in presenting an act, Princess Pawn Eyes & Co., "Original Americans in Harmony," a singing, comedy and dancing number. They are excellent singers and artistic dancers. The act is beautifully costumed and ably presented. Frank Evers in "Class Plus Versatility," a Spanish dancing novelty on a thread of steel with difficult feats and acrobatic stunts that seem impossible but nevertheless are true and done with grace and ease. Orchestra and pictures also featured on the bill.

"Chocolate Soldier" Rated as Very Entertaining. It is pleasing news to local music lovers and theater goers to know that the Brandon Opera company returning to the Arcade theater for two nights starting Monday, March 23, will include "The Chocolate Soldier" in the repertoire and that it will be sung on Tuesday night.

Not within the memory of the oldest patron of the theater has there been a musical play that possessed the combined melodramatic, the extreme romantic interest of story, the quaint beauty of atmospheric embellishment and the uniform excellence that "The Chocolate Soldier" possesses. A combination that proved so irresistible for so many seasons after the opera was first produced.

Buster Keaton's "The Navigator" Is Coming to Sherrys.

Buster Keaton has gone down to the sea in ships. Yes, he's "way out in the briny open spaces where ships are ships and water is wet. His latest Metro-Goldwyn feature comedy is called "The Navigator," and it is coming to the Sherry theater next week. To make it Buster hired an ocean liner and sailed to Catalina Island, where most of the scenes were made at anchor.

The star had the liveliest time in his life doing "The Navigator," and from advance reports, the picture is the liveliest of his career. They put a sailor's suit on Buster, and when he wasn't swabbing decks, he was shoveling coal, tending the boiler, and manning the main and mizzenmasts. To say nothing of the other stunts he thought up for the new picture.

It is reported Keaton went to great personal risk for some of the scenes, so that audiences might have a real thrill. One thing is sure, future applicants for the job of deep-sea diving will determine very much for anyone seeing Buster don a suit and go down in "The Navigator" is likely to feel rather timid about trying it himself.

Added comedy, "South of the No. Pole."

Five Headline Acts Offered in Sunday Vaudeville.

Five headline acts and from advance reports this is one of the best bills offered this season. This mammoth aggregation will be seen at the Arcade theater Sunday next. Norman & Lander in a satirical offering called "Don't Rush Me." Rather properly presented in the very best sort of comedy and this couple has a keen sense of satire which affords a delightful relish. Chas. & Ina McAvoy in "Meeting Sister," Ina McAvoy is a kid impersonator who not only depicts youth, but knows youngsters and her impersonation is a composite of all the kids in the universe. Latell Brothers & Adelaide present a singing, dancing and musical novelty paying every attention to finish and artistry. In this matter, they show the same of class in these two important points.

the satirical comedy "The Arms and the Man," and into the story Oscar Straus, the great composer, has woven more than twenty lasting song hits, some of which are "My Hero," "Sympathy," "Never Was There Such a Lover," "The Tale of a Coat," "That Would Be Lovely" and "The Letter Song."

With "The Bohemian Girl" for the other offering of the two day stand the event should be a gain for local music lovers and theatregoers.

With the excellent Brandon cast and the beautiful scenic costume production that Brandon brothers have given the opera, it has proven to be one of the most popular numbers in the repertoire. The story is from George Bernard Shaw's greatest stage success.

out. There isn't the least doubt but that the admirers of Carey are going to enjoy this new characterization. A change is good for any star.

The picture has a distinct asset in Lillian Rich, who puts over a fine performance in the role of Faith O'Day, a habitue of the Golden Gate underworld. She is an excellent fall for Carey's efforts and also puts considerable pep into her work.

The plot of "Soft Shoes" takes the observer through a series of fights, chases, humorous moments and then more fights. There is much fun in a bedroom scene in which Carey, in the role of Pat Halahan, attempting to return a stolen brooch, is forced to hide under the bed by the unexpected arrival of a husband who is also chief of police. His efforts to prevent sneezing and consequent detection when said husband ties over a powder box in front of his nose, is bound to provoke much merriment. There is a whirlwind finish that puts an end to the forces of evil and bring the lovers together. Mr. Carey and Miss Rich are supported by a good cast which includes Francis Ford, the veteran of serial films; Harriet Hammond, erstwhile Sennett, having beauty; Eo-Jin, the Japanese actor who scores in "The Thief of Bagdad," and others. The production is adequately if not elaborately mounted and can be set down as a good picture.
