POLES PLAN NEW PORT TO RIVAL SEABOARD

GEORGIN, Poland (AP)—Polish interests, with the assistance of French capital, are planning a new port for this port on the Baltic. Polish shipping is to be entered here, according to the plans, avoiding Danzig, and freight will reach Warsaw and other Polish cities over Polish controlled railroads.

GeorGIN, however, is not a natural harbor, so there is much dredging to be done, and breakwaters will have to be built before the harbor is safe in all weathers.

The decision to develop GeorGIN comes as a result of the constant conflicts between the Polish authorities and the free city of Danzig. The Poles aver that their republic is being strangled by Danzig through hostility and high charges, and that they must have a port of their own, even if its development is difficult and comes slowly.

If he advertises it, he knows it's good.

Attracting Industries

As compared with the large city, the smaller community has the stronger attraction for new industries. Land is cheaper, taxes lower, overhead less and labor more stable.

With new industries come new citizens, added growth. Everyone in the community benefits either directly or indirectly through increased markets and property values. And beyond material prosperity is stimulated that wonder-working community power which we know as "Civic Pride."

But to attract new industries, the community must offer ample light, heat and power for industrial and domestic needs, both present and future.

This community enjoys this important advantage, and this company will continue to maintain that advantage for you.

The Line Is Busy

When the telephone operator tells you "the line is busy," this fact has been made known to her by an electric signal, which in the fraction of a second automatically indicates that the line called for is in use. If the operator were compelled to "test" the line at the party called, prompt service would be out of the question.

When "busy" reports are repeated on successive calls for the same number, it is generally due to an immoderate use of the called line. Have confidence in her when she makes the report "the line is busy."

British Divine Takes Flight At Books Written Since 1900

MANCHESTER, Eng. (AP)—Almost all the books worth reading are books which have not been published in the twentieth century, in the opinion of Rev. Garfield H. Williams, secretary of the Missionary Council of the Church Assembly.

Addressing members of the Student Christian Movement conference in Manchester recently Dr. Williams concluded that the attitude toward books as taken today by the modern student is "positively ridiculous." "Unless a book be dated 1924, or possibly 1923," he said, "the modern student, one might say, virtually ignores it altogether."
