Hazel Switch Vindicated When Diggers Find Water.—PROBLETZ, Czechoslovakia, (AP)—The people of Probletz no longer doubt the efficacy of the diving rod as a means of locating water under the surface of the earth. They have had a demonstration, they aver, which is conclusive.

Indly in need of a water supply three years ago the town employed Heinrich Ote, a local expert with the diving rod, to locate a well. He did so, but a shaft 90 feet deep gave nothing but dry soil, and the project was abandoned.

The town managed to get along until this winter, when existing supplies became so scant that Heinrich again was called in. He walked about with his diving rod and as he passed over the old well the story goes, the hazel switch was actually pulled out of his hands.

Town workmen went to the bottom of the old shaft, dug down six feet more, and found an abundant supply.
