Boxing Year Is Promising

NEW YORK (By the Associated Press)—The 1925 title calendar holds prospects for a more interesting campaign than last year, but peculiar circumstances surrounding several divisions may again prove a barrier to title activity.

The most attractive outlook for the new year hinges on the probability that Jack Dempsey will risk his title for the first time in his meeting with Luis Angel Firpo in September, 1925. The heavyweight champion may take on two opponents—Tommy Gibbons and Harry Wills. Gibbons probably would give the champion his best effort with Wills probably being reserved for a climax to the outdoor season in September. Promising material in training in most of the other divisions is currently among the light heavys, welter and middleweights.

Few champions appear anxious to run undue risks.

Mike McTigue, repeatedly outpointed to retain his world's 175-pound crown, in his decision contest, clinging tenaciously to his laurels. Gene Tunney, the American light heavyweight champion; Young Strubling and Paul Berlenbach, all appear capable of dethroning McTigue, but are unlikely to be given a chance.

Flowers Menaces Greb

Middleweight Champion Harry Greb faces formidable foes in Tiger Players, Atlanta negro, and Jack Delane. This pair clash this week in a test which should produce a contender for Greb's crown.

Mickey Walker stands out as one of the few fighting title holders but is in disfavor with the New York State Athletic commission for declining a challenge from Steve Rosen for a welterweight title battle.

Lightweight paths are suffering from the instability of Henry Leonard, who apparently has outgrown his division as a result of prolonged illness. Leonard may prepare himself for a fight at Walker's title on an event that fell through last season.

Ed Kaizer, recently crowned featherweight king, promises to keep an active work with Eddie Green, Mike Dundee, and Babe Herman among his next challenges. Green, the most recent bantamweight champion, has several Pancho Villa, flyweight king, may return from the Philippines to defend his crown against Frankie Green, American, the weight champion, his only outstanding rival.

PROMISE SNOW COVERED NOW

PROMISE (Special)—It has been snowing here for several days. The snow is about 2 1/2 inches deep at the present time.

Howard and Robert Carper took a load of wood to Wallawa Friday, returning home Saturday.

Neal Baker of Middle Valley, was here the last of the week. He bought some milk cows from J. K. and Alford Carter. He started home with them Sunday, accompanied by Lowell Poolberg.

Emilee Carper is staying at the home of her brother, attending Riverside school.

Lowell Poolberg is staying with his sister, Mrs. DeLam.

Mr. and Mrs. Boyd Carper visited recently with Mr. and Mrs. J. S. McDonald.

Mrs. John Carper started to Wallawa Thursday to stay with Mr. and Mrs. Frank Sumner. Mrs. Sumner is ill.

Harold Carper is on the sick list.

In Paulson returned home recently from Wallawa, where he has been on account of the illness of his baby. Mrs. Paulson will not bring the baby home for several days yet as it is not yet sufficiently recovered.

Meetings at the Promise school home, conducted by Evangelists Bailey and Hartland are continuing.

Bela Newby moved to the J. K. Carter place the rest of the week.

Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Carper visited recently with Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Phillips. Mrs. Phillips has been ill with a gripe.

Walter Carper went to Wallawa recently with some pork and other farm products for the camp, expecting to bring back some hay from the valley.

Chas. P. Carper returned home Friday after finishing his contract for cutting logs. He reports the snow about 3 feet deep at the summit.

J. K. Carper, for the past 20 years a resident of Promise, left recently to locate in some other climate. He will visit Chehalis, Washington.

Mrs. J. K. Carper and two small sons will leave in a short time to spend several weeks visiting with Mrs. Carper's parents at Puddin, Ind. They expect to stop a few days in La Grande.

Chasler Corbett and son, Roy, and Bill Carper and Roy Carper spent the week-end here.

PROH QUIZ WILL BEGIN LATE TODAY

It would be among the departments affected.

The measure would reduce the tendency of various commissions to earn and expend more money than absolutely necessary, according to North.

BERGHUIFF WORKS ON BILL

SALLEM, Ore. (AP)—Legislation to give the state game commission authority to declare closed seasons in time of emergencies will be sought this session. State Game Warden Berghuiff is working on the measure for early introduction. Last session it was endeavored to get such power, but authority placed in the commission's hands was nullified by a court decision.

