JEWEL FOUND IN GIZZARD

FALLS CITY, Ore.—A. F. Courter, a local hardware dealer, lost a diamond from a ring Thanksgiving day while shutting up some chickens in his back yard. Recently one of the fowls was killed for dinner and upon dressing it Mr. Courter found the lost diamond in its gizzard.

Mr. Courter is certain the jewel recovered is the one he lost, for a small piece once had been chipped from it while a jeweler was resetting it. The stone is not only quite valuable but is prized as a keepsake, for it belonged to Mrs. Courter's mother.

STARTLING REVELATIONS

Picture in Film at Sherrys Today.
"Burn all women and children." Such, according to history, was the edict sent forth by Capt. Walter Butler, the arch-foe of the War of American Independence, when he and his band of Tories and Indians swept through Northern New York and Pennsylvania, seeking to exterminate the peaceful farmer-settlers, and to destroy the great grain fields, which General George Washington rolled upon to supply his army with food.

LA GRANDE THEATRES

is leading man in the picture which was written for the screen by Howard Higgin.
O'Malley, as the young groom, goes from one matrimonial mix-up to another. The trouble starts when, as he is signing the hotel register on his wedding night, a former "flame" appears and chides him for having neglected her during the preceding weeks. His efforts to prove himself a perfect husband lead to further complications which endure to the end, humorous situations intermingling with tense drama.
