

GENERAL'S SON IS HOME AGAIN

Osborne Wood Admits Heavy Gambling Losses in European Resorts; Would Recuparate.

TAMPA, Fla. (AP)—Osborne Wood came back to his native land Tuesday to start all over again. A junior officer on board the federal shipping board vessel "West Chester," on which Wood arrived, said his passenger was "loaded with money."

Wood arrived off Tampa early Tuesday on board the West Chester and was brought up the bay on a private yacht. He discussed his reported gambling losses at European resorts freely and loudly laughed at the reports that when he boarded the West Chester in Cadix, Spain, his fortune, estimated at approximately one million dollars, had dwindled to two $1 bills.

"It is true that during the four months in Europe I threw away a large portion of the winnings on Wall street in gambling resorts," the son of Major General Leonard Wood, governor of the Philippines, said.

"But I still have plenty—enough not to worry," he said.

"Will Tackle Wall Street."

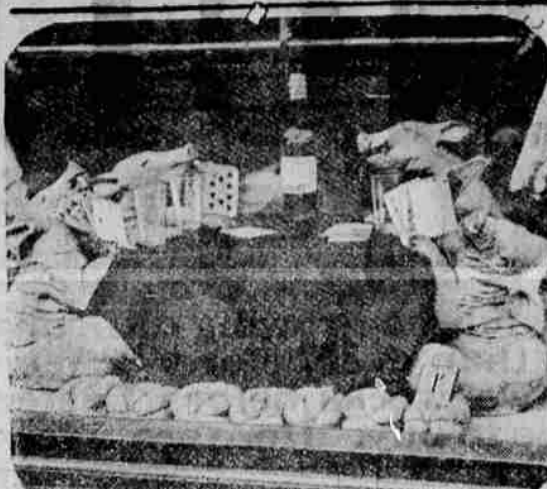

"If I have the same luck through my Wall street broker that I did a short time ago, I think I will be able to recover what I lost during my stay in Europe," he continued.

Wood declined to state the exact amount of his losses, but would attempt to make an estimate of the largest amount lost in a single night. "What's the use to talk about it now. Whenever it comes easy—easy it goes," he declared.

"A clean cut sport," added the chief engineer.

The spending orgy started, he said, shortly after he arrived in Paris last year. He left Manila after he resigned from the United States army and took a trip through the Suez canal. "Just to take a look at things," he said.

"His luck stayed with him until he went to Athens, Greece, and there he lost heavily. A trip back to Paris, thence to Deuville, Barcelona, then again to Paris, thence to Madrid, Barcelona, Saragosa, and another hop back to Madrid "failed to change my luck," he said. In Barcelona he met officers of the West Chetao and decided to return to America.

"I was in no hurry to leave, except I met up with this bunch of good fellows and decided that it would be better to come across on a freighter than on a regular passenger ship loaded down with over-laden passengers," he declared.

Radio Chats

(By Powell Crossley, Jr.)
 Those guiding the destinies of radio in America should have these as their objectives:
 A radio in every home.
 The constant improvement of radio programs.
 The one thing that may curb the American public's enthusiasm in radio is the abuse of radio broadcasting.
 It is interesting to note already the influence of radio upon American tastes.

Jazz has its place in American musical tastes. It is the only distinctive American music we have. It is today by far the most popular of all forms of music in the United States. But there are good jazz orchestras and bad ones. And the bad ones which consist of a "one-piece" and a "hump-thump" are the ones that decrease interest in the better ones.

This jazz can be overdone and has been. That is why the American public is asking for better music. It is getting really interested in the better known of the grand opera, the standard overtures and the classics of years gone by. It is a good sign. One need never fear about the future of a country which is genuinely interested in good music. And good music does not mean the extinction of jazz.

Stations must exercise judgment in the amount of jazz that is broadcast. And the exercise of judgment is the one thing needed to direct rightly the destinies of radio.
