RECALL ALDER SLOPE TROOPS

ENTERPRISE, Ore. (Special to the Observer).—Information about an almost forgotten military company which was formed on Alder Slope to defend the small band of settlers against a feared Indian attack was received this week by J. H. Horner from Adjutant General George A. White. The company lingered in the memory of G. S. Reaves who told Mr. Horner, and the latter made inquiry in order to learn the facts from the official records, for the information of the county pioneers' association, states a local newspaper.

In the summer of 1878, Chief Joseph was camped with a band of Nezperce Indians between Hurricane creek and Joseph and there were fears that the red men intended to attack the settlers and drive them out of the valley. Men on the Slope formed a militia company but they did not carry it very far, as Mr. Reaves does not recall any drilling.

He does remember that some time afterward a bill passed the state legislature appropriating money to pay the members. The captain, David B. Reavis, received twice as much as the privates, at which the latter complained, for they felt they were all equals. It is believed the privates received $20 each and the captain $60.

The letter from Gen. White reports the details of the company as follows:

"Muster roll of Captain David B. Reavis' militia at Alder, Wallowa valley, Union county, organized July 5, 1878, for the suppression of Indian hostilities in said county and state; from July 5 to August 5, 1878.

"David B. Reavis, captain; Jas. Hays, 1st lieutenant; Lemuel L. Hambelton, 2nd lieutenant; Chas. W. Wheeler, 1st sergeant; Thomas A. Reavis, 2nd sergeant; Geo. H. Holmes, 3rd sergeant; William R. Wright, 1st corporal; William P. Hambelton, 2nd corporal; James Kooch, 3rd corporal; and Privates Thomas H. Veasey, Reese R. Wright, George Parker, George McKooch, John W. Kooch, Henry Beecher, James Anderson, Reuben W. Bloom, William McCormack, William McCumsy, Patrick Healy, Jessy W. Reynolds, William P. Reavis, Gilbert S. Reavis, James Davis, Benjamin Boswell, D. C. Davis, (Jake) William K. Millard, James McConnell, A. C. King, Louis Olson, William McConnell, Thomas Fisher, Simson Anderson, J. Guthrie, James C. Koger, John L. Wood, George Reese, Andrew J.
