TIGERS TAKE PRACTICE GO FROM IMBLER

Blue and White Batters Prove Stronger Than Was Expected; Wallowa Here Friday.

The practice game played yesterday afternoon between La Grande and Imbler turned out to be a fast and interesting contest with Imbler showing unexpected strength in the opposition and the local boys playing a better brand of ball than they had been thought capable of.

The game started with Steward and Unamuno playing forward. Hummel, center, and Zundell guards. This combination worked well on the defensive and soon rung up several baskets besides Hummel, playing his usual consistent game at center was high point man for La Grande, making 10 of La Grande's 36 points. Imbler scored 17 points throughout the game.

Every man on the La Grande team was changed once and in several cases two or three times. The original combination proved the most effective with the possible exception of Steward who, although a strong defensive player and passer was not able to hit the basket as well as Lyman who replaced him early in the game.

Unamuno for La Grande played the floor in excellent shape and proved fairly consistent at basket shooting although he missed one or two hot shots.

For the visitors Keown was the tower of strength making four of Imbler's eight baskets. The entire Imbler team played well but was unable to get through the strong five man defense put up by the La Grande guards.

Play Wallowa Friday.
 La Grande's first regular game of the year will be played against Wallowa next Friday night. It is probable that the same lineup will start against Wallowa as in the Imbler game. Proceeding the main event the Wallowa girls and the La Grande girls team will contest for basketball supremacy.

Received seats for the Wallowa game which may be either purchased outright or obtained on business men's tickets will go on sale at the Glass Drugs this afternoon. A section of the stands will be reserved for the Hi-Bids who will attend en masse.

Kansas College Plays Up Pupils' Personality

MANHATTAN, Kan. (AP)—The "final touch of personality" has been added to the records of students at the Kansas State Agricultural college here, with the installation of a new system which includes placing a photograph of each student and a personal history in the college records.

Administration officials have long pondered over the problem of becoming personally acquainted with the individual student and keeping a mental catalogue in coordination with his written records and qualifications.

The solution was found in the gallery system now being organized. As each freshman furnishes his photograph to the college annual, a duplicate is inserted in the volume that forms the permanent liaison between the institution and the student. This becomes a valuable identification in later years, college officials said, when the student writes back for recommendations.

"After the record of a student's accomplishments and honors has been kept through his years of college, that record comes to be a page and becomes the student himself," said the registrar. "Add his picture to the page and it is the final touch of personality by which he will always be remembered. It will prove of inestimable value to this office and to the student as well."

At the chamber of commerce forum representatives from this and neighboring counties pledged their support to the passage of this bill, provided it procured the proper endorsements.

The referee warned Martin in the first round, accusing the champion of pulling his punches. Both men continued through a slow second and into the third round when the bout was stopped.

Attempts on Life of Former King

WALKER WINS TAME BATTLE FROM M'TIGUE

Welter King Outpoints Light Heavy Title Holder in Slow Contest.

NEWARK, N. J. (By the Associated Press)—Micko Walker, world's welterweight champion, stopped two notches out of his class and outpointed Mike McTigue, world's light middleweight champion, in a rather tame 12-round, no-decision encounter at the Newark armory Wednesday night. It was a battle between a fighter and a boxer and the fighter won, according to a majority of newspaper men at the ringside.

Walker was the aggressor all through the milling but he was handicapped by McTigue's height and reach. There were no knockdowns and except for a small cut over McTigue's right eye, no marks showed on either principal.

McTigue, a head taller than his youthful opponent, had the greater reach and 10 pounds more in weight, fought purely a defensive fight except for a few skimping punches which did little damage. On the other hand, Walker fought with a bulldog tenacity which virtually made the fight.

Pushing his heavier foe, Walker punched with his right and left to the head and body but McTigue, a clever boxer, sparred his way out of the situation when it became unpleasant and took what landed without a whimper, giving ground at every blow, but always remaining vertical.

Walker tried hard to put the light heavyweight champion away, using everything in his power to overwhelm McTigue, but the veteran, an old faster, handled the situation cleverly.

The welter king worked at top speed during most of the encounter, slowing up only when his task became hopeless. Then McTigue opened up but his aggressiveness was brief and he relegated himself to his defensive shell again when Walker began to push.

The fans were disappointed with the part of the fight the crowd began to hoot and howl and started to leave as early as the eighth round.

In a 10-round preliminary Harry Martone, Jersey City middleweight, decisively outpointed Charley Archibald of Newark.

Hobby Barrett, hard hitting Philadelphia welterweight, knocked out Jack Pappert of Newark, in eight rounds.

England Finds Merit in American Slang
 OXFORD, Eng. (AP)—Englishmen have seen the American game of football here recently, and do not like it. They found much to criticize, and the consensus of opinion was that the game as played in England is better suited to the local temperament and the local climate.

While the game itself has found little favor, the remarks of its devotees on the sidelines have been greatly appreciated. "Astraby," may yet come to his own in England, for this modern American perfection struck the Englishmen as possessed of great energizing quality.
