It will cost about $3.50 an acre to replace the damage. The fruit trees were not hurt, and aside from the damage to wheat everything is all right." "Saddle Hawk" Is Film Taken in East Oregon

PENDLETON, Ore. (Special)—A motion picture filmed at Emigrant Hill by the Hoot Gibson company last fall and to have been entitled "The Kid from Powder River," is to be released under the title of "The Saddle Hawk" according to information given out by the Universal Pictures Corporation.

Because of the change in name some confusion has arisen regarding the release of another Hoot Gibson picture for which the name is "The Kid from Powder River." This picture stars Hoot but was not filmed here, the locale being in California. In the supporting cast for Hoot there are the Universal ranch riders who were here for the "Let 'er Buck" and "Saddle Hawk" pictures, but others in the supporting cast include Tully Marshall, Gladys Hulette and a number of others who were not in the company here.

BAKER HELPS STRAY HORSES

(Continued from Page 1) hire an expert range man to get the roundup under way. He will travel throughout the county and line up the farmers and ranchers who will be urged to assist in collecting the animals, sort them out and take them home for proper attention. Many horses now at large, it was pointed out, are in poor shape physically suffering from ailments. They will be killed to put them out of misery. This will also accomplish an economic purpose as it will leave more range for horses which are of value, and should help to raise the general equine standard of the county.

Elect Officers.—The meeting last night was attended by many prominent citizens. The humane society was put on a firm basis and permanent officers were elected as follows:

President, Ed. Fleetwood; vice president, Dr. T. J. Arneson; Mrs. Norman Elliot; secretary, treasurer, Stanley Gray; Finance committee, Mrs. W. H. Strayer, Mrs. Robert Service; Mary D. Connor; Membership committee, Mrs. Norman Elliot; Mrs. Justin Ellis; Publicity, Rev. Charles E. Wanning.

The problem of the suffering horses was discussed by Senator V. H. Strayer, District Attorney E. S. Finch, Sheriff Henry McKinney, John Van Allen, Walter Bland, M. M. Broadbent and Ed. Fleetwood, as well as others who joined in a general discussion of the question.

Kill or Feed.—Senator Strayer advised the society to proceed as far as possible within legal limits to take care of the stock. He thought a roundup would be the solution of the problem with the owners of animals invited to assist in the work. The horses should be killed or fed, he said.

Ed. Fleetwood endorsed the roundup. He said it would be advisable to send a rider to interview the ranchers and farmers to prepare for the project. He knew of such a man who was well qualified. Expenses for such a man would be about five dollars a day. S. S. Finch gave statistics on the number of animals at large in the county.

H. M. Broadbent, superintendent of schools, said he would present the matter to the children of the schools to enlist their sympathy. The finance committee was instructed to call on county officials to ask for an appropriation up to $500 to enable the work to start. W. H. Ellis was chairman of the meeting.

Insurance Outlook Bright, Babson Says

(Continued from Page 1) insurance and other forms of insurance, as a method of mutual protection. Men took out what they needed in either their own or their families in case of death. I have only been in recent years that insurance has been taken out for corporations, business houses, and estates. Of course protective insurance should be taken out by everyone to a certain amount, and should never be cancelled, cashed in, or switched. If, however, a man gets enough insurance to take care of his family any additional insurance really becomes an investment rather than insurance. Some life insurance men may disagree with this distinction, but I am sure every fair-minded analyst would make it. I mention this distinction because, not being an insurance expert, it is only in relation to such investment insurance that I have any right to speak.

"I have always advised the purchase of insurance for protection irrespective of what price securities are selling for and whatever the conditions in the security market a man who needs protection should take out insurance. The only disagreement I have had with insurance agents is due to the fact that investment insurance is less attractive when security prices are low and more attractive when security prices are high. Because investment insurance is always at the same price, it must be judged by what the same money will buy in other forms of investment. In my view it is the mean between the high and low of the security market, is the reason that the large insurance companies are so strong and insurance is so safe.

