HERRIOT DEFENSE COURSE.

FONTAINEBLEAU France (By the Associated Press)— Premier Herriot spoke Sunday at a luncheon at which 2000 covers were laid and asserted that he was ready to make every sacrifice for his country. He gave warning to his adversaries that the battle was on and that the forces which were victorious at the elections on May 11, last, would never capitulate before them— then vanquished.

In the course of a long speech, M. Herriot, claimed credit for his foreign policy of peace with dignity and reiterated his faith in the Geneva protocol, which he said was for people what the declaration of rights was for individuals.

The premier contended that it was audacious to blame the present government for the country's financial difficulties; these were due to its predecessors, who had resorted to borrowing and other expedients to balance budgets, this deluding the public and leaving the task of finding a settlement to their successors.

Great Debt Piled Up.

When he took office, he went on, the long term, or perpetual, debt amounted to more than 149,000,000,000 francs, the short term debt to 27,000,000,000 and the floating debt to 91,000,000,000, a total of nearly 278,000,000,000. To this must be added the foreign debt, concerning which he had opened negotiations with England. M. Herriot omitted any reference to Frances' debt to the United States.

"A country with such a floating debt," he said, "is no longer at liberty with regard to its interior policy; a country with such a foreign debt is no longer at liberty with regard to its external policy. I refuse all right of criticism to those who piled up for 1925 a total of payments to the amount of 21,000,000,000,000 francs."

The premier dealt with the proposed capital levy in general terms and continued:

"The time of illusion is past; no miracle will solve the problem created by the size of our debt. France is not a country which can accept summary measures, to which other states have resorted. I see no means to escape certain sacrifices."

Mrs. H. R. Odell Dies.

Oregon Agricultural College, Corvallis—Mrs. H. R. Odell, wife of Major H. R. Odell of the military department here, died following the birth of a son. She was the daughter of the late Governor Lister of Washington.

Major and Mrs. Odell were married in Tacoma, Mrs. Odell's home, four years ago, and have been in Corvallis since that time. Major Odell, John Lister of Tacoma, brother and student at the college, and another son 1 1-2 years old, survive Mrs. Odell.
