Deafness Preventable, Not Curable.
(By Dr. F. D. Stricker)

At least four-fifths of deafness can be prevented if proper treatment is instituted at the onset of the trouble. A gradual and increasing impairment of hearing deserves immediate attention. Any slowness of the ears if not checked another or corrected may lead to a startling and progressive impairment of the hearing. The prevalence of deafness in the United States is appalling. There are over one million deaf persons in this country and the majority of them become deaf during childhood. One out of every six school children has defective hearing. Many persons are seriously and needlessly incapacitated by deafness. Deafness is increasing and some steps are necessary to remedy hearing.

The diseases and traumas which result in deafness are: Catarrhal and purulent middle ear. Neurosis caused by overwork or worry. Otosclerosis, beginning in middle life, hearing and make the deaf hear again. Exorbitant prices are charged for simple prescriptions that are often worthless if not harmful for the condition described.

Ear Disorders

Disorders of the ear may originate in or follow impairment due to diseases of the throat, structure of the nostrils and the nose. A perfect hearing, unimpaired ears should be given to young persons whose hearing should be examined by the competent ear and throat specialist at the age of fourteen or fifteen years. Deafness can be prevented in early stages, considered in all deafness. The ear drum is destroyed, it is frequently inflamed and contains a serum or pus which is discharged to the external canal and from the nose itself.

1. Prevent deafness by consulting a physician who will refer to proper hearing specialist for ears, nose and throat.

2. Protect ears of the nose and throat will prevent most of the deafness.

3. Prevent as far as possible any impairment of the nose and throat.

4. Keep yourself in health by breathing correctly in relation with nose the way. Use proper breathing.

5. Diseases, especially in childhood, of the nose, throat or ears should be treated promptly and thoroughly.

6. All disturbances of the ear should be referred to a competent physician or a competent aurist.

7. A yearly test of examination of the hearing should be made by a competent physician or a competent aurist.

8. Prevention of the deafness is necessary to good health and to prevent accident and suffering and
