

Harold Falls for Soft Boiled Eyes—Lands in "Hot Water."

You have heard of the fellow who vowed never to fall for a pair of "soft boiled eyes?" He usually is the first to flop. If his this type of character Harold Lloyd portrays in his newest laugh sensation, "Hot Water," his second venture as an independent producer, and showing now at the Arcade theatre.

In the opening scenes of the picture Lloyd is shown running to a wedding to play best man for his pal. On the way he bumps into pretty Jobyna Ralston, and all his freedom for any skirt are shot right there. The balance of the picture relates the story of their matrimonial life, with their ripples turned into wild waves of discontent through the intervention of the girl's mother, and her two brothers.

There is much that's true to life in "Hot Water," but even the mother-in-law with the heart of a traffic policeman depicted in this funmaker, will have to laugh at the development of the film. One wonders how so many laughs can be created as are crowded into the five reels of "Hot Water" but Lloyd and his staff eat and sleep gags while they are engaged on a picture. They never allow their thoughts to wander, and it is this concentration which brings them the tremendous success that has been won by Lloyd and his pictures in the last few years.

Jobyna Ralston, Josephine Crowell, Charles Stevenson and Mickey Mellan will be found in support of Mr. Lloyd.
