RESTAURANTS Lay Adroit Plans
 To Feed German Movie Fans HAMBURG (AP)—German hotel and restaurant proprietors are considering the possibilities of moving pictures on the premises as producers of trade. They argue that as there are no free passes to the movies, a condition the prevalent largely among the theatres, the man who goes to the movies probably has money to spend for refreshments. Hence, if they could once get him on the lot, they would stand a fair chance than his movie ticket.

Japan's House of Peers
 May Have Power Curbed

TOKIO, (AP)—The reform of the House of Peers probably will be the most important problem to come before the Diet at its impending session. The reform bill probably will come up in March and according to the Japanese press, may create the gravest crisis that the coalition government has faced.

At present the House of Peers has virtual of the Diet and can block the lower house on any point. A change in the powers of the two houses will be attempted. The essential objective, however, is a change in the manner in which the membership of the upper body is selected. At present half the members hold office by hereditary right, and the other half is equally divided between those appointed for life by the Emperor and those elected by large property owners. The proposed reform contemplates the reduction of the first half to about one-third of the membership, to be selected by peers from among their ranks, and reduces the imperial appointees to the same number but for terms of only seven years. The remaining seats would be elective.

It takes a real picture to come up to the standard of Pola Negri in Ernst Lubitsch's "East of Suez," but Miss Negri's latest for Paramount, "East of Suez," a Raoul Walsh production, which is the feature at the Arcade theater today, is just as gripping and entertaining a feature.

The screen play, written by Sain Cowan from Somerset Maugham's stage success, has for its background China—with all its romance and mystery and lurking perils.

The star is cast as a beautiful young English girl, daughter of a British Consular agent living in Shanghai, Daisy (Miss Negri) has been away at school in England since she was eight years old. In all this time she has not seen her father. She returns only to be greeted with the news of his death, and what is probably more heart-rending, that she is the daughter of English and Chinese parents—a half-caste, which is but another way of saying a social outcast.

What a role this is for Pola Negri! How does she play it?

Three men want Pola—one an Oriental who stops at nothing to accomplish his end. The other two white men, played by Edmund Lowe and Rockcliffe Fowler, who, with Noah Beery, are featured in support of the star. Which one gets her?

You've seen Pola in every conceivable character from queen to apache dancer, but never in such a role as "East of Suez" affords. You haven't seen Pola Negri until you've seen "East of Suez."

"The Cyclone Rider" To Breeze Into Star Theater.

All the world is seeking thrills, and no one knows it better than Lincoln J. Carter, author of "The Cyclone Rider," a William Fox special production billed at the Star this week as a "thrillodrama." Lincoln J. Carter has been writing stage plays for a great many years—so many that his name was a household word when the moving picture industry was in its infancy. Some time ago he was induced to join the Fox staff. That his genius for turning out scenarios is every bit as great as his genius for play-writing was proved in the success of his first two screen entertainments, "The Fast Mail" and "The Eleventh Hour."

Now along comes "The Cyclone Rider" with ten times the speed and action of its predecessors and a great deal of romance and humor which they lacked. It was directed by Thomas Buckingham, who has always excelled in productions of this type, and it features, in the title role, a young man named Reed Howes, who looks the part so thoroughly that he could act only half as well as he does and still put it across.

Supporting Mr. Howes and Miss Bennett in the leading roles are William Bailey, Margaret McQuade, Charles Conklin, Ben Dooly, Frank Beal and Evelyn Brent.

Douglas MacLean Coming to Local Theater in Fun Film.

Good news for local film fans. Douglas MacLean is announced to appear at the Sherry theater in his newest comedy, "The Yankee Consul" and it is considered the funniest thing that this star has yet brought to the screen. MacLean whizzed into great popularity on horseback in "The Hottentot." He followed with an aerial flight to the skyline of success in "Going Up" and now he hangs over another positive laughing triumph in "The Yankee Consul."

This latest MacLean comedy is adapted from the amusing theme used in the play of that title 20 years ago when Raymond Hitchcock won his first star recognition on Broadway. Into the screen version MacLean injects his amazing personality and works up uproariously funny scenes with Patry Ruth Miller as the heroine.

MacLean is seen as the rich young New Yorker, who went to work upon a wager and then stepped right out of his first job into the biggest romance and adventure of his life. Into South America, he goes and to sidestep a lot of embarrassment impersonates the Yankee consul and as they say in the slang classics, got away with it until he cutted out the United States navy to rush him a flock of battleships.

Through the comedy runs a thrilling love theme, MacLean as the hero battling a villainous band of conspirators and rescuing her ladyship amid scenes that are enthralling. MacLean speeds things along to a hilarious finale, with the picture the biggest laughing success of the season.

Duplicate Pacific Cable Now Planned

LONDON (AP)—Because of the heavy press of business on the Pacific cable, occupying it to the limit of its capacity, the Pacific cable board has decided to call for tenders in the near future for duplicate cables which will be in use inside the next 18 months. This statement was made by the chairman of the board to a deputation from the Empire Press Union, which asked for a reduction in rates for press messages to Australia and New Zealand, and that facilities for this traffic should be substantially improved.

The chairman said that while appreciating the importance of wide facilities for the dissemination of empire news, the capacity of the cable was occupied to the limit and it would be impracticable to handle any additional traffic. No further reduction of rates could be made until the cable had been duplicated.

Football Replaces Mah Jongg

The American goal game comes to Berlin via Vienna, where a regular goal game craze has developed. Approximately 40 goal game clubs were organized there within a year.
