"The Laughing Cure" Enjoyed By Big Crowd

Under the direction of A. C. Dunning, "The Laughing Cure," a two act comedy, was presented to a large crowd at the high school auditorium last evening by the Christian Endeavor of the Christian church here.

The play, guaranteed to produce a laugh a minute, was very well staged. All members of the cast performed their parts excellently, especially Mrs. Dallas Green, Miss Edith Kibell, Miss Beryl Jones and A. C. Dunning.

Mildred Lovett played two piano solos during the evening and A. R. Spencer, tenor, sang following the first act. He responded to hearty applause with an encore.

The cast of characters follows: Dr. St. George Carey, a modern inventor, A. C. Dunning; Jimmie Mason, Mrs. Hanson's brother, C. D. Landry; Dr. Whitcomb, a physician of the old school, J. A. Williams; Clarke Hanson, a man of business, E. W. Landry; Laura Hanson, his wife, Mrs. Dallas Green; Gay Hanson, his sister, Mrs. E. W. Landry; Kitty Clyde, his stenographer, Edith Kibell; Mary Ellen Perry, a neighbor, Beryl Jones; Norah, the maid, Marjorie Courtney.

Agricultural College, his class is now enlarged to include the whole farming fraternity of the U. S. A.

If "argonomy" is so much Greek to the average farmer, then no better selection could have been made for a translator.

For Jardine, is a Sigma Xi, a Delta Theta, Pi, an Alpha Zeta, a Phi Kappa Phi and a Gamma Sigma Delta.

If that doesn't qualify him to translate the crossword puzzles that have stumped the mere dire gardener, agricultural in recent years, then the case looks hopeless.

Jardine does not come to the Department of Agriculture as an outsider. He is regarded by the experts and educators of that branch of government, as one of them. In fact, he put in three years in the department, from 1907 to 1910, as Uncle Sam's "corralist," in charge of the government's investigations to learn what, if any thing, could be grown on the "dry lands" of the west.

In appearance the new secretary seems, properly enough, an intellectual rather than a physical farmer. He likes to cultivate ideas.

He is slight built and nervous temperament, and appears what he is—the product of the class room and laboratory rather than a staid, "horny handed" son of the soil.

While a student at the Utah Agricultural College, Jardine met Miss Effie Nebeker, a student in the same school. They have three children: William Jr., aged 15, Marian, 14, and Ruth, 9. Their home town is Manhattan, Kas.

Jardine becomes not merely the youngest member of the cabinet in point of service but the youngest in actual years.

At 40 he is five years younger than Secretary Hoover, and six younger than Secretary Davis, who until now have been the cabinet babies.

GERMANS COME TO LA GRANDE HAMBURG (AP)—Endeavoring to attract foreign visitors to Germany, promoters of travel have asked the German railroad administration to equip coaches with electric lights and also to increase the speed of passenger trains.

The elimination or reduction of the 10 per cent tax upon foreigners, as well as betterment of passport facilities, also have been recommended.

New He-bands for Old. BERLIN (AP)—More than 200,000 German war widows have registered according to official statistics of pension officials, and 256,000 war widows are still open to marital proposals.

A total of 597,330 widows and children get support from the state by virtue of military service rendered by their deceased husbands and fathers.

Poets' Corner A CALL FROM THE BLUE MOUNTAINS (By Marie M. Baker) Well, Hello Joe When did you get back? Just ten years ago— We said good-bye. You were leaving dear La Grande To escape the cold and snow, Vowed not to return. Where did you go?

CHORUS 'Twas the Blue Mountains that brought me, For the Blue Mountains I longed. 'Twas the Blue Mountains that taught me, In them was my only home. After long years of loneliness Without finding content, I've come back to the mountains Blue And here my days will end.

Good boy, Jack, You are like some old man, I smiled in last night. 'Twas good to look about, Seems I've been everywhere Trying to find a home In climates hot or fair. Something seemed so wrong.

All work and no bootleg makes Jack a rich boy.

Missionaries Save Chinese Addicted to Smoking Opium THE HAGUE, Holland (AP)— Dispatches from Dell, Sumatra, tell of remarkable cures of the opium habit effected by the American Methodist Mission among the Chinese fishing population there. The cure, which is administered internally, takes a fortnight. That the victims are conscious of their vice and only too anxious to be delivered from it is shown by the fact that the tiny mission hospital is booked up for more than six months ahead, and it is declared that 240 patients, most of them complete opium wrecks, have been wholly cured, says the Dell Correspondent.