A Good Investment.—"Whether or not insurance agents will agree with me as to which was the better investment three years ago, insurance for securities, I am sure they will agree with me now when I say that insurance as an investment is paying more at attractive prices. That is to say, as security prices go up insurance which remains at a constant figure becomes more attractive as an investment. The truth is that when stocks and bonds cross the average normal line on the upward movement, insurance becomes an attractive investment. This especially applies to twenty-year life and various forms of fixed insurance which get a fixed sum of money on a specified date.

"I believe that 1925 will be a good bond year and that many issues will sell at higher prices than they have already reached, but I also believe that investors should take account of stock as to their insurance holdings. No man should have all his investments in stocks, bonds, insurance, real estate, or any other one thing. All of one's capital in government bonds is not a sane method of investing. Diversification is the basis of the soundest method of investing. The point I wish to make today is that as a possible investment for a portion of your surplus funds during 1925.

"In purchasing endowment insurance use words, some as to maturity. For instance, in paying a $20,000 endowment policy a man should consider his age in determining the duration of the policy. It is apt to be more dangerous than beneficial to have a $20,000, twenty-year policy mature when he is forty. On the other hand, it is unreasonable for a man of fifty to take out a twenty-year policy. If taking out a $20,000 endowment policy it is best to arrange the maturities so that $2000 will come due when you are sixty, $2000 when you are sixty-one, $2000 when you are sixty-two, and so forth until you are seventy. Then as you can afford additional insurance, have it mature in a similar series of years beginning when you are seventy.

"I am very hopeful of the insurance business for the next few years. I believe all the large companies will do a record business and wide awake, honest agents should prosper with their companies. I am very optimistic on the basis of most of the larger insurance companies. The insurance business has developed to stupendous proportions yet it is still in its infancy when judged by its possibilities. Moreover, under careful government supervision of the insurance companies, and the fact that they are offered and directed by capable, conscientious men should make their securities, as well as their policies, sound investments for a portion of your surplus funds.

CLERK ADMITS COUNT FRAUD

Feriman was reelected by a majority vote unofficially tabulated at 211. Rosen, who asserted he had been one of Feriman's campaign managers at a salary of $20 a week, said he had received a last minute appointment as a tally clerk in the twenty-third election district of the Eighth assembly district — a precinct in which Doctor Strovich ruled a favorite.

"At midnight election night, he asserted, a messenger had brought him the information that Doctor Strovich's majority in that district must be kept to 20.

"During the tallying, he said, using a pencil concealed in a ring, Rosen procured unmarked ballots and placed crosses opposite Feriman's name and so deflected numerous others which had been voted for Strovich as to cause them to be thrown out. A proper tabulation of the vote in this district, he said, would have defeated Feriman and sent the physician to congress in his stead.

In an interview, Dr. Samuel J. Stamb, according to a recent dispatch, said that people suffering from that "low par" feeling, accompanied by loss of appetite, sleeplessness, loss of weight and so forth, can be set right by having the balance of their glandular secretions restored. Glandogen, the new scientific gland tonic, prepared in tablet form, provides a simple method of taking glandular treatment. Glandogen, for men and women, is obtainable at Red Cross Drug Store.

of the senate, sounded like rank heresy. "I might as well jump at once to Democracy's side," he declared. "It is a pity," he declared, "that the first vote to be raised in this chamber against the Democratic party is by an alleged Democratic senator proclaiming that the Democratic party has lost the confidence of the country."

Then, while the Republicans sat on the side lines and gloated at the exhibition of Democratic discord the two senators went at it adverb and adjective. Bruce likened Harrison to a former president by the same name of whom an enemy had said: "I know that he is damned small, but I don't know that he was so small he couldn't be seen."

To this he added, for good measure: "I knew that the senator from Mississippi was a narrow, contracted, small-bore partisan, but I confess I had not begun to take the real measure of his dimensions as a statesman."

"The senator who attempts to lecture me upon my Democracy," retorted Harrison, "must come with clean hands. He must not be tainted with reactionism and Republican allegiance."

"The senator may think he is a true Democrat that I, but he is not," quoth Bruce.

And while the Republicans split up their sleeves, this Democratic duel of words continued for one full hour, by the clock.