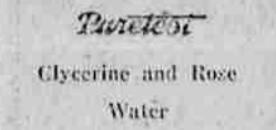

Telephone Company Elects

DAYTON, Ore.—Stockholders of the Yamhill County Mutual Telephone company held their annual meeting. L. A. Romer, George Hesse and J. G. Park were all re-elected as directors. Officers re-elected are L. A. Romer, president; H. R. Campbell, vice-president; and Mrs. Ruth Hayden, secretary-treasurer.

Mr. and Mrs. Ben F. Evans were La Grande visitors Sunday.

Kansas Children to Vote in Election of State Bird

TOPEKA, Kan. (AP)—School children of Kansas are in the midst of an election campaign. On Kansas day, Jan. 29, they are to elect a state bird.

Out of a big field of candidates, "Bob White" is picked to win. He has the endorsement both of Gov. Jonathan M. Davis and of J. C. Weiler, secretary of the state board of agriculture. In replying to questionnaires by the state Audubon society, each official, unknown to the other, recommended "the rook."

The women have their candidate however. "Mrs. Jennie Wren" has been put forth as champion of "women's rights" and is expected to instill some rivalry in the contest. Other leading contenders for the honor whose names have been proposed are the "red-tailed parula," "chickadee," "meadow lark," the "cardinal" and the "blue jay."

Throughout the Kansas schools children are now campaigning, familiarizing themselves with the birds and picking the candidate they will support at the polls.

All that stands between us and a hot blizzard is the rest of this winter.

WEATHER HITS LUMBER MART

The inclement weather that has prevailed practically throughout the country during the last week has had a restrictive influence on lumber demand, says the American Lumberman, Chicago, in its review of current lumber trade conditions. Consequently business can hardly be characterized otherwise than as rather slow. Retailers are reported to be selling lumber in good quantities, but for dealers only as the weather permits building work. Industrial demand meanwhile remains good, the railroads and oil fields being among the most active buyers, and exports are also of considerable volume.

The mills both in the south and on the west coast are increasing their production somewhat following the normal repairs and adjustments of mill stocks; but output is still relatively small and is not likely to be increased materially until demand shows definite improvement. Few of the manufacturers show any eagerness for new business, as stocks are low and poorly assorted, and confidence in the future of the lumber market is strong. Prices are being well maintained at about the level established just before the holidays. Wholesalers are making slight concessions in order to move some transit cars, but there is not a great number of these and they present no menace to the market. Everyone in the trade, manufacturer or distributor, looks forward to the spring season with keen optimism, believing in the fundamental soundness of the business situation and that the only obstacle to market activity now is unfavorable weather.

"H-O" Trademark Is Protected by Ruling

Many large manufacturers have devoted untiring effort and expended a great deal of money to establish and protect the good will of their business, including trademarks used by them in connection with it.

An interesting decision has just been rendered by the commission of patents in favor of the H-O Cereal company, Inc., of Buffalo, N. Y., which is making every effort to prevent any infringement of its trade mark.

The decision referred to involved the trade mark "H-O" which the H-O Cereal company, Inc., has for nearly half a century, used on its high grade products, including H-O Oats. A New York corporation owned the trade mark "H-O" and used it in several cereal products. The H-O Cereal company, Inc., contended the use of this trade mark by the competitor as infringing on its long established and used mark "H-O" and after consulting the matter in the U. S. Patent Office for a period of some two years, the decision referred to above has just been published.

Bank of England Will Construct a New Home

LONDON (AP)—Work of demolishing the buildings of the Bank of England, which have existed for 250 years on the "old lady" of "Threadneedle Street," to make way for the construction, expected to take from five to ten years, of modern accommodations for the bank has begun and, it is expected, start on the new foundations will be made this month.

The new buildings will extend three stories below the street and 100 feet, the two top stories being set back from the street. Very little of the structure, however, will be built behind the old bank wall which will be retained intact. The buildings will be of steel frame construction with a stone facing.

Care has been taken in the drawing of the plans to preserve a

She's "Hard"

"You have the wrong kitten," Della Mangera, alias Alma Johnson, of Oklahoma City and Kansas City, Mo., told Wichita (Kan.) police when they arrested her. But the detectives insist she has been identified as the girl who, dressed in overalls and driving a borrowed fiver, directed a bank robbery in Kansas City.

Many of the old features of the bank are compatible with modern requirements. It has been decided that the historic "Parlor" in which the governor and directors met, shall be reconstructed in its entirety on the first floor.
