La Grande Theatres

Sherrys Featuring "The Snob" Today And Tomorrow.

Much interest attaches itself to "The Snob," the Metro-Goldwyn picture which comes to the Sherry theater. For one thing, it is the latest film production of Monta Bell, the young writer and newspaper editor who became a director overnight, and created a cinema sensation with his first picture, "Broadway After Dark."

For the second part, it sees John Gilbert, the romantic lover of "His Hour," "He Who Gets Slapped," "Cameo Kirby," and many other films, in an unquenchable character.

Contrary to the general attitude of the film leading man, Gilbert was delighted at the opportunity to play the part, as it gave him an opportunity to get away from the sameness of the usual "leading man" part, and to demonstrate his ability to play something more than the routine roles. It is Gilbert's pet theory that a leading man should take every opportunity to vary his characters, and that he must not always appear on the screen as the handsome hero.

The cast for the picture, besides Gilbert, includes Norma Shearer, Conrad Naegeli, Hedda Hopper, Phyllis Haver, Jack Curtis, Alleen Manning, Margaret Seddon and others.

Monta Bell, as well as directing "The Snob," adapted it from Helen R. Markin's novel of the same name, and filmed it under the personal supervision of Harry Hat, associate executive of the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer company.

Comedy showing, "It's a Bear."

"The Back Trail" Showing at Star Theater.

Claude Payton, who plays the part of a gambler in "The Back Trail," Universal picture starring Jack Hoxie and now being screened in the Star theater, appears destined to portray a plottter whenever he appears before the screen. On his previous engagement with Universal he played the part of a man plotting to deprive a woman of her property. This was in "The Riddle Rider" chapterplay.

Now, he seeks, by taking advantage of knowledge of crime on the part of another, to fire that other's participation in a scheme to deprive of her wealth, an adopted daughter. However, in this case the gambler has a change of heart and aids the girl's happiness.

"The Back Trail" was written by Walter J. Coburn, Clifford Smith who made "Highway of Montana," directed. The story has to do with a man who lost his memory as the result of injuries sustained in the late war. He's made to believe that he had committed a number of crimes a few years previously. Then he was induced to try and break his father's will and gain his foster sister.

Barthelmess Calls "Enchanted Cottage" His Best Picture.

"The Enchanted Cottage" is my greatest acting picture."

That's a pretty strong statement for Richard Barthelmess, star of such notable screen successes as "Tollable David" and "The Bright Shawl" to make, yet he is so in earnest about it that he has affixed his signature to the declaration.

"The Enchanted Cottage" is an adaptation of Sir Arthur Wing Pinero's charming post war romance of a crippled young army veteran and a homely little English governess, filmed under the direction of John S. Robertson. May Melvire appears in the leading feminine role opposite the star.

The production, a First National release, will be the attraction at the Arcade Thursday only.

Boxing Becomes Popular Among Students in Japan

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—James K. Flak, state adjutant of the American Legion, has received word that as the result of Legion activities in Tokyo, boxing has been introduced into the curriculum of Japanese military academies.

This came about through a mixed boxing-jiu-jitsu match arranged by the Tokyo post of the legion at the request of General Ugaki, minister of war. An American army

Lloyd Scriber complained Monday evening of not feeling well, also of a sore throat. Dr. Snodder was called and upon making examination was of the opinion that it was diphtheria, but waited until morning when the case had developed beyond the possibility of a doubt. Having had the case at its inception the doctor does not anticipate any great difficulty in keeping it under control.

Last evening at about 7:30 a large hanging lamp in the Kirtley-Lewis barber shop exploded throwing burning oil over the entire front of the room. While the fire was of very short duration there being scarcely five minutes of time elapsing from the first tap of the fire bell to the absolute extinction of the flames by the fire department, the heat was so intense that all the furniture and mirrors were so burned and charred that the loss will be complete. Every mirror was broken and in fact the whole shop is a total wreck.
