FIGHTERS ALL SET FOR GONG THIS EVENING

Sunny Jim to Tackle Tom McCarty in Headline Event; Good Prelims Lined Up.

Sunny Jim, the colored fighter, and his opponent Tom McCarty of San Francisco arrived in La Grande last night and are now waiting the gong for their scheduled 10-round match this evening.

Both boys will weigh in at 158 and are both trained down in fine shape for the match. McCarty is feeling good after his match at Portland the first of the week and Sunny Jim is on edge ready for the fight.

The card includes 14 rounds of fighting beside the main event. Coleman and Daugherty will lead off with a four round bout this evening on a certain raise to start at 8 o'clock.

Sarp and Becker are scheduled for another four rounds following the first preliminary and Firpo Ford and Kelley Barrett fighting at 135 pounds will box a six round semi-final.

Barrett is well box of in Baker and although Ford has not made many starts in the ring locally he is a game fighter and a vicious slugger who can trade haymakers with nearly any of the tough ones.

This will be the first card staged here by the La Grande Athletic club and the first under the new boxing commission and so the fans are expecting a good bill and the promoters are promising that no one will be disappointed.

"Maek" McKim will be brought down from Baker to referee the main event.

Kane said that if DeForest's terms were satisfactory he would close the match at once without waiting for further developments in regard to a match with Harry Willis, negro heavyweight challenger.

BOY, HUNTING, IS KILLED. KLAMATH FALLS, Ore.—Willie Rowen, 14, was shot in the throat and killed almost instantly in the hills near Keno by the accidental discharge of an old shotgun with which he and Alfred Linquist, a playmate, had been hunting jack rabbits. The boy was dead before his youthful companion could summon aid. The two lads had crawled under a homesteader's cabin to rest and had laid the shotgun down against a rock a few feet above them. The gun slipped from the rock and discharged, the full force of the blow striking the boy in the neck. His jugular vein was severed.

An extra note of tragedy was given the affair when it became known that the boy was the main support of a widowed mother and seven children. Friends of the family were subscribing to a fund to aid the family.

BRITISH CREWS MISS YANKEES

OXFORD, England (AP)—For the first time in several years the Oxford crew is without an American oarsman, and the cartoonists who have annually portrayed a crew in horn spectacles with the coxswain smoking a cigar and bawling "atia ho!" must now seek other employment.

The loss of Mellen, the Brannan American who stroked Oxford so well in 1923, though unaccountably last year, is very apparent in this year's boat. Campbell, the Etonian, who is stroking, is a less finished oarsman and lacks Mellen's timing and his hard, quick drive off the stretcher.

With four Etonians in the boat and a coach who captained that school, the work is much after the traditional Eton style, save the "swinging" rowing together up in the boating song is still a rare achievement. Shrewsbury, Railey and Westminster, all noted rowing schools, have each one representative, while Mower-White, the heavyweight of the crew, comes from Rugby.

In the Cambridge crew Etton has three representatives. The Cambridge captain recently resigned because of ill health, and this misfortune, with the resulting uncertainty in the final choice of a crew, has slowed the Cambridge start and made Oxford the present favorites.

Oxford's supposed superiority rests largely upon their neatness and style in paddling a very slow stroke. Though the actual "swinging" rowing is rowed well up in the thirties, both crews have been training at a stroke below 25. Last year Mellen set the stroke too high for the heavy men behind him and they splashed and floundered through, nearly five lengths astern of a light Cambridge crew rowing a slower but loak and rhythmic stroke. With this lesson before them, the Oxford coaches have attempted to give to the lighter squadmates of this year the winning Cambridge style. The result is a polished rowing at 20 strokes to the minute, and rugged rowing at 32.

Oxford's coaching this year has again been in charge of the aged Dr. J. C. Bourne, a Fellow of Merton College, and the Linacre Professor of Anatomy, who rowed for Oxford in 1882-1883.

With the increasing interest and participation in other sports, especially rugby football and tennis, university enthusiasm for rowing has declined. It is still a popular sport, but no longer the one popular sport.

Of past races, Oxford has won 40 and Cambridge 25. In 1877 the crews rowed a dead heat. In 1912 both boats sank at the start and the race was rowed over. The date for this year's event is March 28.

The weights of the two crews are nearly equal, Cambridge averaging a little over 163 pounds a man and Oxford 165 pounds.

92D BIRTHDAY MARKED. MARSHFIELD, Ore.—Anderson Wright, who came across the plains in 1847 and lived in Oregon, when this territory was under dispute between the United States and Great Britain, observed his 92d birthday recently and came to Marshfield from his home near Sumner to stop and attend to business affairs.

Mr. Wright is in good health and his appearance is not such as to suggest he is nearing the century mark. He is active and does his own work about his ranch. Mr. Wright came to Coos county in 1867, and has been a resident here for 57 years.

The man who is "in no sweat" to get his cool Spring underwear is likely to find himself getting all heated up over his carelessness some fine day soon.

It's so easy to be all set.
